HIGH SCHOOL BEGINS MONDAY

Attendance Will be Larger than Last Year. Several New Teachers Added to Faculty.

The Chapel Hill Graded School will open for the 1921-1922 session Monday, September 12th. The addition which the Board is making to the building will not be ready until early October, but the plans are to use parts of the auditorium for recitation rooms for the upper grades for two or three weeks. There will be a bigger enrollment this year, indications are, than the school has ever known. More people will live in Chapel Hill this winter than have before been here, and the 7th grade graduates of Southern Orange county are showing keen interest in going on with their work in high school. Every year the school gets a larger growth of pupils from the country than it drew the year before, but this year the addition of vocational agriculture to the curriculum has had real pulling power with the country boy.

The large enrollment of last year the school reached an even 400 has resulted in the addition of two teachers to the faculty, one with grades and one in agriculture in the high school.

There will be a number of changes in the faculty this year, due among other things to the financial pulling power of some of the larger city schools, Wilmington getting one of last year's teachers and Gastonia two. Of last year's faculty, Misses Green, Gardner, Shell, Frost, and Bowen will again be back. During the summer Miss Green taught at the Thomasville Orphanage and Miss Gardner was principal of the University Department School. Miss Shell studied at Columbia, and Miss Bowen at Harvard. Miss Frost has been at home at Grand Ledge, Michigan.

Teachers who come to Chapel Hill for the first time this fall include Miss Florence V. Penick, of Lynchburg, Va., Miss Cora J. Moss, of Franklinton, N. C., Miss Rosa McMaster, of Waynesboro, Ga., Miss Vera Ward, of Lake Junaluska, N. C., Mr. R. N. Ledford, of Hot Springs, N. C., Mrs. G. D. Sample, of Roxboro, N. C., and Mr. R. P. Harris, of Louisville, N. C. Superintendent Morrison, thinks that the school has a strong, competent faculty.

Due to the prevalence of smallpox in this section and to the large number of new comers in the community, it will be necessary to require vaccination of all pupils who have not already been successfully vaccinated opportunity to meet this requirement will be given the first week of school. All new pupils are requested so far as possible to present themselves at the school with books they studied last year, Friday or Saturday morning of this week for the purpose of proper classification. The old pupils will report Monday morning at 8:30. After the enrollment of pupils and assignment of work Monday morning, short formal opening exercises will be held in the auditorium. All parents, patrons, members of the parent-teacher association, and every one else interested, are invited to attend these exercises. They will close promptly at 11:30 and will close by 12:15. Supt. R. H. Clayton, of the county schools, has promised to be present and make a short talk.

YOUNG RIGGSBEE DIED FROM HIS INJURIES

Master Edmond Riggsbee, Jr., 12-year-old son of Dr. A. E. Riggsbee, of Cary, died at the Watts hospital, Durham, one day last week, from injuries received in an automobile accident on the Cary-Morrisville road, when the steering wheel of a truck which he was driving home from school, the truck running into a ditch and throwing him out. His leg was caught between the running board and the bank and his foot was almost cut off at the ankle joint. Three of his sisters, Clair, Madge and Doris Riggsbee, and an elder brother, A. J. Riggsbee, aged 16, were thrown from the truck when it struck the ditch and were considerably bruised, but none sustained serious injuries.

All to God.

You should frequently arouse within yourself the desire to give to God all the faculties of your soul—that is, of your mind, to know Him and think of Him, and of your will, to love Him; and further seek to consecrate all your outward senses to Him in all their actions.—Fenelon.

GOV. MORRISON TO BE IN CHAPEL HILL

Town and County Conference to Bring Distinguished Speakers. People of Chapel Hill Especially Invited!

Many people of Chapel Hill and neighborhood are already looking forward with pleasure to the coming Town and County Conference to be held here on September 19, 20, 21, not only for the general meetings but for the special addresses of leaders in this and other states.

Morrison to be Here

Citizens of Chapel Hill are especially invited to hear Governor Cameron Morrison speak at Gerrard Hall on the evening of the 19th when he will take as his subject "Active Citizenship and Government." This address will be one of the highest attractions offered to Chapel Hill and will open the season with enthusiasm. Brooks, Rankin, Johnson to Speak. One rarely gets the chance in Chapel Hill to hear Sate Superintendent E. C. Brooks, Dr. W. N. Rankin, Secretary of the State Board of Health, and Mrs. Clarence A. Johnson, Commissioner of Public Welfare all in one day. This is the opportunity offered however, on the second day. Members of the Parent-Teacher Association and the Community Club are especially invited on Tuesday night at Gerrard Hall to hear discussed Health, Education, Public Welfare.

Other features of the conference will be described next week.

ELM GROVE ITEMS

The drouth is getting serious in this section, springs and wells and streams are drying up. New Hope has ceased to run in several places. Mr. Emsley Donald, of Greensboro, visited his nephew, Mr. M. C. Patterson recently.

Mr. Clay Walton, wife and daughter, of Danville, Va., visited Mr. Mrs. Walton's cousin, J. M. Lloyd recently. Saturday last was the hottest day for many years in this section, the thermometer registered 99 in the shade.

Moving has been the order in this section for the past week, some of the families who have been at work the Gray saw mill have moved away. Messrs. Scarlette and Broughton have moved to Mr. Herbert Lloyd's houses, M. G. Smith has moved back to his place and Mr. Homer Lucas has moved from Salisbury to the new house on his place.

The big pile of slabs at Mr. Knight's saw mill on the east side of Scarlette's mountain, burned Friday night, which made quite a fire for several hours. Caught from engine, no other damage done.

Misses Claudie and Ola Cates, of Bethel section and Viola Long, of Chapel Hill, visited Mrs. J. M. Lloyd recently.

Mary Adams returned to her home at Mebane last week after several weeks stay in this section.

Mrs. John P. Cole and children, of Raleigh, spent a few days recently with their cousin, Mr. M. C. Patterson.

Mrs. R. H. Morgan and children visited her father, Mr. H. McCauley at Mebane recently.

Mr. R. P. Blackwood is nursing a sore hand, caused by getting needle in some waste broken off in it. Dr. Hayes got the part out and we trust it will soon be O. K.

Mr. T. H. McCauley was a Raleigh visitor recently, seems to be some great attraction down there for him.

We suggest that the highway from Hillsboro to Chapel Hill, be named the "Cornwallis Highway" as it was the route he traveled. There are some logs in the bottom of the stream where the road was, on Mrs. G. Smith's place, tradition says Cornwallis put there to get his artillery across during the Revolutionary war. This is about 50 yards below the bridge at J. M. Lloyd's saw mill, they are 4 or 5 feet below the surface. I see in the Greensboro Daily News names being suggested, why I suggest this.

Dr. D. I. Craig and daughter, Miss Louise, returned to their home at Reidsville last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter McGee, from Little River, Mr. and Mrs. Kernie Lloyd and children from Orange church, attended services at New Hope and visited their sister, Mrs. W. A. Craig the 4th Sunday.

Several are on the sick list, but trust they will soon be O. K.

Miss Mattie Blackwood left for Seaboard last Saturday to resume her duties as primary teacher in the school there.

Mr. Vester Morgan, Cary, spent Saturday night and Sunday with his brother, Mr. R. H. Morgan.

Refreshing showers fell in this section Monday.

MUNICIPAL CHIEFS MEET CHAPEL HILL

Will Talk Finance at Conference on Town and County Administration.

The mayors and city managers of the principal cities of North Carolina have accepted invitations to take part in the conference on town and county administration to be held at the University September 19, 20 and 21. This gives the meeting a definite and immediate practical value, among others, in connection with the coming special sessions of the legislature, called for the special purpose of relieving municipal finances in this state.

It is announced that one of the leading national authorities upon municipal finance legislation, Arthur N. Pierson, of New Jersey, would attend the conference. He will not limit himself to one set address, but will remain through the conference and put himself at the disposal of city officials for discussion of all subjects in which he can give aid. Mr. Pierson is the author of the municipal bond act of New Jersey, the so-called Pierson budget act, and other measures which are considered models in this field of legislation.

Through the active participation of municipal government experts inside the state, as well as the eminent visitors from outside, it is now hoped to present a body of information, condensed and well arranged, that will enable the legislature to put through a statute that will meet the needs of municipalities for years to come if this can be accomplished, it means a big gain of time, and would probably provide a permanent relief and also allow for a more satisfactory municipal financing by the people.

Among the mayors who are expected at the conference are James Hanes of Winston-Salem, J. O. Walker, of Charlotte; James Cowan, of Wilmington; Claude Kiser, of Greensboro; T. B. Eldridge, Raleigh; Ballatin Roberts, of Asheville; J. M. Manning, of ham; A. E. White, of Lumberton; C. H. Sterling, of Washington; E. R. Mackenthon, of Fayetteville; D. M. Clark, of Greenville; John E. Stephenson of Bellhaven; J. W. Graham, of Aberdeen; and others. City managers T. C. Painter, of Greensboro; R. C. Riggsby, of Durham; R. G. Henry, of Hickory; and William Rich, of Goldsboro, will come, too. Goldsboro will be represented also by Lionel Weil, chairman of the finance committee of the board of aldermen, and a number of city attorneys and auditors are expected. Mayor Robertson, of Chapel Hill, will deliver an address of welcome to city officials.

Topics so far announced include "Financial Problems of North Carolina Towns To-day," Mr. Roberts; "Examples of Progress in North Carolina," by the three city managers, Mr. Painter, Mr. Riggsby and Mr. Henry; "The Commission Form of Government," by Mr. Cowan, and Eldridge; and "The Scientific Budget in Municipal Administration," by Mr. Weil. Mr. Eldridge will respond to the question, "Is it Safe to Take Liberties with Laws Relating to Municipal Taxation in Anticipation of Curative Legislation?" and an analysis of the present finance act will be made. Mayors will report on conditions and recent achievements in their cities and will take part in the interchange of suggestions for remedial legislative action.

It is not only immediate financial difficulties that will be discussed at the conference, though these because of the present critical situation of North Carolina cities, will no doubt be the main features of interest. There will be thorough consideration of programs of education, health, recreation and highway construction and other enterprises that fall within the

LET'S MAKE IT WIDER

The width of the new concrete road through town will be only 18 feet. The proposition of making it 40 feet wide from the postoffice to the Brockwell building has fallen flat. The cost of the additional width would have had to be met by the town, by the bond issue route. The plan decided upon now is to build a sand-clay strip 12 feet wide on each side of the concrete strip. This means mud in wet weather and dust in dry times at a considerable cost and time to build. Chapel Hill never had a better opportunity to get the main street paved and be free from dust and mud for all time to come than it has at present, and at much less cost than ever again. Shall we let it pass and regret it for years afterwards? Every business man in town should get behind the movement to have main street paved

AMERICAN LEGION MEETING SUCCESS

Two Chapel Hill Men Attend as Delegates. Greater Work Planned for Coming Year.

Chas. E. Gooch and L. J. Phipps, a few days ago returned from Hendersonville, N. C., where they went as delegates from Chapel Hill Post No. 6, American Legion, to the State Convention of the American Legion. They reported a fine time and an inspiring meeting of ex-service men.

The American Legion is an organization composed of ex-service men and women of the World War. The Legion in North Carolina numbers 6 and 7 thousand members out of a total number eligible for membership of 88 thousand. The big task of the Legion in Orange County this year will be getting these men lined up with the Legion in its work. On August 30th in an editorial in the News and Observer Josephus Daniels wrote "The day shall not be far distant when every young man who served in the World War should enroll as a member thus giving an impetus for making the organization as powerful an organization for patriotic service in peace as its members were able to save the world by their decisive strength in 1917-18. If I could get the ear of every member of the American Expeditionary Forces and every man who wore Uncle Sam's uniform, in those critical days, I would urge him to stick to his comrades and help to make the Legion the greatest power for good in America today and tomorrow and all the tomorrows."

Convention Very Successful. The Hendersonville convention of the Legion, August 26 and 27, was pronounced to be one of the most successful assemblies in North Carolina; about five hundred delegates and other representatives of the American Legion and of the Women's Auxiliary of the Legion traveled while the opportunity is at hand, get busy, roll up your sleeves and do not stop work until you are assured that the main street of our town is paved. There is not a town in the State that would allow this splendid opportunity to pass. Call a meeting of the citizens and let's talk the matter over and plan some way to have the concrete poured from curb to curb. Get after the men behind the road building movement in the State, ask them to attend the meeting and put the question squarely up to them that the State ought to take an interest in this proposition.

from every section of the State to join in this third annual convention of the North Carolina Department of the Legion. The addresses delivered and the other proceedings of the convention were both instructive and inspiring. An unusual spirit of good fellowship and of service to others prevailed both within and without the convention hall. The messages of the Hon. Josephus Daniels, Governor Morrison, Col. Charles R. Forbes, Director of the Veterans' Bureau; Col. Alvin M. Owsley, national director of the Americanism Commission of the Legion, made an invaluable contribution to the cause of the ex-service men in this State and particularly to the work of the Legion in behalf of the disabled ex-service men and the fostering of one hundred percent Americanism.

Greater work has been planned for the Legion in the State during the coming year. The new commander, Thomas W. Bird, of Asheville, is well acquainted with the conditions prevailing in the Hospitals for disabled ex-service men in this State and we may look for good work done for their relief.

Now the thing for the ex-service men in Orange County and the Northern part of Chatham County to do is join the local Post of the American Legion as speedily as possible. Send your application to the Adjutant or Commander of the Chapel Hill Post No. 6, American Legion, Chapel Hill, N. C., today.

Watch these columns for other news of interest to ex-service men next week.

STUDENTS ADOPT CODE OF ETHICS

Herman Horn Classes at University Defines "Gentle Manner and Good Breeding."

Pessimists who deprecate the forwardness of the modern girl, to say nothing of the morals of the modern young man, may take heart after reading the code of ethics adopted by the students of Professor Herman H. Horn's ethics classes at New York University. Prof. Horn is a North Carolinian, a native of Clayton, and was prominently mentioned as a suitable successor of the late Dr. E. K. Graham as president of the University of North Carolina. Ten commandments of polite conduct and four more for full measure have been adopted by the young men and women of these classes after a general discussion as to what constitutes general manners and good breeding. The consensus of opinion was that the code to which the young people desired to subscribe might be summarized as follows:

"The deepest appeal of woman to man is modesty, of man to woman is chivalry. A true man loves refinement in woman; a true woman loves knightlines in man. Men like to be treated with respect, women with courtesy.

"The secret of winsomeness, of loveliness in women, being primarily spiritual, not physical, it is a mistake to put foremost the physical appeal. The soul is more than the body.

"All the graceful curves of woman's figure mean but one thing: preparatory motherhood. Hence her limbs, her hips, her bosom. She is Eve, the Mother of Man. Concealing is more proper here than revealing. The true woman is not willing to cast her pearls before swine, even to follow an extreme style. These intimate, personal characteristics are for the one, not the many.

"Clothes should protect, not expose. Of course always, Honi soit qui mal y pense, mais aussi, voir, c'est penser.

"Men are naturally inclined to think of sex too much anyhow. It would help most men to clean minded if women dressed more modestly.

"Good taste requires that styles be modified to suit the proper expression of one's individual personality. When a college student, dress as becomes a college student.

"Costumes should not try to make up for beginning late by ending early.

"A noble Chinese girl with bound feet might well look with pity upon the super-high heels of some of our girls. She at least does not have to try to walk and work.

"Let's remember the economic side of the style question. In frequency of style changes 'all the traffic will bear is the trade motto.

"No self-respecting couple dancing together cares to imitate the suggestiveness of the seductive dance hall.

"Cheek should not rest against cheek, nor body against body, and all motions should suggest poetry and beauty, not sex.

"Many girls dancing immodestly are unaware of the significance of what they do.

"It is not against styles, cosmetics, costuming and dancing that we speak, but in behalf of good taste in their use.

"Boys, let's remember our mothers and be courteous to the girls every time. And to every woman! Courtesy in fact, not merely in form. Keep your hands to yourself. And, girls, play the game of life fair with the boys.

What makes the code more interesting and significant is that it was adopted by young men and women who look from their class-room windows out upon that center of New York Bohemianism known as Greenwich Village. When New York University was founded nearly a century ago its home was on Washington Square which forms one boundary of the Village. Although New York University now has its center far up in the northern portion of Greater New York, several of its schools are still maintained on the original site, and it was these schools that threw the foregoing challenge to Bohemianism across Washington Square.

When you come right down to reason, what is there to "discount" tires —

THE next time a friend comes to you all excited about some wonderful tire bargain—ask him how much value he ought to get for each dollar of tire money.

It's astonishing that any car owner today should not know all the tire service he is entitled to.

Nor how to check up between the economy of par quality on one hand—and big discounts, surplus stocks, discontinued lines and retreads on the other.

For two years U. S. Tire makers have been telling the American people all about tires.

They have laid open the tire business from every angle.

They have always led the fight for better tires.

They have consistently maintained quality first standards with certain economy for the tire buyer.

They have established 92 Factory Branches all over the country. Perfecting U. S. distribution so that you get a fresh, live tire every time you buy a U. S. Tire.

So when a man once decides on U. S. Tires he knows what he is getting in quality—service—economy.

In support of his own judgment he gets the pledged word and reputation of the largest and most successful tire concern in the world.

A sound reason for the fact that you see more U. S. Tires on more cars than ever this year.

"You get a fresh, live tire every time you buy a U. S. Tire."

The U. S. CHAIN TREAD

One of the few tires of which it may be said that they deliver economy year in and year out and tire after tire.
