WHAT REDUCE TAXES?

Much has been said about the advisability of reducing taxes, but pointing a need and accomplishing the result seem to be vastly different. There's the case in Michigan, for instance. The Automobile Club is sponsoring a petition to reduce gasoline taxes and motor vehicle registration fees. Taxes are preventing people from driving their cars, from buying new machines, argues the club. Reduce the taxes put cars on the road, revenue in the treasury, and business in the automobile factories, it advises.

The club has been obtaining signatures of its petition at gasoline filling stations, the logical place since every motorist stops for supplies sooner or later. Indications now are, according to recent reports, that more than the legally sufficient number of signatures has been obtained.

Officialdom, however, doesn't like the idea. Road commissioners have notified filling station proprietors to "pull in those petition blanks or lose government business." A recent news item from the capitol at Lansing said oil company representatives would be called to a conference with state officials and told plainly that unless the petition was withdrawn from circulation they would be prohibited from bidding for state business. The governor said he wouldn't attend, but warned that if these taxes are reduced, the taxpayers must expect substitute levies!

Shades of Washington, Jefferson, Hancock, and Adams, to say nothing of Roosevelt, past and present! What is this country coming to when elected officials tell those who elected them to office they cannot have tax reduction? What is officialdom coming to that it assumes the authority to tell business whether it shall accommodate its customers?

If the situation in Michigan is any indication, office holders are not in the mood for tax reduction. Evidently they will insist that the taxpayers shall pay and pay and pay. And upon what then will the taxpayers insist? Well, it looks as if regardless of whatever they decide to insist upon they'd better get started or officialdom will be telling them they can't even decide to insist.

Fresh Air and a Job--Do You Know How Lucy You Are?

Sometimes you get very tired of your job.

Same old routine, same old result, same old tracks, going home.

Well, why don't you vary the way home if it becomes monotonous?

There must be more than one street, if you walk, and it would not hurt you at all to go one block out of your way for the sake of variety.

Get tired of meeting the same people, even on the streets, going to and from work for a change.

There are thousands just like you, but the monotony is all in the mind.

If you had anything worthwhile to think about, you would enjoy that walk or ride to and from work.

It is really a blessing that you have the time between home and your work--that it takes time to get to your work.

Some folks have to live right upstairs over the store or shop.

That certainly means no exercise; just upstairs and down.

It is fortunate, but it might be worse.

Suppose you were crippled and had to be pushed everywhere you went in a wheel chair; then you might complain.

You have two good legs and arms and opportunity to breathe fresh air.

Fresh air and a job--do you know how lucky you are?

Timely Hints On Growing Crops

By County Agent Don S. Matheson

WHEAT INSPECTIONS TO BE MADE

At a meeting held in Salisbury Dr. Hoffman, head of the Wheat Compliance Section of the AAA, outlined to County Agents and county wheat inspectors the methods of procedure to be used in checking up on the signers of the wheat contracts. Signers of the tobacco and cotton contracts will be interested in this procedure because it is very probable that their lands will be checked in a similar way.

Mr. L. G. Morrow, of the Oaks neighborhood has been selected as wheat inspector for Orange county. Mr. Morrow plans to begin his inspections on Saturday. The procedure outlined is as follows:

1. An accurate reading of angles on each wheat field will be taken.

2. The measurements of each side of the field will be made with a surveyor chain.

3. These readings will be sent to the County Agent's office where they will be plotted to scale and the exact area of the field in question determined. These accurate measurements will not only be taken on the fields planted to wheat but also on the fields rented to the Government.

Use of Rented Acres

In the meeting at Salisbury Dr. Hoffman stressed the fact that the Government was going to be very strict in checking on the use made of acres taken out of tobacco, cotton, and wheat rented to the Government. His advise to signers of the tobacco, cotton, corn and hog, and wheat contracts is to get a copy of their contract and read what the Government requires this acreage to be planted in. If this is not clear see the County Agent and have him explain. Another point that Dr. Hoffman brought out was the fact that this rented land must be staked off. Inspectors will be instructed to see that all rented acres have been staked off and it will be a saving of time and expense to stake these rented acres off before the inspector arrives.

UNIVERSITY GRANGE NEWS

Seven new members were received into the Grange at the last meeting. The largest number to be received at any one time. Four more were voted in and applications for two more were received.

A talk was made on Grange and P. T. A. cooperation by Mrs. Gat Walker.

Grange baseball was discussed by A. L. Shumaker.

Beautifying home surroundings was also discussed.

A paper was read on "Seeing Ourselves as Others See Us."

Plans were made for a picnic supper to be held next Friday evening.

MAKE PROVISION FOR SILAGE NOW

Silage has long been recognized as one of the cheapest and best sources of home grown roughage for dairy cows. It is cheap because a large volume can be grown on a small acreage and only a small loss sustained during the harvesting and feeding operations. When crops, suitable for silage, are cut, shocked and fed dry the loss due to weathering and waste at feeding time often runs from 25 to 35 per cent of the food value of the crop. It is one of the best home-grown feeds because it provides a palatable succulent, nutrition feeding during a period of the year when grass is not available.

Corn is usually considered the best crop for silage in this State, however, there seems to be a difference of opinion among North Carolina dairymen as to the best variety to use. This question was included in a silo questionnaire sent out to the dairymen of the State last summer by the North Carolina Experiment Station. In the replies 62 per cent favored a silage variety such as Pamunkey or Eureka and 38 per cent favored one of the grain varieties. The silage varieties produce a greater tonnage per acre while the grain varieties produce more grain and on account of this often yield more food nutrients per acre than do the silage varieties.

Sorghum is widely used for silage in some of the southern and western states. At the South Carolina Experiment Station in a two-year trial the average yields of corn silage and sorghum silage per acre were ten tons and 18.03 tons respectively. In a feeding trial this station found the sorghum silage to have approximately 75 per cent of the milk producing value of the corn silage. On an acre basis the data showed that the sorghum not only produced a greater tonnage than the corn, but also more actual nutrients. The varieties used in this experiment were Texas Seeded Ribbon and Japanese Seeded Ribbon.

May 15 to June 15 seems to be the best period in which to plant corn for silage according to the survey referred to above. The sorghum should be planted during the same period, preferably during May.

The proper time to cut corn for silage is when it contains the maximum food nutrients and at the same time sufficient moisture to cause it to pack well in the silo. The grains should be denting and the shuck slightly yellow. This stage of maturity is reached about a week or ten days before the corn is ready to cut and shock. If cut later it will not contain sufficient moisture to keep well. If cut earlier it will contain a lower nutritive value and often develops a high undesirable acid content.

As is the case of corn, sorghum should not be cut for silage until well matured. The seeds in the head should be firm.

The quantity of silage needed on the farm will be determined by the number of animals to be fed. The average size Jersey or Guernsey cow will consume from 30 to 35 pounds per day. The average size Holstein will consume from 40 to 45 pounds daily. On this basis from three to four tons should be provided for each mature cow for a feeding period of six months. It is advisable to provide an additional ton to be used in supplementing the pasture during dry periods.

The acreage required to produce the desired tonnage will depend upon the yield per acre. On an average corn will produce about one ton of silage for each five bushels of grain.

With the advent of the trench silo, which can be constructed at a small cost, silage can be profitably used in a herd of five or more mature cows. A more general use of it in this State, especially by those dairymen owning small herds, will result in better fed cows and a more profitable dairy industry. Now is the time to plant the silage crop. The silo can be constructed later.

GRANGE BASEBALL SCORES REPORTED

The Grange baseball scores for last Saturday were reported as follows:

Schley 7, White Cross 4.
Caldwell 2, University 1.
Fairfield 8, Gravelly Hill 4.

The herd of 10 Guernseys, owned by Mr. J. E. Latta, of Hillsboro, led all herds in Orange county on Dairy Herd improvement test during May. Mr. Latta's ten cows averaged 33.1 pounds of butterfat and 701 pounds of milk for the month of May. This herd also ranked fourth in the honor roll of the five highest out of the twenty-three herds in the whole Forsyth, Durham, Orange Association.

Other herds on test in Orange county ranked as follows:

Lloyd Bros., 18 Jerseys, 509 pounds milk, 26.3 pounds fat.

H. F. Latta, 11 Guernseys, 544 pounds milk, 25.6 pounds fat.

C. W. Stanford, 37 Jerseys, 543 pounds milk, 25.5 pounds fat.

G. O. Reitzel, 21 mixed, 621 pounds milk, 22.3 pounds fat.

Lloyd & Johnson, 38 mixed, 334 pounds milk, 15.4 pounds fat.

Mr. H. F. Latta recently purchased a young bull from Quail Roost Farm. This bull is sired by High Point Prince Maxim, senior herd sire at Quail Roost and out of Foremost Margie of Oakhurst, one of the top cows in the Quail Roost herd.

SCHLEY GRANGE MEETS

At the regular bi-monthly meeting of Schley Grange, June 2, the Juvenile officers were installed, the ritualistic ceremony prescribed by the national grange being used. It was well carried out, having been directed by the matron, Mrs. Nettie Wilson, and the installing officer, C. M. Walker, of the Subordinate.

After the business session and the installation service five of the younger members presented a playlet, "The Matrimonial Advertisement." The characters were represented by Eunice Wilson, Jessie Johns, Lois Wilson, Hubert Walker and Ralph Wilson.

During the past week additional equipment and improvements have been added to the hall. An ample case for regalia and other supplies was made, and the old worn wooden steps have been replaced by handsome cement steps. A new and much needed table was also added. This work was in charge of J. E. Walker.

The athletic club reported that of the baseball games played this season, Schley has lost none, having won over White Cross and Caldwell teams. The next game is played June 9, between Fairfield and Schley at Schley.

The next regular meeting will be June 16th.

FAIRFIELD GRANGE

Fairfield Grange held its regular meeting May 28. Two new members were taken in. A card on Sales Tax from Mr. Vanatta was read. The literary program consisted of a song "Onward Christian Soldiers;" a poem read by lecturer for Memorial Day; debate, Is Our Type of Farming Sufficient to Interest Boys and Girls; Song, Tune of America, and a play, "Johnny Reads The News," the characters being Grandfather, Ruth Graham, Grandmother, Edna Mae Taylor, and Johnny, Ruby Lee Taylor.

After the program refreshments of strawberries and cake were enjoyed by everyone. Refreshments were served by a family of the Grange.
