SHOULD THE JUDGES RESIGN!

It is at least remarkable that some of the newspapers that were rampant for the impeachment and conviction of Judges Furches and Douglas hav recently been suggesting that these judges should resign, now that they have been acquitted by the High Court of Impeachment of the grave charges preferred against them

In this connection it occurs to us to say, that as seen by common lights along common lines of thinking, the time for these judges to entertain the notion of resigning closed with the preferring of the articles of impeachment by the House o Representatives, and that this peace fut method of retiring is now suggestable only to their prosecutors.

It would have been cowardly of course, for the judges to resign under fire, but with a partisan majority against them in both Houses and a partisan prosecution and conviction staring them in the face, weaker men, men less conscious of their own rectitude, might have delivered their coveted belongings to their greedy pursurers and sought safety from their fury in disgrace by the easy route of an early resignation. But this they did not do, and would not do; but said effectually to those that sought to disgrace and humiliate them and the State, "We will stand the trial and take the disgrace in a brave and lawful way, if it be the determined plan of the majority to have our places even at the cost of humiliating the State along with

These judges, having trusted not in vain in their own integrity and in the integrity as well of Senators in and out of their own party, were acquitted with satisfaction to themselves and honor to the Commonwealth; and being acquitted, they of course retain their offices, the greed for which lay at the bottom of the prosecution; and now the hungry horde having failed, they suggest that these judges resign.

A hungry man went on the road meat. He spent his bitter strength in fruitless struggle. Then lifting up his pleading hands in pathos mild, he said, "I tried to rob you but failed; none the less I pray you give me your meat and go on your that you ought to eat meat any way."
