A Thousand Voters Heard the Defender of the Constitution and the Upholder of Liberty Make an Eloquent and Convin-

NEWTON. N. C., July 7th, 1900. Dr. Cerus Thompson spoke here to day. Yesterday Hon. C. B Aycock Democratic numinee for Governor. was here, and spoke to a gathering reported to have numbered between four and five thousand, by his friends, Twenty-five hundred would be a liberal estimate of that number; and it is a well known fact that the gathering was composed of one-tenth of voters. and nine-tenthe women and children. The effort of Mr. Avenck's frierds to procure for him a hig show, inspired them to beg everything to turn out to swell the erowd, whether they listened to Mr. Aycork's speech or not. And this effort met with something like a show of successes.

Special efforts were put forth to make the occasion something like a gala day, and some of the people were attracted by the report that the starets were ablaze with bunting, fings, etc. They were simply out for a lark, withont any comprehension or appreciation of the purpose for which the speaking had been arranged.

To-day, Dr. Thompson addressed a growd of nearly one thousand of the sturdy voters and representative renple of the county. There were no frills of any kind, and the audience was composed almost exclusively of substantial white citizens, who listened with the closest attention to one of the strongest speeches ever made in North Carolina. The crowd sat for two bours and a half without any sign of impatience, and whatever sign there was made during the speech was in favor of his continuance, after the speaker had a'onned

Dr Thompson began his speech by a pleasing reference to the decorations. flag fleing, &c. of the day before; and then declared that he was in favor of the flag and believed in the doctrine

He stated that the sige of the crowd and the character of his hearers was an agreeable aurprice to him-that following the great day of Mr. Avonck's specking, he had expected hut a small andience-that he had never spoken in North Carolina to a more intelligent and inspiring audience than he saw before him. That he had no he pheene to offer, and that the presence of the sturdy vecmanry of Cataw ba was a declaration unmistakeshle they could not live by barberue alone After adverting to the fact of Mr

The lawyer then said, coming inside of the bar, "Well, there is a man here that is not afraid to meet you, if Mr. not put in their old time county gov. The speaker discu-sed the Constitutional Amendment in its different phases He declared that the amendment as it now stands, was not the amend ment to which the Democratic party pledged itself, a its recent State Convention, and that it was not the amendment which was passed by the Legislature of 1899; but an amended amendment, which might again be smended on the 24th of July. That after all, it was not the amendment which the Democratic party proposed to pass in the beginning of the sessi 'r of 1899; that THAT amendment pro posed not only an educational qualifieation, but also a three hundred dollar property qualification; and proposed to raise the poll tax age from fifty years to sixty years. Hon. Chas. A. Cook, member of the Legislature from Warren county, in the General Assembly of 1897, secured the passage of an important road law. It freed the poor white man from the burdensome duty of working the public roads, and besides relieved them from being forced to work him, while it will permit 60,000 nor Hartham and listened to solemnly promised to submit this disthem side by side with negro road hands. The law provided for a small tax (most of which was paid by the wealthy who used the road most) which fund was to be used for hiring labor to make good roads. The Democratic Legislature of 1899 repealed part of this law. This did not repeal the part requiring the tax to be paid for working the roads, but they repealed the part which emancipated the peopls from the burdensome duty forced the same people to pay a part of the same tax to work the public roads, while a large part of the funds raised by taxation is given to overseers a liar than a fool.
