The Farmers Trouble.

Once we heard of a story of an old maid who was so particular that she would not drink water at the table from the pitcher that others drank from or use a glass cleaned by another, but would clean her glass and pitcher, fill them with water and put them at her place each meal and after she would go out the servant would go in and take a drink from her glass and refill it. This is almost repeated by the farmer with the selling of his farm crops. He is so particular about selling his own products and not abiding his rights that he will not listen to his real friends who want to help him succeed in life, and through this skepticism falls easy prey to the speculator and system of waste that keeps him the slave he denies he is through life. We know the farmer has been duped many times and is in a measure justified in some of his superstitions, but we also know he should be intelligent enough to listen to argument and reason and see into a proposition for his good. It is also true that generally speaking there is a strong prejudice among farmers against the towns and business men, especially time merchants and banks. This is entirely uncalled for and misplaced. The towns and business men realize that the more money the farmer makes the more money they can make. The time merchant realizes that the more money the farmer makes the more he can sell him and collect for. The bankers know that the more the farmer makes the larger will be their deposits. So it is a real and sincere motive on the part of business men to assist the farmers on a better day. You may consider it selfish, if you wish and even though selfish it may be, it should be appreciated because it will bring better conditions to the farmer.

Do you call it sacrificing your liberty when you can chafe from a system that you sell at whatever price the other fellow will give and buy at whatever price he will pay for a system that you can set your price bearing a reasonable profit on your article, just as the fellow does from whom you buy? Is it possible that your idea of liberty is to enslave yourself, your wife and children from year end to year end, go half fed and half clothed, to make crops the world cannot do without and saying nothing for your labor, not get enough money for it to pay your fertilizer and store account, that others may become millionaires. Is it possible that your idea of liberty would require you to live a life of hard labor and half care, always being broke, and at the same time let the other fellow who buys and handles your product, live easy, well cared for and always with money, and to spare, his wife and children free from the cares of drudgery of home and enjoying the life that God gave them? Is it possible that you think your liberty requires you to toil labor the whole year through while those who handle your crops take vacations at the seashore or the mountains? We don't believe there is a farmer in Orange County who entertains such an idea. Then why shouldn't you have these liberties and successes as much as the fellow who, possibly, never touches product? Why shouldn't the farmers get together and handle their own crops and get this additional profits that they may enjoy modern conveniences in their homes and take summer vacations.

The biggest trouble we know is there are so many farmers who are afraid that some one is trying to put something over on him, trying to take what he has not away from him and in fact we some times wonder if they go out on moonshiny nights for fear that their shadow will ask a taken of them. The lack of confidence some farmers have in their fellow man is enough to make life a living hell for them. How they get any comfort out of life is more than we can see. They surely can't expect the world to hand them a living on a silver platter. They have been waiting long enough for that, and like the fellow who started to the end of the rainbow for the bag of gold, are still waiting. Its time to wake up. The cows are in the corn. They will certainly not stop eating it because you will need it next year. You will have to drive them out.

A big effort by broad minded business men and others has been made to help the farmer to help himself. These efforts have sought out the best methods known to the world and prepared them to fit the needs of the Southern farmer and is now offering it to them. Because these men know that the farmer must succeed in order that everything else succeed. There was a time when business ap-had no business with money and that the community would be better off without successful farmers, but that time has passed and in its stead has developed the true idea that the more successful the farmer the more successful the business man. It is this idea that is carrying the Cooperative Marketing Associations to farmers and not the idea so general among the farmers that someone is trying to take everything they have. Farmers need these organizations. The world sees it. The government has recognized it by offering to loan them money. The State has recognized it by conducting investigations and putting the extension department behind it. Banks, lawyers, doctors, merchants, papers and business in general has recognized it by putting their time and effort toward fully informing the farmer and advising him. Its up to the farmers to put aside your prejudices and skepticisms and join hands with your fellow farmer for better conditions with the farmer and with business interests for a bigger and better State.

THE UNCONQUERABLE SOUL OF MAN

Hosts of persons throughout Christendom believe that the world war was inflicted for disciplinary purposes, reading in that tidal wave of blood, death, suffering and hate the anger of an offended Heaven. Others trace in every circumstance of it the logical, inevitable results of human folly, base ambitions, greed wrong thinking, ignorance. Some attribute all to basic biologic instincts that extend throughout the animal kingdom, an essential part of animal nature.

The resultant of the effect upon religion is for the future to disclose. There are revivals of faith on every hand. The country is full of revivalists, the multitudes are stirred to religious fervor; the simple doctrines of repentance, salvation, through faith, eternal death in the fire of hell—in short what is termed old-throngs no less of power and appeal. On the other hand, one reason for the decline in the number of ministerial students is found to be in the questions seared upon the souls of men by the experiences of recent religious speculation, it may be pointed out that the effects of the causes that came into operation with the invasion of Belgium have been joined by terrible currents flowing from other causes and that the scourging of humanity whether one employ that term in a literal or a figurative sense—has but little abated since the conclusion of actual hostilities on a large scale in Europe. The storm center of death and anguish has indeed moved into the east and the far east. Warfare has been continuous. Famine and pestilence have made desolate district after a few weeks ago we were trying to realize the horror of the remote China famine. Now 20 millions are affected by the famine in the Volga district of Russia and there is reason to believe that no human effort can prevent at least 2,000,000 dying of hunger. The population of this vast country is in flight towards Silesia and the Kirghiz steppes. It is said that a deserted area nearly as large as Europe outside of Russia will be left in southeastern Russia and the adjoining Asiatic Russian territories. Two million persons are fleeing toward the Caucasus, the Crimea and eastern Europe, following the track of the great transmigration that took place after the fall of the Roman empire. The remnant of this human wave are expected to strike the frontier of eastern Europe in about a year. The scenes are described as "the most amazing witnessed in a thousand years."

But these major tragedies of all history have evoked the greatest charities in all human history. The American Relief Association, which was first organized for relief work in Belgium, is declared by Mr. Hoover its head, to be ready to begin to furnish food to children and invalids of Russia at a few hours' notice. It has never ceased its ministrations. It has stores of food in Europe, it has a personnel that may be instantly made available, supplies would move at once from the nearest warehouse and at the same time supplies would start from this country and wherever they might be obtained, arriving at the distribution points as the nearest supplies became exhausted. It is realized that those in sections remote from the transportation lines could not be reached. They must perish.

Courage has remained undaunted, resources have never failed. No disaster, no combination of disasters, have been sufficient to bring despair. Pestilence and famine have been met and fought with unflinching spirit. They were defeated in the near east, and millions, especially of children intended victims of famine have been saved to Europe's citizenship. No other such struggle against the forces of nature has been made by man as that which conquered famine in China this year. The Red Cross, the China Famine organization, have led the forces in combat against despair and have reflected a light of beauty and glory in the dark and terrible pictures. The soul of mankind remains unconquerable.

Every human institution has trembled to the impact of the storms of these latter years. Voices are heard crying that religion is dying and that morality is passing. In every group there are violent fermentations, and there are monotonous chronicles of crime and insanity. Yet he who wishes to see, who is at all capable of discerning, will find everywhere men and women upon whom the pressure of the times has but operated to bring out the finer qualities of the race, some in untroubled tranquility studying the others with a masterful strength and zeal and devotion applying remedies as directed; and there is never a moment's cessation of the toil and striving to build a nobler structure of civilization, to build so that the future of mankind shall be happier than ever its past has been.

CASH Clearance Sale. CASH.

Owing to our unprecedented Summer School trade we do not have as much stock to move but we have quite a lot which must go regardless of price for cash or barter, but not charged to any one. Our limited space does not allow a complete enumeration, but if you will come and look over the tables you will be repaid. In the Oxfords many small sizes 3 to 4 1/2, but some larger sizes. Our Buyers leave next week for the Northern Markets, and these goods must get out of the way.

OXFORDS, PUMPS,
White, Patent, Kid.

40 prs white Oxfords that sold from $4.50 to $5.00, go at $5.98. 21 prs. one strap white Pumps, regular $6.00 grade, all go at $3.98. 26 prs. Veranda Pumps, in the regular $2.50 grade at $1.50. 14 prs. Kid and Patent Pumps regular $6.00 grade at $3.48c. 100 prs. child's, mixed up, odds and ends at any old price, bring the NO returns. VOILES, BATIST, ORGANDIES.

4 p.es. Fancy Voiles, came in late, 50c grade, at 25c yd. 2 pes. Polka Dot Batists, 60c grade, at 27 1/2c yard.

NEW GINGHAMS, NEW MADRAS,
NEW DEVONSHIRES.

As we sweep out the odds and ends we open up the new up-to-date stuff. The prettiest line of Gingham we have ever shown, 25 to 35c, Black check Percales, the latest fad, only 25c yard. Devonshire, in all colors. The Early Gingham buyer will be the lucky one. Pretty and good brands of Gingham are scarce and be hard to get later. The strikes, short production, and industrial unrest has cut production, in addition to the fact that the war left the mills loaded with War goods which were no good and will not sell now. While the old man's away, Try Jack and John, they will do you good, sell you cheap.

In which we double-cross a master mind

TALK ABOUT dime novels.
THEY SENT Jim down.
TO TEXAS to investigate.
SOME OIL wells there.
WHICH THEY might buy.
IF JIM said O.K.
AND HE was to report.
BY WIRE in secret code.
NOW—ENTER the villain.
A SLIPPERY crook.
GOT WIND of it.
AND TRAILED Jim down.
COPIED OFF his code.
AND BRIBED a boob.
IN THE telegraph branch.
SO THE crook could get.
THE EARLIEST word.
AND CORNER stock.
AND WORK a hold-up.
IT LOOKED like easy coin
BUT JIM got wise.

AND THREW away his code.
AND WHEN he sent.
THE FINAL dope.
HE FOILED the villain.
THE MESSAGE just said.
"CHESTERFIELD."
AND HIS directors knew.
THAT ALL was well.
WITH THOSE oil wells.
FOR OIL men know.
THAT "CHESTERFIELD" means.
"THEY SATISFY."

YOU'LL know you're "struck it rich" when you discover Chesterfields. You'll say "they satisfy." A wonderful blend—the pick of Turkish and Domestic tobaccos—put together in the Chesterfield way—that's why "they satisfy." And the Chesterfield blend can not be copied!

Did you know about the Chesterfield package of 10?
