MARION BUTLER.

MR. DANIELS' RESIGNATION.

THE CAUCASIAN intended to notice Mr. Daniels' Resignation some days ago; but was let hitherto. It will not be untimely to notice it now.

Mr. Daniels has evinced a good deal of unselfishness in this action. He has given up a good position and a good salary to harness himself to the hard work and poor pay of daily journalism in North Carolina. Such acts of unselfishness are not numerous amongst men who hold good positions in the Federal administration—indeed, they are not over numerous amongst any class of the people.

Mr. Daniels is a newspaper man of good gifts and long experience. He knows how to fight; and he is not afraid to fight. His coming back may be taken as legal notice to all whom it may concern, that no pains will be spared to return the Democrats to power, in this State, in 1896. Indeed, in his announcement, made a few days ago, he tells the public what his purpose is, in plain words. He throws down the gauntlet to the Co-operationists and evidently expects them to take it up. He will not be disappointed. We take it up. We take it up, with something of

"The stern joy which warriors feel, in foemen worthy of their steel."

And, while we do not make boast of our prowess, we feel too keenly the justice of our cause to permit us to be a laggard in the fray. We promise, Mr. Daniels, please God, to be present at the death, as the hunters say.

There is one part of Mr. Daniels' "announcement" which we think in bad taste; and which might very well have been omitted. We refer to his expressed determination to "redeem the State." That is a sort of high assumption, that might be the prerogative of angels, if they were not too modest; and which tempts persons of much humor to indulge in immoderate laughter, when they see it affected by mere mortality, and mere Democratic mortality, at that.

By the redemption of the State, we suppose Mr. Daniels means the taking of North Carolina public affairs out of the hands of the Fusionists in 1896. Mr. Daniels may be able to do this. But if he shall accomplish it, we shall be ready to admit, that something greater than the most difficult of the seven labors of Hercules has been accomplished by a mere man. And, in that case, we shall regret the richness that would have accrued to the story of Greek Mythology, had Mr. Daniels lived two or three thousand years earlier.

Mr. Daniels undertakes his task with a splendid courage—a courage which seems all the more splendid because of the absence of some other qualities of the thoroughly furnished warrior. Indeed, Mr. Daniels' courage reminds us strongly of the story of the bull and the locomotive.

Mr. Daniels intends to "redeem" the State. He means to take this old Commonwealth back into the hands of the aristocratic coterie that have held it, and selfishly used it, for the last twenty years. He means to subject all men and questions, in this State, to the machine methods, which have been employed for twenty years. He means to have our elections so conducted in the future that there shall be no possibility of ascertaining what the will of the people upon any question is—that is to say, he means to govern this State by the will of a minority. He means to put the appointing of nearly all the County officers into the hands of a few Democratic Executive Committees.

He means to "redeem" the State! We think Lucifer would use the term in the same sense, in trying to persuade the angels to quit their innocence, and join him in his bad rebellion against all good.

We assure Mr. Daniels that we shall be present at the redeeming. The people will be present too, and have something to say about the matter. Never fear for that!

THE SPECIAL MESSAGE.

We published in yesterday morning's CAUCASIAN the full text of the President's special message to Congress, upon the financial situation.

The following are its features: The issuing of $500,000,000 of gold bonds, to run fifty years, and to bear three per cent interest. The retirement of all forms of outstanding treasury obligations. The allowing of the National Banks to issue circulation up to the face value of their bonds, on deposit in the treasury. The collecting of the customs duties in gold.

It will be seen that these recommendations are, severally and collectively, thoroughly vicious.

The bond proposition converts a non-interest-bearing into an interest-bearing debt. For this there is not one shadow of excuse. The President puts the outstanding treasury obligations which should be paid in gold at the round sum of $500,000,000. He knows that a large part, perhaps $200,000,000, of them are payable by law in either silver or gold at the option of the treasury. And if the President and his dunder-headed Secretary of the Treasury had stood upon the law, and had paid all of those obligations, that could have been thus paid, in silver, it is certain that those obligations would have furnished no part of the drain upon the gold reserve of the treasury.

The plain truth is, this incompetent administration insisted upon converting those silver obligations into gold obligations, without any command of law, or any reason in the nature of things compelling such a course. And now this same incompetent administration comes to Congress, and asks it to ratify its stupid gold interest-bearing bonds to cover and redeem these obligations. But the feature of this bond proposition, which we have just mentioned, is not more criminal than the feature to be mentioned now.

The issuing of bonds recommended by the President is the final redemption and cancellation of these outstanding treasury obligations—obligations which are now in, and are a part of, the circulation of the country. The proposition of Mr. Cleveland is, therefore, simply to contract the currency by the withdrawal of some $500,000,000 from the circulation. It is true, that the President wants the banks to be allowed to increase their circulation up to the face value of the bonds on deposit to secure it—that is, the President's proposition contemplates an increase of the bank circulation, which will be exactly ten per cent. of their bonds in the Treasury. This is his proposition, stripped of all the pompous verbiage, for which the President is so celebrated.

But it may be argued that the new bonds would go into the Treasury and circulation to the extent of their face value would be given to the banks, and go into the hands of the people. Those who argue in this way are either ignorant or dishonest. Millions of the new bonds would seek foreign investments; and there is not a shadow of provision in existing law, or in any pending proposition, to compel those bonds to go under any circulation whatever. Let no one be deceived. Mr. Cleveland simply proposes to secure to the money holders a further appreciation of their holdings, by taking $500,000,000 out of the circulation of the country.

The message is an adroit attempt to secure legislation, under the plea of an immediate necessity, that will certainly fix the whole vicious national banking system more firmly upon the people, than it is now. The Congress cannot adopt, with safety, any proposition that will put greater power into the hands of those bankers than they now hold.

We cannot believe that the silver men in Congress can be induced to let any bill pass, that will embody Mr. Cleveland's recommendations in this message. The plain duty of the silver men is, to stand to their position, and let Mr. Cleveland bankrupt the Nation, if he will. There is grave danger ahead in these recommendations; and the only right course is, resistance to the end.

STILL AT THEIR OLD TRICKS.

When certain Democrats in the House protested innocence of any intention to obstruct legislation by filibustering, THE CAUCASIAN gave them the full benefit of their disclaimer, and reported their remarks on the question of personal privilege so accurately that one of them has purchased thirty-five copies of the paper to send home to his Democratic constituents.

We hoped that there would be no need of any further suggestions from us along this line; but the conduct of certain of these gentlemen on Monday and Tuesday calls for another warning. The proceedings of the House on Monday show not only that filibustering has begun again, but that some of these same innocent lambs are frisking about the House and delaying the transactions of business by filibustering against a bill introduced by one of their own party—a bill that has in it no politics at all, and they cannot claim that their work is even in the interests of their party.

When a bill has been freely discussed before a committee composed of lawyers, and also plain that a wayfarer man, though a fool, can understand it, what is the sense of wrangling over it for hours before permitting it to come to a vote? Why try to stave it off by dilatory motions and unbecoming speeches? Why talk and amend and talk and call for the eyes and noses and make motions to adjourn, when you could put your selves on record as favoring or opposing a bill without all this tiresome wrangle and useless consumption of time?

We have been charged by some of our friends, out of the legislature, with giving more space to the speeches of the Democrats than to speeches of Populists and Republicans. The reason is obvious. So far, in the House at least, the Democrats have done most of the talking. The Populists and their allies have come here to act, not to talk, and they do not like to be hindered in their work by the everlasting gab of their opponents.

In another column we publish an article by Rev. Doctor C. Durham, to which we call the attention of our readers.

We assure Dr. Durham that it will give us pleasure to publish the memorial to which he refers, just as soon as the pressure on our space will allow us to do so.

As to the threat, made in Dr. Durham's article, to take the educational issue into the campaign in 1896, we have to say, that THE CAUCASIAN has no fear of the results of any such action. If THE CAUCASIAN cannot justify any position it may take upon any public question, by an appeal to reasons of high public utility, it will have the grace to abandon such position.

THE CAUCASIAN freely recognizes the broad principle, that must control in all free governments, viz. That the people, themselves, have the right to discuss, and finally to determine upon all questions of public policy; and we do not deprecate the principle, nor seek to avoid its application in this instance.

We shall publish the memorial in a future issue, together with such observations, as to its tenor and spirit, as the case may seem to us to call for.

DEEDS SAUCE.

David Bennett Hill seems to be a statesman by accident.

If the President should ever be the father of a son, it is believed, he will not call him STUBLEY.

Dividends for the street car companies in Brooklyn—bayonets and machine guns for work-people.

Mr. Cleveland thinks the people in Congress are fools; and, by Jove, he doesn't miss it much, either.

It will be seen that Senator Pritchard voted with Senator Ransom the other day. It is now in order for the liars to lie again.

Mr. Cleveland's financial policy can be summed up in one word, Bonds for the bankers, and burdens for the common people.

Secretary Carlisle, it is now thought, is a pretty good judge of certain Kentucky liquids. But he doesn't know one tarnation thing about finances.

The editors of the News and Observer have been taken with a violent type of public virtue. We hope it will turn out to be contagious; and that the whole Democratic party may be seized with it.

The Washington correspondent of a city daily need not go to the expense of purchasing the mask of a Pharisee, for the next fancy ball at the Capital—it will not be necessary.

The silver men have it in their power to destroy the credit of the government, and they ought to do it to terms. Better destroy the credit of the government than destroy the common people.

A special offer. THE DAILY CAUCASIAN the remainder of the session of the General Assembly in clubs of ten for $6.00, in clubs of five for $3.50, single copy for 75 cents. Every member of the General Assembly should take advantage of this rate to send the paper to his constituents.

Snow in the Old Dominion. Norfolk, Va., Jan. 28.—It began snowing here about 3 o'clock this afternoon, succeeded by rain, and later by sleet. So far the traffic has not been impeded.
