WILLIAM J. BRYAN.

Mr. Bryan, the brilliant young statesman of Nebraska, is a man with many admirable qualities. He is talented, he is sincere, honest, earnest and aggressive. Only in one particular, as we have seen, does he fall to measure up to the requisites for a Presidential candidate. He is not as much backbone and inflexible will as Andrew Jackson had. Jackson's courage and firmness are very necessary qualities for a President at all times, and especially so in such times as these, when the combined power of the gold ring and monopolies, in every form now ten times stronger and more dangerous than when Jackson was President) must be faced and fought to the death. We do not believe that all of these powers combined could buy or corrupt Mr. Bryan with money; but they would attempt to approach him by indirection, as they did even Andrew Jackson and Abraham Lincoln. They would surround him, if possible, with seeming friends, or force him. They would corrupt, if possible, the men in his cabinet, and other men associated with him as counselors and advisers. These are the methods that Satan and his allies always use when they have to deal with an honest man. When a man of a different stripe is President, they simply go to headquarters and buy him.

We fear that if Mr. Bryan were elected President, that he would be under the influence of the old party bosses and fogies, who have themselves, for more than twenty years, kept the money question in the background, and fooled the people into fighting sham battles over the tariff. These old mossbacks have stifled conscience so long to serve party that they see no wrong in trading and dickering with the goldbugs and betraying the people into the hands of their enemies for party spoils and party success. Here would be Mr. Bryan's danger; for these old party fogies would desire to see him cut off his moral tail to the same length to which theirs has been clipped.

On the other hand Mr. Bryan would have made a splendid candidate for a reform party, for then, if elected, he would be surrounded by earnest and sincere friends of the people instead of by men who have for a quarter of a century been into a conspiracy with the Republican politicians to fool the people in order that the gold gamblers might thrive on the fatness of the land.

But of all the Democratic candidates before the convention, probably the best man that the party could have nominated is Mr. Bryan. He is not only still young and independent, not having been contaminated and fossilized by long association with the old mossbacks of the party, but he is the only man among the straight-out Democratic candidates who has ever said that he would not vote for a goldbug, but would leave the party and denounce it and join the Peoples Party. If, in 1896, the platform did not declare for free silver and financial reform, that evidence of manhood and patriotism, that determination to put country above party, causes us to warm up a little toward the young statesman, and makes us hope that there is much of the Andrew Jackson courage and firmness still latent within him. It is true he ought to have taken this position in 1892, but there are many of the best men in the country who did not then, yet who have since taken that position. Mr. Bryan may not have known at that time, as others did, that Mr. Cleveland was in league with the money power.

In this connection, one important phase of the political situation should not be overlooked. Every man in the past who has shown independence and asserted his manhood by laying down the principles that he would stand for, party or no party, in advance of the action or permission of his party bosses, has been marked for slaughter by the Democratic machine. There was no higher crime or treason in the eyes of the party bosses than to commit to what Mr. Bryan has done. Now, why is it that this brilliant young man, who ten years ago, or even four years ago, if he had dared to take the same position then, would have been branded as a traitor and driven from the party in disgrace, is to-day made the nominee of that party, amid great enthusiasm, for the highest office in the Republic? It is simple proof of the fact that the old party bosses are frightened, demoralized, and panic-stricken. They are alarmed at the increased intelligence of the people, and at the indignation of the voters, from ocean to ocean, against their folly and treachery for the last twenty years.

No one knows better than do these party bosses that not for a single time since the war has their party put forward a platform or named a candidate that stood for at least one of the great fundamental principles of Democracy, as laid down by Jefferson and Jackson, and that now the masses who believe in those principles are about to rebel against their party. And hence it is that they grab this young patriot, who is on the verge of leaving the party and going to the Peoples Party, and make him their standard bearer, because they realize that over half of their voters are also on the verge of leaving their party and going to the Peoples Party. This is why the old party machine, which has ridiculed the Peoples Party in the past, stole the Peoples Party in the past, and appropriated it as its own. In short, they have put up that platform and nominated Mr. Bryan in order to try to kill the Peoples Party, that young giant which came into existence to preserve and defend the principles of Jefferson and Lincoln, which both of the old parties had betrayed and deserted. Yes, to try to kill the Peoples Party, which has driven them into making their first patriotic declaration in national convention since the war.

Yes, Mr. Bryan owes his nomination to the existence and rapid growth of the Peoples Party, and the party bosses are out trying to use him to destroy the very power that gave him his nomination.

Ordinarily the acts of an idiot or fool are noticed to be pitied and excused; but it is possible that honest and sincere men may become disgusted at the action of even so big an idiot as the ordinary Democrat, and so thoroughly disgusted as to make any future relation of any kind with him an utter impossibility. The action of the Democrats in this matter may prove to be a great instance in point.

The condition now existing is about this. The silver Democrats have thrown around themselves a barrier which may prove, and in all probability will prove, insurmountable to other forces of a kindred character. It is practically impossible for the Democrats to get out of the enclosure into which they have thrown themselves, and it probably may be the best policy to let them die therein without any special effort to aid them and without any sympathy for them. Die they must if aid is not given them, and their foolhardy course and contemptible action may cause it to be thought that they are unworthy of so much as an effort to aid them, even though they should now beg for it.

We clip the following from an Associated Press Dispatch from Chicago, under date July 3rd.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 3.—The gold standard leaders are here. That means the fight is on.

Ex-Governor Roswell P. Flower was the first to arrive and he did not wait to get the train of travel from his home before he had launched into the fight. The first place he tackled was the West Virginia headquarters, where he met delegate Chilton. He had a very animated conference with him, and when he had finished he said to the Associated Press representative: "I had an idea about the spread of this silver fallacy and now I have confirmed it. These West Virginia people admit that they are not particularly in favor of this silver business, but they have some other end to attain. In West Virginia, the Democratic party has been losing votes to the Populists each year. They believe that they can recover this vote by going for free silver. The situation is the same all through the country."

This tells the whole story. It is another piece of direct convincing testimony to prove what Senator Butler said in his speech in Wilmington recently, and what THE CAUCASIAN has frequently said since the silver convention at Raleigh last September. It shows why these Southern machine politicians, who have sacrificed the cause of silver and financial reform for twenty years, who have deliberately betrayed the people into the hands of the goldbugs, are now yelling so loud and so vociferously for silver. They are frightened at the rapid growth of the Peoples Party. They see that they cannot fool the people any longer about the real issue. Yet these machine politicians are now yelling for silver in order to try to save their political machines, and to keep themselves in office. If by this means they can kill the Peoples Party, then they will again after this campaign go into co-partnership with the eastern goldbugs and betray the people for party spoils.

None know better than the Wall street goldbugs how basely the Southern politicians have betrayed the welfare and prosperity of the people in the past, and none have a better right at this time to express their supreme disgust at the hypocrisy of these leaders when they now declare so loudly for silver and the people. Governor Flower tells the whole story in the above interview when he says that these Southern politicians care nothing for silver, but are now clamoring for it in order to fool the voters of the South and hold them in party ranks. These false professions will not fool all of the people; some will be fooled, and they have ample time to repent their folly.

The curiosities of Democracy have for some years been a marvel to us. For instance, Samuel R. Randall was a high protectionist and was a Democrat when the party was called a free trade party. Then Cleveland is a goldbug when the party swore it was for free silver four years ago. Then there are the various kinds of Democrats which we have mentioned—all curiosities.

Now, last week the national Democratic convention bragged that it had downed the eastern and northern Democrats. It declared for free silver; against national banks; for government ownership of railroads, and then—what? Why it nominated Arthur Sewall, for vice-President. If he should be elected, there is no certainty that he may not be President. And who is he? A railroad magnate, national bank president and shipping prince from Maine. That the extreme of folly and in their madness and monomania plunged into a position which other silver forces may find themselves unable to approach or reach. And if this proves to be so, the silver Democrats have foolishly made impossible that unity of the silver forces which is absolutely necessary to victory.

"No, get out, we don't want you!" was the plain response of these fool Democrats to the overtures of friends. "If you can't go OUR way, do as we do, and march as WE say, you can let it alone," was the further apparent reply of these silver Democratic ninnyhammers.

This kind of thing is what Democrats can do and endorse and approve. But a Populist can never see any consistency or honesty in it. The matter is made more curious from the fact that the Maine Democrats have declared for gold, and have nominated a man for Governor on a gold platform. Mr. Sewall has neither left nor denounced the party in consequence of that act.

Senator Pritchard is no longer a "friend to silver," and so friends to silver can no longer be (political) friends to Mr. Pritchard. He has taken the plunge into the gold camp, and the only honest and consistent thing for him to do now is to advocate the gold standard. Professions of being friendly to silver from him cannot and will not be taken seriously now by those who once supported him for a high office. If his words are to be believed, he has repudiated pledges heretofore made, and he can expect nothing less than repudiation of himself by those to whom he made those pledges. Mr. Pritchard will yet sit in the Senate before the people will have an opportunity to dismiss him as their representative there, but he hardly think any action he may take will be inconsistent with his former promises during the time that he will remain Senator. Here is his latest promise and opinion:

"I shall cheerfully support the Republican ticket, and I feel confident McKinley and Hobart will carry North Carolina by a handsome majority, and that the action of the Chicago convention insures the election of the Republican ticket by an overwhelming majority."

Just put on your thinking cap, citizen. Referring to the nomination of Sewall for the Vice-Presidency the New York Journal makes some significant comments. It says:

"Mr. Sewall's nomination is a shrewd move in more ways than one. It maintains the standing of the party as a national organization, and curbs the dangerous sectional irritation developed by the discussion of the money question. It tends, too, to promote confidence in the intentions of the new element that has seized control of the organization, since a man of Mr. Sewall's standing and substance would hardly be a leader of the gang of red-shirted Anarchists, with the fuses of bombs sticking out of their pockets, which the silver Democracy is supposed, in some respectable Eastern circles, to be."

With the exception of that little hitch, the programme has been completely carried out. It stands this way:

1872—Grant, Republican.
1876—Tilden, Democrat.
1880—Garfield, Republican.
1884—Cleveland, Democrat.
1888—Harrison, Republican.
1892—Cleveland, Democrat.

The scheme has been a success from start up to date. Both Republicans and Democrats have allowed themselves to stand a blame poor chance when Democrats are around.

Populist platforms and Populist hats seem to stand a blame poor chance when Democrats are around.

Say, the Demays declared for government control of railroads!! Did you ever???

And the Democratic nominee for President is also a lawyer.

SENATOR BUTLER ON THE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

He says that the Democratic Party has made better promises than ever before. But that a party which has had a "chance" must be judged by its performance, and not by its promises. Everything Good in their Platform is Stolen From The Peoples Party Platform. By telegraph to the N. Y. World.

ELLIOTT, N. C., July 11th, 1896. The Democratic party has put forward a ticket, and it is a ticket that has had in a quarter of a century, but the record of that party is so treacherous, and has shown such incompetency, that any Democrat nominated by the Chicago convention on any platform was foredoomed to defeat unless some other party vouched for their platform and supported their candidate.

Bryan is young, aggressive and honest, but the record of the Democratic party is more than even Thos. Jefferson could carry. The Democratic politicians, including Cleveland, of South and West, have by a long train of broken promises and brazen deception forfeited the confidence of the people, and hence the silver reform party of the country cannot be united in that party simply because it has made more fair promises, and asked "for another chance."

A party that has been in power must be judged by its performances, rather than by its promises. The only guarantee that present promises are in good faith is the faithfulness with which past promises have been kept. Ever since 1873 the financial question has been as great an issue, as far as the welfare and prosperity of the people was concerned, as it is to-day; yet, during all this time, a large number of the same politicians who controlled the Chicago convention, and hoped there so loudly for silver, have been in every Democratic convention, and helped to nominate straight-out and uncompromising goldbugs and unscrupulous politicians, who, if they had been the presidency, would have done just what the Republican presidents have done. They did this either ignorantly and foolishly, or knowingly and deliberately; in either case they are not safe leaders now. They have in the past agreed with the Republican politicians to keep the people ignorant of the financial issue, and to force them to fight sham battles over the tariff.

They have now put up a good platform, as far as it goes, but everything good in it was stolen from the Peoples Party platform. It is evident that the Democratic politicians, realizing they could no longer fool the people, were frightened into agreeing for silver and financial reform, and into the nomination of Mr. Bryan, on account of the rapid growth of the Peoples Party. The Democratic leaders refused every proposition for uniting the silver forces, so it seems that their desire to try to cripple the Peoples Party, was greater than their desire to defeat the goldbug. Therefore, every true friend of silver, except those who are willing to be again deceived by the Democratic party, should await the action of the Peoples Party at St. Louis on July 22nd, and then rally to its support.

The financial question will be the overshadowing issue in the nation. In North Carolina the financial question will be the overshadowing national issue, with honest elections, home county government, and other reforms for the leading State issues. MARION BUTLER, U. S. Senator from North Carolina.

should be left to the first distinctly so-called anti-Eastern Democratic convention ever held to make such a choice is one of the anomalies of this campaign. That a convention whose platform denounced the issue of money by national banks should accept a candidate who was especially recommended to it on the ground that he was a national bank president is another.

EDITORIAL COMMENT. Mr. Bryan is quoted as saying that he did not want a rich man as running mate; but then the party that nominated Mr. Bryan did want a rich man and a banker and a railroad promoter, and they took him for their gold-bug. That party seemed to lose confidence in Mr. Bryan as soon as they nominated him. If he should really be so foolish as to think the Democratic party meant all it said about banks and railroads, there must be somebody around to hold him down.

One of the brags being made by the Democrats is that their Presidential nominee has no record and cannot be attacked. Well, this may be so, but it is a fantastic fact that it would be difficult to find a Democrat who has been in public life for ten years, whose record would not fatally handicap him before a honest people. The greatest of the Democrats, therefore, is to bring forth men without records. They are still quite new.

Moreover we note that the Republicans put up a big corporation attorney for vice-President. Likewise we observe that the Democrats put up a big corporation President for the office. Now the fact is that if either one is elected he will preside over the Senate and have great influence and control over legislation.

The only reason or part of reason that the Populists can find for endorsing the Democratic ticket is this. The Democrats have got a big part of our platform and are running with it. It might not be a bad idea to run with them while for the purpose of trying to keep them from breaking our property all to smash.

And so that Democratic platform of just what for silver after all, even if Bob Glenn did have a personal letter from Cleveland saying it was, and also saying that Cleveland was for silver. Furthermore we note that Bob Glenn continues to hold down the office of silverite, as a whole lot of silverite, and also continues to say he is for silver.

Some assinine Democratic ignoramus will say that THE CAUCASIAN is simply twaddling here and is dealing in inventions. Well, if he thinks so, let him refer to a book written by Henry Clews, a Wall street banker and speculator, and who is now the leading adviser of the banking gang. The title of the book is we think, "Twenty Years to Wall Street." It shows how the Wall street-orient first went into politics for the purpose of controlling legislation in the interest of the Money Power.
