During my long career as a specialist. I have seen thousands who are carrying around some obstinute chronic disease as a burdensome companion, which they could easily rid themselves of by the proper treatment. Any honest physician will tell you that these diseases are stubborn and obdurate, and a special knowledge is required to treat them successfully. My special fitness for treating Chronic Diseases has been acquired by twenty years of close application, devoted exclusively to their study and t eatment. I have treated more cases than any other physician in the United States, and I thuroughly understand just what is required in each case My specialty includes all chronic diseases, rach as Stricture, Variorele, Blood and Shin Disease, Bladder and Kidney Complaints, theeases of Women, etc., and my original method of treatment as proven successful in even the most obstinate cases. A Man of Business. The angry father kicks the young man from the front steps.

"Sir," says the young man, picking himself up, "I would like to call your attention to the goods handled by my house. We make the best line of soft rubber soles and heels that you car find anywhere."

Father goes back to the house, rub bing his chin and wondering whether after all, he has not make a mistake in refusing to welcome so great a business genius into his family.

ture. But while the daughter is plenteously censured for permitting it, says this writer, nothing is said of the son for whom perhaps the mother is toiling quite as hard to give a college course. As a fact, however, why shouldn't a mother toil thus for both her loved ones if she so desires? If 258 am 1250 pm that is the way, or one of the ways, in which she finds he. Puppiness, why on earth shouldn't she do it? And then the article continues: "In the majority of 'toiling mother' cases the real fact is that the mothers are unconsciously selfish pleasure seekers rather than sacrificial victims. Toiling to educate their children and give them social pleasures and lives of honor is perhaps the supreme joy and recreation of their lives. If there is anyone who really enjoys life and leads a happy, cara-free existence, it is the hard working, stay at home mother who lives in her children. In them she renews her youth and often sees the high ideals of her own g'rlhood realized." The Marine Engine is Alive. Kipling speaks of the marine engine as the most sensitive thing man ever invented. There's a sort of cold, lifeless, though admirable, precision in a telescope, and a fine regard for details in a phonograph, but the marine engine is alive; it strains and labors desperately, it groans with rheumatism in its joints, screams with the pain of tight bearings, staggers and plunges against the oncoming seas, gets out of breath and runs away with itself, trembling like a frightened horse .- Benjamin Brooks, in Scrib-

How glad I am that I did so; two bottles brought me immense relief, and after using three bottles more I felt new life and blood surging through my veins.
