

HERALD NO LONGER CARRIES THE ENDORSEMENT OF THE CHARLOTTE CENTRAL LABOR UNION--REASONS

America. I knew Bailey to be a boastful Pharisee, who would stand with head unbowed and thank God that he was not like other North Carolinians and I knew McLean to be a man who would kneel in the freshly ploughed ground and with his head bowed upon the plow stock thank God that he had been able to render some slight service to a widow and an orphan in his community.

Knowing these things, I wrote an editorial, predicting the election of A. W. McLean, calling attention of the public to the fact that he had a tremendous job facing him and was thankful that he had the ability to meet the facts that confronted him.

Then hell broke loose. I had sold out again. It didn't matter that Tom Jimison, whose name appears in the masthead with mine, was out speaking for Bailey. It made no difference that

Dr. H. Q. Alexander, whose name appears on the masthead with mine had been out for three years campaigning for Bailey. No suggestion of coercion or purchase price was mentioned in connection with the names of either of these gentlemen, but when I dared to express my preference, that little bunch of interlopers, which has called themselves the Central Labor Union, disagreed only as to the amount that I had received for speaking in favor of Mr. McLean.

In order to curtail the activity of The Herald, it was decided to present a questionnaire to each of the candidates for governor. This questionnaire was mailed out on May 12. On May 20, although no reply had been received from any candidate, the Central Labor Union endorsed Mr. Bailey for governor and proceeded to give to the daily press all the details in connection therewith.

On May 27th Mr. McLean's reply came to the Central, the first and only reply that the Central body had had to its questionnaire. The point was brought out that although the Central body had just listened to Mr. McLean's reply, that Mr. Bailey's reply had not as yet been received.

Therefore, I made the motion that in view of the fact that Mr. McLean's reply had just come in and Mr.

Bailey's had not been received, that the Central body rescind its action of endorsement of Bailey and when Mr. Bailey's reply did come in, take the two, and ascertain which promised the most for labor and the Central Labor Union endorse that man. That motion was voted down. Bailey's endorsement stood although he had not answered the questionnaire. I could not in consistency, with the principles of the American Federation of Labor's non-partisan spirit, be a party to such unjust, unfair and untenable policy, informed the Central body that hereafter the Charlotte Herald would appear without the endorsement of the Central Labor Union at its masthead.

I have tried to give a dignified statement of the affairs and if there is any man connected with the Charlotte Central Labor Union who desires to throw this into a mud-slinging contest, that we have several carloads of mud that would not look good if thrown upon the screen where the public views organized labor.

I am printing a labor paper, devoted to the cause of the workers and the columns are open to any and all men who wish to convey their ideas, but I am, thank God, no longer bounden to uphold the rascal who slips by in the twilight or the dawn to stir strife in a peaceable community where employers and employees walk hand in hand in the God-fearing path that leads to justice to all.

NATION HAS FAILED IN CARE OF DISABLED, SAY VETERANS IN DENYING COOLIDGE CLAIM

I have been here ever since. Given New Rating at 1922 Examination.

"Early in July, 1922, I was examined at New Orleans and rated 80 per cent at that time and the non-feebleness for training removed. In other words, though my disability had doubled, the ability to go to school had been restored. Curious anomaly!

"In January, 1923, I was again examined and given a temporary disability of 100 per cent. This continued 10 months, when notice was received that my disability rating had been changed to 50 per cent. I argued the matter, took it to the district appeal board, was turned down, except that the 50 per cent award of temporary was changed to 50 per cent permanent. I again argued, made showing of serious progress of my disease and the matter was reconsidered and I was given 100 per cent temporary from date of discharge, same to continue indefinitely. On account of the retroactive feature of the award, it had to be confirmed by the central office board of appeals. The papers were submitted on November 8, 1923, with request from district manager for quick action, and decision handed down on November 21, 1923, in days.

"The central office board decided that 50 per cent from date of discharge was enough, and that 50 per cent temporary for the future was also enough. It is not yet understood just how they reached a decision, since the district board and its physicians had examined me, had me under observation for a year and one-half up to that time, and intimately knew the facts. Their word, their actual knowledge, gained by personal contact, cut only half the figure, so they arbitrarily decided without grounds.

Appeals Directly to Gen. Hines. "Not thinking I had received justice, I appealed to President Coolidge, my case being handled by Secretary Slemp. General Hines advised that I could appeal directly to him, and the appeal was submitted December 14, 1923.

"Assistant Director Mulhearn has handled the case so far, as I am informer, and General Hines, until March 31, 1924, had never seen it, notwithstanding his personal assurance that he would give it his personal attention. I must say, however, I do not believe it was ever allowed to reach him until I wrote a personal letter, sending it by special delivery to General Hines at his residence on March 29, 1924.

"On March 31, 1924, General Hines wrote me a letter which I copy here, to wit:

"I have your letter of March 29 relative to your claim for compensation, C-845389, and wish to advise that I have ordered your case brought to my personal attention for further review and consideration. You will be further advised concerning it at the earliest practicable date."

"I have heard nothing since, except as below. "Secretary to the President, Slemp inclosed to me a few days later the attached copy of a letter to him supposed to be signed by General Hines, in which he gave an entirely different version to the assurance given me. I do not believe General Hines in that letter did anything but sign on the dotted line."

New Evidence is Disregarded. "Attention is directed to the fact that notwithstanding new evidence, sworn to by the designated physician of the United States Veterans' Bureau here, and several other affidavits by others who had aided my wife when I had succumbed to uremic poison, and the report of the oculist of the district office, who had examined me carefully and noted the structural physical changes in my eyes, which changes indicate positively early dissolution, the former findings of the central office board of appeals was concurred in.

"All this convinces me that justice does not prevail in the central office in Washington. Weigh the facts, gentlemen; you have them and they can easily be verified; weigh my statements, I beseech you, and give the disabled such legislation that will not subject us to this damnable injustice. "Look at the promptness in the first case—less than two weeks—then look at the three and one-half months in the second; compare them and reach your own conclusion. "Clean Out Bureau," Writer Demands.

"I have been driven to seek the aid of the United States courts, therefore nothing you can do will benefit me; but for the sake of the suffering ones whose cases are pending, do something for them! "Clean out that damnable bureau; either that or say it can not be done. Acknowledge yourselves impotent. Were I in physical condition I would take 'the war path' and die in the effort to save my buddies, or else save them.

"My position here with the city of Vicksburg, as engineer and manager of its water supply system, is a sinecure. I am physically unable to perform the duties, yet the board of mayor and aldermen have said to me: 'You have served so well in the army at a critical time, given of your time and talent when needed. Do the best you can. We will keep you on the pay roll until the end.'

"Gentlemen, it is fine to have friends. It is hell to have a country, when that country is represented by the personnel of the United States Veterans' Bureau at Washington.

"I am a civil engineer by profession, earning from $400 to $700 per month when I entered the service in 1918, at the age of 47. I went because the only son I had old enough to go was rejected because of a blind right eye. It was a hell of a move on my part.
