FRENCH LEAVE.

BY G. ADAMS IN WIDE AWARE.

and Jones had one Da tent: Heygendorf, Carling and I the other. We slept with our clothes on, Dr W P Mercer, d. of course, and when we three in our tent were lying flat, with our blankets drawn snug, we heard an awful rumpus going on in the other test.

in the eye." "Lie down and go to sleep," Dupont said in French. Alphonse screamed all the louder.

"Come now, stop that," said Jones crossly; "go back to your bed." "I refuse absolutely," Alphonse answered in his best English. "It has never yet been demand of methat I lie myself down, dressed complete, except the bat, in all my closes. And the bed—the bed is compose entire of needles. They stick to me like the stingers of the bee. I shall not lie down myself again. Have you hear? I prefer to Harnett, Bladen, (2); John E Fowler, "We all have the same beds," Du- p.; I W Taylor, p.

pont said. "Those ozzer boys in the ozzer tent, they have make the beds this afternoon, they have take the soft trees for their own beds. I shall go there and make the exchange-the swap," said Alphonse.

We heard him patter across to our tent. Dupont followed promptly. "Pardon," he said, "but Alphonse, he figures to himself that your beds are softer. I shall be charmed if one of you will exchange."

Alphonse had already punched my bed with his fist and declared that it was much softer than his own, so I got up and let him have it, taking the one he had left. Jones wakened me very early the next morn-

"Van," he said, shaking my shoulder, "Dupont and I are going fishing agair. We shall be gone all day. You three fellows must keep your eye on Alphonse."

I was too sleepy to make any objections to Dupont's coolness in leaving us to look after his brother. When Carling woke me a little later, and I told him that Jones had gone ! off again with Dupont to spend the day, he was very glum, "It's a low thing to leave us with that youngster; all our fun is spoilt," he said, shaking the empty coffeepot-Jones and Dupont had been for themselves. "Now you s-s-see, Carling." said Heygendorf, "Dupont is just as shand he's going let you be the n nnurse-girl for that monkey of an Alphonse. That's the way it always is. You think you're going to spring something sharp on a big fellow, and, lo and behold, he's coming something trickier on you every time!" The woods were uncommonly still, and Heygendorf, after he made this remark, sturibled over the hamper that had the plates and tins in it. There was, consequently, a fine clat-

"Now then, clumsy," said Carring, "you've got Alphonse awake. 1 thought if he could snooze a while we might have a little peace." Alphonse appeared in the tent door before Carling tinished speak-"Good-morning," he said, bowing and smiling. "I hear the gran' rattle of the plates; it is time to serve the breakfast?" We told him that it was, that his brother was off on another expedition, and that he had better get ready for his breakfast. He got his towels and his tooth brush and trotted off to the little spring. When he came back and went into the tent to put his things | Self, p. away, breakfast was ready and we began, expecting that he would come. He emerged from the tent finally, and stood in the doorway looking at

"Come on, why don't you?" said Carling.

"One does not approach to the breakfast before one has arranged the hairs!" he answered severely His long curly hair fluffed out in snarly bushiness several inches from his head.

"Well, arrange your hairs then," said Carling; "you brought a comb didn't you?"

"Am I the wild boy that I make the visit without the comb?" de-the visit without the comb?" de-the visit without the comb?" de-Franklin, J. F. Mitchell, p-

"Go on, then, and comb yourself,' said Carling. "It never yet has happened that I use the comb by myself," Alphonse

On March 1, 1894, I had been using Swamp Angel Medicine about fourteen months, from 100 to 3 0 or as a day. On my return to Atlanta, after an absence of less than a year, selling this medicine, I stepped up to Mr. Wright Chief of the detective for e in Atlanta, and one of the smartest men in Geor gia, in remembering faces, and extended my hand. He said: 'Really, I don't remember you; seems like I have seen you somewhere." This is Dr. Swamp Angel, the man you saw three straight mouths every day, at 97 Decatur street selling medicine. "Indeed! Indeed! Is that so? I never would have known you. How you have changed! You look ten years younger. What on earth bave you been doing to yourself?" "Taking from 100 to 300 drops of Swamp Angel Medicine every day," was the reply. Mr. Brannon, chief clerk, for city delivery, for the Lamar, Rankin Drug Co., who waited on me every day for drugs for three months,, did not know me on my return. In fact, kind people few people who knew me a year ago as a consumptive invalid, can recogniz me today. I weigh 160 pounds, have a good appet to and all the powers, faculgives co-operation majorities from candidates for Senate 8th District, ties and ambition of a man in the prime of life. Now, let me say to you, if you have symptoms of long discass or any germ i isease, don't delay if you are are not dying. Try Swamp Angel Medicine; it never fails. Over 1,000 remarkable cures of diseases are in my books and reported by letter. I can only give Official vote of Lenoir county the names of a few.

THEIR NAMES ARE MANY.
