"The crystal cannot equal it."

THE EXACTNESS OF RELIGION. Now, it is not a part of my sermonic design to depreciate the crystal, whether it be found in Cornish mine or Hartz mountain or Mammoth cave or tinkling among the pendants of the chairdeliers of a palace. The crystal is the star of the mountain; it is the queen of the cave; it is the eardrop of the hills; it finds its heaven in the diamond. Among all the pages of natural history there is no page more interesting to me than the page crystallographic. But I want to show you that Job was right when, taking religion in one hand and the crystal in the other, he declared that the former is of far more value and beauty than the latter, recommending it to all the people and

In the first place, I remark that religion is superior to the crystal in exactness. "ant shapeless mass of crystal against which you accidentally dashed your foot is haid out with more exactness than any earthly city. There are ometry reaches through it, and it is a square, or it is a rectangle, or it is a rhomboid, or in some way it hath a mathematical figure. Now, religion beats that in the simple fact that spiritual accuracy is more beautiful than
