TO NOMINATE BY ACCLAMATION.

Senator Hanna's Proposition to That Effect Meeting With General Favor Among Republicans.

Cleveland, O., Special .- A Washington dispatch to the Leader says: Wast ington just now is a hive of political industry. The Arlington Hotel is one of the leading centers of political activity and one can not onter the lonby of that hostely of an evening without seeing in one corner or another, small groups of prominent figures in the Republican party, engaged in serious and earnest consultation. Conferences are held also in the apartments | bonic plague and beri beri germs. of Senator Hanna and Henry C. Payne respectively, the chairman and vice chairman of the national committee. Two of the greatest questions that are receiving the attention of these men are, first: Who shall be McKinley's running mate next year; second, shall we nominate our candidate by acclamation? In the light of information that has been gathered within the last three days from contact with leaders In politics, it may be stated almost without qualification that the Republican national ticket next year will be McKinley and Root. That the President will be renominated there has been no doubt for a long time. As to the nominee for Vice President, the sentiment is in favor of Elihu Root, the Secretary of War, which became apparent several months ago, has assumed proportions, which, in the opinfon of men who are masters in the art of politics, practically insures his being given the second place on the ticket. Careful, conservative men, such as Mr. Payne is known to be, do not hesitate at this time to predict Mr. Root's nomination for the Vice Presidency by the Republican party next year. That Mr. Root is willing to go on the ticket with Mr. McKinley there is at a cost of $2,000,000. not the slightest doubt. It may be said that even the Secretary is ambitious to procure the vice presidential nomination; in fact, it is known that he has aspirations of that character. He is perhaps better equipped for the place than almost any other New York man who has been mentioned in this ! connection. It is believed that he would be acceptable to Senator Platt, byterian Church, at New York. who by the way, was largely instrumen tal in having him appointed Secretary Alger's successor in the cabinet. When Mr. Platt was asked to-night whom he favored for the Vice Presidential nomination, he said: "Any good New York man would be nominated by acclamation." As to the matter of nominating the entire ticket by acclamation, there is reason to believe that the next Republican national convention will establish such a precedent. Senator Hanna has conceived the idea and it is remarkable how favorable it is being received. The Senator has confided his proposition to a few friends and they are enthusiastic over it. Mr. Hanna believes that inasmuch as Mr. McKinley will be renominated in that manner, his running mate should be accorded the same distinction.

"How about Mr. Root?" "Mr. Root would be satisfactory, was Mr. Platt's reply, "McKinley will

TYPHOID AT THE NORMAL.

Dr. Lewis Makes Important Discovery As To The Water.

Dr. R. H. Lewis, Secretary to the Board of Health, left Greensboro Friday, where he went Wednesday to inspect the work being done to remedy the cause of the outbreak of typhoid fever in the State Normal and Industrial College.

He found the work of removing the soil around the leaking sewer pipe in progress, but all the saturated carth has not yet been taken out. Every particle of it will, however, be removed and dry dirt put in its place. The infected wells will also be filled

p. and everything possible will be done to prevent a recurrence of the present deplorable epidemic.

Dr. Lewis says all the patients new at the college are doing well, excep two or three, who are in a very ser! ous condition. In the case of one young lady, Miss Davis, from Gran ville, gangrene has set in and it probably only a matter of a few way. before her leg will have to be cut oil Another student Miss Tinnin, of Or ange, had about recovered from ty phoid fever when she had another vilent attack of majaria.

While in Greensboro this time D Lewis made another discovery which goes far toward proving the correct ness of his former report. In that report he gave it as his epinion that the cause of the fever was impure well water. This opinion was borne out by a bacteriological examination of the water by Dr. Albert Anderson, but it was noted as a remarkable fact that only students who lived in the college dormitory were sick, while the day scholars living in the city were not affected.

This, however, was explained Wednesday when the janitor of the College building, Zeke Robinson, a negro from this city, on being questioned said that he had been accustomed to fill the water coolers in the buildings, from which both day and boarding pupils drank, with water from a mineral spring near by. But the servants in the kitchen, it was learned, supplied the table with water from the central well-the one found so badly infected. And this explains how it was that the boarders became sick while the day pupils remained well. Robinson, who is a very reliable negro, on being questioned as to why he had made the change in the water, said it was because Mr. Forney, the burser, had complained that the well water tasted bad.

Nearly all the old pupils and many new ones, Dr. Lewis says, have indicated their intention of returning to the school when it opens in January.

Feed Patatoes To save potatoes for seed one should store them where they will be kept as cool as possible without freezing. One who has only a cellar in which they wilt, grow soft and flabby, and spront long before planting, will do better to store them in a pit out of doors, if he needs many, and if he plants but few, buy them of some one who can keep them in better condition. ### Feeding of Lime to Fowls.

It is a general supposition that lime must be given fowls in the shape of ground or cracked shells, mortar, etc., but a close examination will show that lime exists in all food, and in sufficient quantities to supply the necessities of the birds. Oyster shells, or old lime, consist of carbonate of in session at Salem, closed at noon lime, which is insoluble in water. Friday. The successful work of Salem | The birds can derive no benefit from Female College was heartily endorsed it until it is dissolved. Whether lime or oyster shells is chemically changed in the gizzard or digestive organs from a carbonate to a muriate, or some other form, is difficult to state, but the lime probably undergoes no such change. It is, of course, mechanically reduced to a very fine condition by the gizzard, and is passed into the intestines, but that it enters into the circulation, or is directed to the formation of the egg shell, is a matter of doubt on the part of some. Ground shells assist the gizzard to reduce the food. If pounded or broken shells are placed before the hens they will select the sharpest or roughest pieces to be found and care but little for boxes which repeated the sounds of those that are finer, which is evidence persons' voices that were dead-a ma purpose of grinding the food. The lime in the food exists in many forms, and if the ashes of the foods be examined lime will be found in excess, thus demonstrating that the shells come that they swallow the shells for the from the food rather than from the lime taken in the crop in the shape of ovster shells or mortar. In taking this position we may be in error, but as hens lay well where there is no lime obtained except through the food consumed, while others lay softshelled eggs though freely supplied with lime, it leaves room for reflec## tion. - Farm, Field and Fireside. Nerves and Food.

It is the nervous cow that gives the greatest amount of good milk. One inclined to go to fat makes an excellent beef cow, but a relatively poor milker. As the nervous cow is apt to be smaller in proportion than a large, fat, beef-making cow, the idea gains some headway that she requires less food. Indeed, there is a tendency in some quarters to reason that a cow needs food in proportion to her size: that is, a large cow requires more than a small one. This is an error of a most pronounced order. It is nervous energy that absorbs and uses up food, and it requires more to feed such a nature than it does one of a THE SUNSET CENTRAL SPECIAL phlegmatic disposition. If anything the opposite to what is true in general practice should be observed. More rich and highly concentrated food should be given to the small milker than to the large beef maker. The good milker, if her digestion is good, can change more of her food into milk than another animal can convert into beef or fat. A good deal of this food that is given to the milker is converted directly into milk, and is thus more profitable than when fed to the beef cattle. The nervous animal's mechanism is more easily deranged than that of the heavy beef-making animals. A plow horse can stand more abuse than the high-strung race horse. Many dairymen do not appreciate this thoroughly, either in their feeding or caring for good milch cows. As the whole value of the animal's poducts depends very closely upon the condition of her digestion, a study should be made constantly of the cow's health. In a normal condition she can take a great amount of food and convert it directly into milk. This food should be given with the best possible caution, so that it will not ine the health of the animal. Give all to the cow that she will eat up clean is a good rule to go by, but if her appetite declines there is something wrong with her digestion that needs instant attention. Very frequently this cause is so simple that one overlooks it. In a nervous cow a sudden fright, undue excitement or running in the field, or anything that will upset the nerves, may cause the flow of milk to stop temporarily, and upset the digestion so that the full quantity of milk will not be given for weeks. It is to guard against such slight accidents that the dairyman must exercise his supervision and anthority. His cows are high-strung

A Weed Garcen.

It is remarkable how many really beautiful flowers are discarded because ordinarily they are classed as weeds. A woman who had plenty of land and a taste for experimenting made a "weed garden" this year which is a great success. She doesn't know the names of all the outcasts she has gathered in, but she noticed last year all the wild things that grew and flowtransplanted those that appealed to her most strongly.

"The main reason," she urges, "that they attract so little notice when growing wild is that they are not massed and arranged as we place cultivated flowers to get the best effect. Now, that is what I have done. A wild flower, or a weed, as it is scornfully termed, that is too fragile to be thought much of will make a delicate. feathery mass which will be vastly admired when planted together by the score or more."

-The parson of the parish church of has surely an irrepressible desire to trade, since he has just sold the ancestral pew of the Penn family, the church puipit, an altar cloth worked by Martha Penn, an old tombstone, and similar odds and ends which are supposed to have an historic value, because the great William Penn sometimes visited the church and sat in the family pew. These relies are now in the hands of a deeler in antiquities who may have of a dealer in antiquities, who may have some hopes of purchasers from Pitts-

-One of the most wonderful farms in the world is situated in Canada. Its peculiarity lies in the fact that everything is worked by electricity. Two waterfalls within the bounds of the farm, some 60 feet and 180 feet high. furnish the motive power, a central power house being erected near, and the current is transmitted by wires to every available place on the farm.
