Resping Sweet Polatoes Through the Whiter.

The following method I have found to keep sweet potatoes in perfect order until June. Procure a good supply of pine straw from the woods in a dry time and keep it under cover ready for use. Dig the pointoes as soon as frost cuts the vines. If not convenient to dig at once, cut the frosted vines off at once, or they will harbor fungus growth that will damage the polatoes. Dig on a warm sunny day-lay the petatoes along the row as dug, and do not allow piles. Handle at all times as gently as eggs. Allow them to lie in the san during the day, and in the evening hand to a convenient place. Place a good layer, a foot thick, of pine or other straw on the ground, and on this, pile the potatos in steep heaps, not over 25 bushels in a pile. Cover the piles thickly all over with the dry pine straw now build a rough board shed over the piles, and let them remain until the weather grows colder, or until they have gone cover the heaps with earth six or eight inches thick and beat smooth. The important points are the sweating under the previous cover of the pine straw before covering with earth, very careful handling, and the board cover overhead. Dry earth keeps out more cold than wet earth. If for family use, put in smaller piles and take up an entire heap at once for use, keeping them in a dry warm place while using.-W. F. Massey, Horticulturist, N. C. Experiment Station.

The Russian Thistle.

One of the most noxious of recent emigrants from Europe is the socalled Russian thistle, Solsola Kali, var. tragus. This weed is a native of Russia where it has long been known as a terrible pest in the wheat fields of that empire. In this country it first became troublesome in the wheat-growing sec. tion of the Dakotas. It has since spread into many of the western and northwestern states. Such is the magnitude of this pest that the Senate of the United States in the last session of congress. passed a bill appropriating $1.000.000 for exterminating it, but the appropriation failed to become a law. It is the nature of this weed when ripe to lose its hold upon the soil and roll up into a ball. In this form on the level windy prairies of the northwest it is blown for hundreds of miles. spreading its seeds far and wide. While

Scientific Discoveries.

FACTS WHICH THE MILLIONS SHOULD UNDERSTAND. Obemeyer, Koch, Pastore, Biggs, Radame, Amich and many other scientific investigators have revolutionized meanful treatment of human diseases in the last few years. With their fine magnifying glasses they see and know that the most unalignment and fatal fevers: that all misal affection, throat diseases and ung troubles; that all blood porsons and blood affections, as shown by rheumatism, inflamed joints and running sores, that bright's disease of the kidneys, liver complaints, impotency and female weakness are caused and produced by microbes small living germs of life. All medicines and remedies heretofore have failed on, throat affections and lung troubles. Such medicines are not manufactured on a scientific basis. Drop such a medicine on a spider, a bee or even a fly, and ten to one that such an insect will commence to eat of the preparation.

Then let a small portion of Swamp Angel Medicine strike the same insect, and instantly you have a corpse. Then let a small portion of Swamp Angel Medicine fall on a board three inches or more from a fly, and instantly it comnences a series of girations, and soon falls over dead, killed by the poise cases of Swamp Angel Medicine. Then pour out thirty drops of Swamp Angel Medicine in segar and swallow it, close your mouth, and you can feel liquid fire and gases coming through every air-cell of von lungs and passing off through The nostrils. Common sense must thus show you that the same gases which are so deadly to the fly must certainly have a similar effect on the "Tubercle Basilli," the moth-cating parasite of the lung., and all oth r microbes and parasites which produce hum in diseases and human pa
