THE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

"The campaign for Governor which covered about a year and which culminated in the recent convention of bitter memory was no creditable to the good name of North Carolina. The hard things that were said in that campaign and the furious struggle of the delegates as they wrestled night and day for their favorites were worthy of South Carolina or Georgia. We hope and pray that we have passed through our last political nightmare and that hereafter this unseemly scramble for office will be avoided."-Charity and Children.

Can you believe it? A dicreditable Democratic scramble for office!

OLD VETERANS GIVEN COLD SHOULDER.

Ever since the Civil War the Democratic politicians have bragged that they were the friend of the Confederate sodlier and that they always had his welfare at heart. Independent thinkers have been of the opinion all along that such talk, especially when it was not backed up by good deeds, was only to get the vote of the Confederate soldiers. Now that their ranks have thinned to such an extent that their vote cally, the Democratic politicians the safety appliance statutes, as well trine of encouragement to American the Southern Wholesale Grocers. have come out in the open and shown to the world that they have duction in the hours of labor of prestige of the country, so essential 14th. They turned down every one with but one exception, and that was a case where they had spite against the other candidates because they supported the "wrong man" for Governor. The Wilmington Star, a Democratic paper, commenting on the situation, says: '

Commenting further on the subject The Star again says:

"The Confederate veteran is told the support of the 'younger Democracy' on election day or else be to his State."

NEW DEMOCRATIC MACHINE. on Saturday during the holding of should be issued without notice, exthe Democratic State Convention in Charlotte there was a bitter demonstration against F. M. Simmons when granted. his name was presented to the convention for a delegate-at-large to the national convention, and he would have been defeated had his name not been withdrawn by one of his friends. During Sunday the new could muster, even including Simsources or the National Government of the new machine, who at their heart hated him, decided it would be best to send Simmons to the national convention, but so the his hands with instructions that he could do no harm. On the following Monday, when Simmons' name was again presented as a delegate-al-large, there were protests from some of the rank and file who had not been instructed just how they should vote. But was whispered into their ears just how the new machine wanted them to vote, they no longer hand them to vote, they no longer wanted them to vote, they no longer wanted them to vote, they no longer as much and an opinion of their own, and, as usual, walked up and voted like in the positions. "As is known, the sensation of the convention at Charlotte was the row that Saturday night or rather Sunday morning, over naming Senator Simmons delegate-at-large to the Bryan convention. Some of the Kitchin folks were against him because he had been with Craig, but their leaders knew that the worst thing that could happen to Kitchin would be the defeat of Simmons as a delegate, and they passed the word along as best they could, for the dially ever since the Carr-Simmons campaign, astounded those who knew this by getting on a chair and bawling for the Senator as loud as
