THE EDITORS CHAIR.

HOW THINGS LOOK FROM OUR STAND POINT.

The Opinion of The Editor and the Opinion of Others which we Can Endorse on the Various Topics of the Day.

In last week's issue we asked editor Ashe (we suppose this is the latest and most approved way of referring to contemporaries) to explain why he stopped publishing a certain set of questions headed "Queer Queries" which he accidentally discontinued about the time the short crop of corn began to decline in price.

On July 31st, last year, corn was 51 cents, and cotton 12 1/2-14; on the same date this year corn was 71 cts. and cotton 8 cents.

Last week we published a strong arraignment of capital punishment by Rev. Tom Dixon. He took advanced ground and put forward much food for thought.

On last Sunday morning we arranged the "Convict Lease System." It is the most form of human slavery with the most reasons.

The basic idea of the Sub-Treasury plan is not only more currency, but an elastic volume that will respond to the Natural Law of demand.

Mr. Editor - In our last week's issue we asked you to explain and we again call upon you for an answer to the question about the "Queer Queries."

The State Chronicle publishes a column article from a correspondent on the inequalities of taxation.

The great difficulty is to procure for this subject that degree of careful consideration which its importance demands.

No man can possibly accomplish good results under such disadvantageous circumstances, and the result is, as might be expected, that the same bad law is re-enacted year after year.

The Legislature can never do any real wise solid work that requires thought and pains-taking investigations until there is a radical reform in its proceedings.

Rev. Thos. Dixon writes a letter to the State Chronicle discussing what is orthodox theology.

TEN MINUTES TO TWELVE

CLINTON, N. C., July 27. - John H. Royal, who has been seriously injured in a railway accident, is a passenger on a train running to the mountain districts of Virginia, and by chance a Dr. John Hart Royal No. 2 gets on board at a new station and professes attention to the invalid.

CHAPTER 2. - Dr. Royal No. 2, in that the suffering man shall wait at the town of Matocana and repair the train.

CHAPTER 3. - The proxy catches the invalid when the parties are assembled at the house of the invalid.

CHAPTER 4. - The anxiety of Dr. Royal No. 1 is explained to No. 2 by the discovery that the invalid is blind.

TABERNACLE SERMON.

REV. DR. TALMAGE DISCUSSES A HARVEST SCENE.

The Brooklyn Divine's Sermon on Sunday, August 2.-Text of His Remarks, Ruth ii, 23.

A DISCOURSE THAT WILL BE READ WITH INTEREST.

Goldsboro, Colo., Aug. 2.-A sermon redolent with the breath of the vast harvest fields of the west indicates that Dr. Talmage has found in the scenes through which he has been traveling and in his present surroundings suggestions of Gospel lessons.

Within a few weeks I have been in North Carolina, Virginia, Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio, Michigan, Canada, Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Missouri, and they are one great harvest field, and no season can be more enchanting in any country than the season of harvest.

The time that Ruth and Naomi arrive at Bethlehem is harvest time. It was the old custom when a sheaf fell from a load in the harvest field for the reaper to refuse to gather it up; that was to be left for the poor who might happen to come that way.

Boaz owns a large farm, and he goes out to see the reapers gather in the grain. Coming there, right behind the sheaves, sunburned reapers, he beholds a beautiful woman, and a woman more fit to bend to a harp or sit upon a throne than to stoop among the sheaves.

Boaz was at first sight. Boaz forms an attachment for the womanly gleam in the attachment of God in all ages - while Ruth, with an ophel, or nearly a bushel of barley, goes home to Naomi to tell her the successes and adventures of the day.

I learn in the first place from this subject how trouble develops character. It was bereavement, poverty and sorrow that developed, illustrated and announced to all ages the summit of Ruth's character.

I once asked an aged man in regard to his pastor, who was a very brilliant man, "Why is it that your pastor, so very brilliant, seems to have so little tenderness in his sermons?"

"My leg," he replied, "the reason is, our pastor has never had any trouble. When misfortune comes upon him his style will be different."

"Good day, mate," Royal called, with the rosy freemasonry of the frontier. "Is anything the matter?"

"Blessed if I don't believe it's broke," the miner made answer.

"My leg," he replied, "the reason is, our pastor has never had any trouble. When misfortune comes upon him his style will be different."

"I guess I must have been pretty full last night and missed the trail going into town. Anyhow I seem to myself a swim, and I feel the bottom of that infernal trail indicating the hole."

"He'll stand," Royal said, noting the man's expression. "Now let's have a look at your horse."

"He cut away the miner's long boot and ripped up the leg of his trousers. The leg was broken in two places, and the bones grated as Royal moved the limb about; the bruised flesh was swollen and mottled with blood.

"It's a bad job, ain't it, doctor?" questioned the man imperiously.

"Yes, it's a good many hours since the mischief was done, you see, and the leg's swollen. It's pretty painful, isn't it?"

"I had to let her swing-wantin' my hands for climbin'." That let the blood down, and I felt like I'd got a bootful of hot fire, an' every time she struck agin' the rocks (an' she struck pretty often) seemed like the devil had the poker an' was chumkin' her up."

Royal had the leather leg laid straight along the ground, and was busy cutting the upper from the sole of the man's shoe.

The attention of the world has been again sharply called to the existence of our convict lease system by the recent rebellion among the miners of East Tennessee.

There are some people who still profess to believe that we have no great social problem to solve. Look you then upon this spectacle. Behold the Governor of a great State, with his army by his side, parleying with the embassadors of a mountain mob.
