HOW THINGS LOOK FROM OUR STAND POINT.

The Opinion of the Editor and the Opinion of Others which we Can Endorse on the Various Topics of the Day.

In New York State last year there were 800,000 children of school age who did not attend school.

The percentage of gain in the attendance at public schools in the Southern States has surpassed the gain in population.

How many persons do you know who are ready to talk about a book, a picture, or a play, or some improving and practical matter, rather than to indulge in unkind words about their neighbors?

The Wilmington Messenger has shown considerable enterprise in sending a special agent to Washington to copy the list of direct taxes paid by our people on land in 1866 and soon to be refunded.

Ex-Czar Reed is in Paris observing how the French Chamber of Deputies manages its business. He probably wants to introduce his entirely original farce entitled 'The Phantom Quorum.'

Superintendent Finger told us a few days since on the cars that he had made most satisfactory arrangements for the temperance school books.

Some people might infer that Secretary Foster's change of heart as to the amount of interest to be paid on the 4 1/2 per cent bonds just after a conference with some of the Wall Street clique was queer, but it wasn't.

The partisan press of the country has advertised with big, black headlines and numerous sub-heads the action of the meeting at Cincinnati as the birth of an Alliance party.

The same papers are trying to convey the impression that the Alliance mass meetings to be held this summer is an effort to boom the Third Party; but when they write such stuff they are either woefully ignorant or wilfully lying.

The census of illiteracy in Europe and America is as follows: Roumania, Russia and Servia, 80 per cent. of the population is unable to read or write.

The Trustees of the Training School for Girls have decided to locate the institution at Greensboro, as will be seen from another column.

In some quarters surprise is expressed because an English jurymen put a few polite questions to the Prince of Wales, who was on the witness stand in the disgraceful gambling case.

It will cost you nothing and will surely do you good, if you have a Cough, Cold, or any trouble with Throat, Chest or Lungs.

At the State University last week we were struck with the youthfulness of the graduates.

Whether or not malevolent spirits have power of interference in human affairs is an open question; but certain it is that, to prima facie view, events can at times arrange themselves with a malignant disregard of individual needs and desires which would leave nothing of the invention of the most perverse devil to the imagination could conjure up.

One of the great evils of the time is false swearing in listing property for taxation. If all property was properly—honestly given in, the State and counties would raise more money than is needed, therefore the rate of taxation could be lowered and the honest man would not be forced to pay more than his proportionate share of the burdens of supporting the government.

Col. Fred Olds, in his correspondence to the Messenger, gives the following condensation of the rules prepared by the Railroad Commissioners:

The Railway Commissioners have received from the printer the pamphlet containing all the rules, etc., including the newly prepared table of standard freight and passenger tariffs.

When a car is loaded over its marked capacity by the shipper, the railroad companies are left free to charge for the excess a rate that will effectively stop a practice that is fraught with so much danger to life and property.

The schedule oughtn't to say one thing and the road do another. It is an imposition on the public.

He was vexed and tormented by a delay which threatened shipwreck to his case. I put his horse along with a slight avoidance of stones, mud holes, and other impediments which to Royal, unaccustomed to mountain roads, seemed little short of marvellous.

The question was impersonally addressed to a little knot of loungers, and Royal paused for a reply, wondering what the dickens he should do if thrown on his own resources.

The Battle of Creeds.

DR. TALMAGE GIVES A LIVELY SKETCH OF THE HERESY HUNT.

There is an exciting question in Every Denomination.

ARE THE THEOLOGIANS LOSING TEMPER IN THE DISCUSSION? NO ONE IS BETTERED BY IT.

BROOKLYN, June 14.—Dr. Amos A. Phelps, in his sermon this morning with the very timely topic, 'The Battle of Creeds,' after long and exhaustive discussion in clerical circles and in the secular press, there seemed nothing new to be said on the subject.

Solomon here deprecates the habit of rushing in between contestants, of taking part in the antagonisms of others, of joining in fights which they ought to shun.

This is a time of resounding ecclesiastical quarrel. Never within your memory or mine has the air been so full of missiles.

Because of the controversies throughout Christendom the air is now like an August afternoon about 5 o'clock, when it has been steaming hot all day, and clouds are gathering, and there are lions of thunder with gambling voices and flashing eyes coming forth from their cloudy lairs.

Let those who are jurymen in the case, I mean, those in the different ecclesiastical courts, have the questions put directly before them, weigh and decide. Let the rest of us ever out.

These brethren I notice always open their violent meetings with prayer before devoting each other, thus saving grace before meat.

Some of the ministers, in all denominations, who before the present acerbity were good and kind and useful, now seem almost swearing mad.

THE MONOPOLISTIC TAP WORM.

The Government makes enough Money for this Worm, but the People get only what oozes through it.

THE MONEY THAT COMES THROUGH IT IS POISONED WITH HIGH INTEREST AND DELAYED BY THE CONSTIPATION OF CLASS INTERESTS.

Mr. Editor.—A great deal of the discussion about the volume of our circulation and the amount of money per capita is idle.

It is perfectly true that the greater the volume the harder for monopoly to control the circulation; but it is also true that so long as monopoly does control it, however great the volume, credit will be curtailed and ordinary business cramped.

Where the metals fall or are inconvenient, and the question of the volume of the currency needed will speedily settle itself.

These questions of quantity and volume have generally been raised by the controllers of both, to prevent a discussion of their control.

How can the body politic contrive to have the volume of currency it contains when the bulk of it is in the tape worm, and about all of it must pass through him.

At some future time I will undertake to show how the National system controls, blocks up and poisons the circulation of the country.
