The writer cun imagine no good reason why that portion of the people of North Carolins, opposed to the dogmas and purposes of radicalism, should hesi-Mr. G. E. Butler returned Monday tate a single moment to declare them selves Democrats. The great principles of the Democratic party, as these principles have been enunciated in the Chi cago convention, and in the respective State conventions (and especially in those held in the Northern and Western States), commend themselves, we think to the judgment and favor of a very large majority of our people. They are the principles for which Thomas Jefferson and Andrew Jackson and Jefferson Davis contended,-they are the princi ples for which all our great leaders have been battling since radicalism assumed shape and vitality in these Southern States. If an alliance with the Democratic party required a surrender of a single conscientious conviction, then Mr. Geo. E. Butler left Friday for would such an alliance be disreputable and dishonest. But no such necessity exists. New issues have come with new Maj. W. A. The times are pregnant with danger to re publican institutions, and, unless the current of radicalism be speedily and completely arrested, there is no hope for the safety or perpetuity of the gov-ernment. The great problem of man's capacity for self-government is, just now, receiving its solution. The Constitution is on trial, and the American Yellow Dip, . people are the jurors to decide its fate. The very foundation of our political Men, drunk with power and blind with hate, have forgotten country, justice, law and truth in a wild, mad contest for power. The fanatical party in power has broken its pledges and violated its faith with the country, and have impiously dared to attempt the reversal of a decree of Almighty God, by proclaiming the equality of those between whom He has established an ineradicable distinction. Upon the hypothesis that the people of the South have neither rights nor privileges they are seeking to-day to place our State gove nments in the control of the negro and his mean white allies. This is the dogma of the Republican party in the government. To this policy the Democratic party opposes all its influence, all its energies and all its talent.
