THEY ADOPT OLD PARTY METHODS.

Certain Populist editors who endorse the course of Vandervoort, Coxey & Co, who are criticising the National committee and clamoring for a conference, have stooped to the adoption of old party methods in support of their purposes. They are doing just what our Populist papers have condemned the old party and monopoly press for doing-they are suppressing the truth, dealing in mispresentation, and then appealing to the prejudice of the ignorance for which they are responsible. For some purpose (certainly not for harmony and unity) they are determined to have a conference of a faction of the party in dethe official organization of the party. They know that Coxey and his Memganization of the party had by a large any large extent. They have been admire him. majority passed upon and settled the matter as far as the party was concerned. Now in order to try to justify sary to suppress the truth and deal in began to kick. They held a tremendrials like the following:

"Since Chairman Butler refused to call a conference there was no other far-seeing people made the same comcourse left but for the Memphis committee to call it themselves."

"Chairman Butler tries to stifle the voice and will of the Populists by re- raised the cry that the people fusing to call a conference. Now the Populists who took part in this meeting and passed these resolutions, are no doubt as good Populists and as fair men as there are in the to time published similar resolutions Union, but they have been misinform- passed by the Populists in the differed, they have been lied to, they have been imposed upon.

These Coxeyites hope by these misrepresentations to work up their readers to attend their revolutionary and factional conference.

Now what are the facts? The questions of holding a meeting of the National committee and also of calling a National conference were submitted by Chairman Butler to each member members of the committee. Up to date one hundred and eight answers three voted against calling a meeting as to railroad fares: of the committee and also against holding a conference. That is, a large
