THE SORTED WOOL CLAUSE.

Secretary Foster Decides That This "Sorting Clause" Applies to Carpet Wools. Who makes our tariff laws? It is usually supposed that the members of congress who vote for them are the makers of them. This is true only to a certain extent, for the beneficiaries of the tariff in many cases write into the tariff bill the duties which they want. Thus by "ways that are dark and tricks that are ain" the tariff bill gets into the house of representatives and is voted upon by how many different handwritings were to be found in the original draft of the bill, put there by men financially interested in getting high duties and obediently accepted by their political friends on the ways and means committee.

After these protected interests get their daties voted into law they are usually silent-are like "Bre'r Rabbit, he lay low." Not always so, however. Judge Lawrence, the Ohio political shepherd, has recently boasted of being the author of the wool schedules of the McKinley law. In that law is a clause called the "sorting clause," which provides that the duty on wool "which has been sorted or increased in value by the rejection of any part of the original fleece shall be twice the duty to which it would be

When the McKinley bill was under discussion it was understood by the carpet manufacturers that this language was meant to apply to clothing wools, which bear specific duties-not to carpet wools, where the duties are ad valorem and of course increase with the value of the wool. Now, however, Judge Lawrence has come forward and has had Secretary Foster to decide that this "sorting clause" applies also to carpet wools. Judge Lawrence says, "I wrote the sorting clause and I know that it was so in-
