That put a new face on the matter, and the protest was withdrawn. All day the little fellow was on the edge of anxiety and could scarcely retain his eagerness to see his father return. At 5 o'clock he met his father on the landing, and the moment he saw him he cried out, "Where is the bread and butter, papa?" "Oh," said the wily attorney, "I sent that on ahead, and it is out in the kitchen long ago." Thursday morning, when the father had pulled on his overcoat and found his hat, the 3-year old asked, "Papa, going down town to get some more bread and butter?" He was answered in the affirmative. Then he pressed his face against the window and looked at the rain coming down heavily. "I guess," he said, "papa will get bread and gravy

Three Remarkable Books.

Among small printed books an honorable place should be reserved for "The Bible in Miniature," printed by Newberry in 1780. Each page, which only measures 1 1-5 inches in length and 12-16 in width, contain on an average John W. Starnes, of Bun- 21 words and about 150 letters. Still another wonderful volume is a religious Marsden Bellamy, of New'Hay- work called "Small Rain Upon the Tender Herb," printed by a tract society in London. Its leaves are 11-4 by 1 inch in size, yet each page holds an average of 40 words or about 260 letters.

> Besides these two curious, tiny volumes there is, it appears, a work in existence still more remarkable. It is without printed matter, and is known as "The Wordless Book." It has but 10 leaves, each of a different color. For over 300 years it has been kept in the library at St. Rupert's monastery. Its wordless pages are only consulted on Easter, St. John's eve and Christmas. On these dates the monks claim that the leaves of the sacred volume are miraculously covered with appropriate texts in characters of shining gold. -St. Louis Republic.
