EDITORIAL BRIEFS

We should like to cut off relations with Italy, or raise the tariff on pellagra and the hook-worm.

Now that he is dead we are informed that Harriman was a pretty decent sort of fellow.

What would the daily papers talk about if Peary and Cook hadn't discovered the North Pole?

A Raleigh lady has married a Pole. Those Arctic explorers are causing many new fads in this country.

It cost one of the Democratic candidates for Commissioner of Agriculture of Virginia just $2,938.23 to get defeated.

Cotton has reached thirteen cents, the highest price paid this fall. "Thirteen" may not be so unlucky after all.

Cook has landed in New York and Peary will soon be there, when the row over the North Pole will begin in earnest.

Admiral Peary had better prove that he reached the North Pole before attempting to disprove Dr. Cook's claim.

It seems that some Democratic officials are not satisfied with just holding office, but want to make a little on the side.

The anti-trust law was published recently in nearly every paper in the State, but that is the only publicity the law has ever had.

Those commissioners in Guilford County who traded with themselves may have done "no moral wrong," yet they violated the law.

And now some of the magazine writers say that the children in the Southern mill districts are afflicted with "echolalia." What next?

The young man arrested in Hamlet for stealing eighteen pistols must have been making preparations for a red-shirt reunion in North Carolina.

But just suppose a Republican official should get on habitual sprees when do you think the Democratic papers would stop talking about it?

In speaking of the prominent Southern Democrats in Congress the New York Sun failed to mention a single member from North Carolina.

It was a shame to have the State papers go to the expense of publishing the anti-trust law, if the State authorities did not intend enforcing it.

Great Britain now claims ownership of the North Pole. We hope that Pole will not bring on war between England and the United States.

If the State officials would enforce the anti-trust law it would be better proof of its effectiveness than the mere publication of the law in the newspapers.

Some of the Western Democrats want to run Craige again for Governor. He must have an easy way of getting money if he can stand a second race.

Lieutenant Shackleton says that a blizzard kept him from reaching the South Pole. Any one would naturally infer that the cold weather had something to do with his failure to reach the Pole.

The Houtson (Texas) Post suggests that this State ought to give ex-Governor Glenn an office in order to keep him quiet. His party tried that once, but the plan didn't work at all.

The Democratic politicians have about all agreed that Simmons will not be re-elected to the United States Senate and the fight in the Democratic ranks will probably narrow down to Kitchin and Aycock.

The News and Observer says that there have been more arrests for violation of the laws in Raleigh under the new administration than under the old administration, which is rather a doubtful compliment for the new administration.

The city of Wilmington has raised several thousand dollars for the entertainment of President Taft and his party when they visit that city on November 9th. The indications are that Wilmington will do herself proud on that occasion.

THREW POISON IN A WELL.

Mecklenburg Negroes Tried to Exterminate a Whole Family.

Charlotte Observer.]

Son Hope and Ed Dunn, colored, of Providence Township, were bound over to the Superior Court yesterday by Squire S. H. Hilton on the serious charge of throwing poison into the well of another colored citizen of the same neighborhood, Harry Stitt, with whom one of them, Son Hope, has a grievance. On account of the fact that the offense was exceedingly heinous, the magistrate fixed the bonds of the negroes at $400, which neither was able to give.

The attempt to poison the family of Stitt was unsuccessful, but only by chance did Hope fail to accomplish his purpose of putting some of them beyond this "vale of tears." It so happened that the family arose after daylight, and when the little girl went to the well she perceived at once that something was wrong with the water which had a greenish color. Calling Stitt, her father, it was at once discovered that some one had thrown a substance resembling Paris green into the well, and Stitt, very thoughtfully, brought the bucket of water to the city where it was analyzed. Stitt was told by those who made the examination that the coloring was that of Paris green and that enough had been put in the well to exterminate the entire neighborhood.

BOY STOLE EIGHTEEN PISTOLS.

Then Wanted Witnesses to Prove Him Insane.

Hamlet, N. C., Sept. 18.—Coleman Caudle, a youth about eighteen years of age, was arrested yesterday, charged with breaking into the hardware store of the Everett Hardware Company, of Rockingham, and making his escape with about eighteen revolvers.

A very amusing incident occurred at the preliminary hearing before Mayor R. A. Lackey. Mr. Lackey read the charge and asked the prisoner if he was ready for trial. He replied that he was not.

"What is your reason?" said the mayor.

"I want some witnesses," replied the prisoner.

"Well, what do you want to prove by those witnesses," asked the court.

"Insanity," said the prisoner.

Littleton Has a Sensation.

Littleton, N. C., Sept. 20.—Quite a sensation was created here Saturday when J. F. Watkins, a hiveryman, aged about 45, was arrested here on the charge of carrying a deadly weapon and shooting at W. S. Bobbitt, a merchant, who is considerably older than Watkins. The whole story came to light in the mayor's office when it came out in the evidence that Watkins had met Mrs. Bobbitt, together with Miss Bertie Williams, her sister, evidently by appointment, near Shaw's Springs. Mr. Bobbitt learned of the meeting and securing his musket went forth, firing four shots; it is said his aim was defective. Watkins is said to have returned the fire with a revolver, but his aim also was bad, neither party being hit. Watkins was placed under bond to appear at court, now in session, at Warrenton. It is creating much talk here, as is also the information that both Mrs. Bobbitt and Miss Williams have disappeared. Mr. Bobbitt is a quiet, inoffensive man, while Watkins bears a most unsavory reputation.

A Girl From Johnson County III Treated By Man Named Norton.

Rockingham Post.]

A story containing much of pathos was that related to Justice Long Tuesday by Maggie Godwin, a little country girl apparently not more than eighteen years old. The girl said that her home was at Benson, in Johnston County, and that she came to Rockingham in response to a letter from her sweetheart, J. M. Norton, who promised to marry her immediately on her arrival here. On her arrival she insisted on his keeping his word but he found some excuse for not doing it and kept making her promises. The couple then went to Hannah Pickett mills and both found work. They lived together as man and wife, the girl daily pleading with the man to keep his promise. Norton treated the girl very badly, frequently getting drunk and beating her. Tuesday she decided that she could stand it no longer and come to town and swore out a warrant for Norton. He heard of it and, drawing all the money due them at the mill as wages, he skipped. The officers have failed to locate him.

Norton came here from Lumberton. Any information as to his whereabouts will be appreciated by the local authorities.

Disappointed in Love She Committed Suicide.

Burnsville Eagle.]

Squire L. C. Brown was in town this week and told the Eagle of a suicide which occurred in Ramseytown Township, on Big Creek, a few days ago. Loretta Randolph, a daughter of Merrett Randolph, ended her life by cutting her throat with a razor. She lived only a few hours. It is said that disappointment in a love affair caused her to take her own life.

DEFENDS PAYNE BILL

President Says New Tariff Law the Best Ever Passed.

SPEECH AT WINONA, MINN.

Mr. Taft's Speech Made in Representative Tawney's District Greeted With Hearty Applause—Said He Was Glad That Those Who Voted Against Bill Are Still Active Republicans—Will Urge Establishment of Postal Savings Banks in Next Message.

Winona, Minn., Sept. 17.—In the most important utterance he has made since his occupancy of the White House, President Taft here to-night, in a State which is the hot-bed of the "insurgent" movement within the Republican party, defended the Payne tariff bill as the best tariff measure ever passed by a Republican Congress and hence the best tariff bill the people have ever known. The President boldly asserted that the insurgents, who voted against the bill, had abandoned the Republican party.

"Was it the duty of the member of Congress who believed that the bill did not accomplish everything that it ought to accomplish, to vote against it?" asked the President.

"I am here to justify those who answer this question in the negative. I am not here to defend those who voted for the Payne bill, but to support them."

With this statement the crowd in the Winona opera-house responded with a cheer which could be heard far down the street. It was shouted by the adherents of Representative Jas. A. Tawney, of this District, the chairman of the House Committee on Appropriations, who has been on the defensive ever since the adjournment of Congress because he did not vote with the other members of the delegation from Minnesota, both in the House and Senate, against the bill.

"To make party government effective," said the President tonight, "the members of that party should surrender their personal predilections of comparative less importance."

"I am glad to see that those who voted against the bill still insist that they are Republicans, and that they intend to keep up the fight for still lower tariff rates within the party. That is their right and in their view of things, is their duty."

Favors Postal Savings Banks.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 17.—President Taft devoted his principal address in Milwaukee at the State Fair today to the subject of postal savings banks, which he strongly endorsed before a large and enthusiastic gathering that overflowed the grand stand.

President Taft said that the postal savings bank plank in the Republican platform bound everybody who calls himself a Republican.

President Receives Great Ovation at Denver.

Denver, Col., Sept. 21.—Making his way still further to the West, President Taft arrived in Denver this afternoon, and to-night in the Denver auditorium, where a year ago Mr. Bryan was nominated as his opponent in the Presidential race, faced a crowd of thousands, that in its noisy welcome and continuing enthusiasm recalled some of the scenes of convention week.

President Taft, switching from his purpose to discuss the question of the conservation of natural resources in his Denver speech, elected to-night to take up the corporation tax passed as a part of the Payne tariff bill and to defend it as against the proposition to impose a direct income tax, which he acknowledged seemed likely to pass the Senate when the corporation tax was devised as a compromise. The President strongly urged that all the States should adopt the proposed amendment to the constitution, however, to make an income tax possible in time of need.

Drunken Father Drives Children From Home.

Durham, N. C., Sept. 20.—The county officials are trying in some way to get at John Shepherd, a white man of the city, who is charged with cruelly whipping his little children and running them off from home. Shepherd's wife died about eight months ago. Since that time he has drunk heavily and has been in several troubles. The little children declare that he ran them away and that he would not support them. They were sent to the County Home and will be kept there while the county will be asked to bring an indictment against the white man.

A Democratic magistrate of Raleigh took on so much booze that he got "drunk and down" and spent the night in the city lock-up; of course his name is withheld, but if he had been a Republican what do you suppose Josephus would have said about him?—Clinton News-Dispatch.

BILKINS IN INDIA

Massacre of the British Residents at Cawnpore in 1857.

THE MEMORIAL AT LUCKNOW

Bombay, Calcutta and Other Cities—Cawnpore, the Slaughter-House—Heaven Outbreaks and Results—The Pearl Mosque and Other Wonderful Buildings in India—A War, or Rather, Two Wars That Lasted a Thousand Years—Akbar and His Castle—A Wonderful Tomb—Shah Jehau the "Builder."

Calcutta, India, Sept. 11, 1909.

Correspondence of The Caucasian-Enterprise.

India is so great, if not in size, in population, an' in curious people an' strange sights, that I hardly know when I hev told even the half. Bombay an' Calcutta furnish enough to fill a book larger than hev ever bin printed an' their air but two cities. Agra an' Delhi each claim notice to say nothin' or Cawnpore, where the British residents wuz massacred in 1857 by the enraged heathen. The number included the British garrison. At Cawnpore stands a wonderful memorial, the gift of wealthy English people. It is called "The Angel of the Resurrection" an' hit marks the spot of the massacre. The inscription on this memorial reads: "Sacred to the perpetual memory of a great company of Christian people, chiefly women an' children, who near this spot were cruelly murdered by the followers of the rebel Nana Dhuudu Pant, of Bithur, and cast, the dying with the dead, into the well below, on the 15th day of July, 1857." At Lucknow, not far way stands another memorial. The large building occupied at that time by the British officials wuz used as a fort when the heathen got wild. In this building wuz crowded nine hundred English troops, one hundred and fifty volunteers, seven hundred native troops, six hundred women and children (English) an' seven hundred friendly natives—total, about three thousand. Against them wuz awl the population of that section of India. The brave garrison held the temporary fort from the first of July until the 17th of November when relief came in the shape of soldiers an' sailors from England, that bein' az early az relief could reach them, for hit wuz some little time before England found that a rebellion wuz goin' on. Of the three thousand who sought refuge in the buildin', but about one thousand wuz saved. Sir Colin Campbell of the English army led the rescuin' party. Hit iz sed that a Scotch girl, one of the imprisioned, dreamed the night before that help would arrive soon, and some claim that the famous English song, "The Campbells are Coming," wuz inspired by this dream, though this iz disputed. At any rate, one-third of the besieged people, mostly women an' children only, fer practically awl of the soldiers and other men had fallen, wuz saved. This and other outbreaks forced England to place a greater number of soldiers in India to preserve order, an' they make the people of India pay fer hit awl, which iz rite, I guess. The English army in India iz now distributed so well an' iz so large that the natives must behave, an' they know hit, though hit iz a little child or forty millions controlin' the giant with three hundred millions.

In India England governs by an' through natives. Some of them air smart men. One of the Judges of the Supreme Court in Bombay iz called "The Honorable My Justice Badruddin Tyabji." I would be glad to see this gentleman filling a place on the bench in North Carolina, on the Supreme Court bench, fer instance. I think hit would do good.

In a recent letter I think I said that this country contains many wonderful things, includin' some very remarkable buildin's. The Pearl Mosque at Delhi iz worthy of special mention under this head, an' there air others. The Pearl Mosque stands in the peculiar Mohammedan style. Hit iz built entirely of pearl, that iz, hit iz overlaid with pearl and must hev cost a vast sum, fer hit iz beautiful beyond description.

India, like most foreign countries, hev had war an' some of the results air still visible. One of these iz the famous Kutah Minar, or tower, built about seven hundred years ergo by one of the Mohammedan conquerors after he captured Delhi. This tower, built of stone, iz two hundred an' thirty-eight feet high, an' iz forty-seven feet in diameter at the base an' nine feet at the top. The capture of a city wuz important, but the heathen soldier must hev over-estimated his own importance.

After the death of Mohammed, which didn't cause much weepin' an' wallin' outside of India, fer hit wuz not known fer several hundred years that they had bin sich a feller, the Moslems made an attack upon India. This war lasted more than five hundred years, stop-watches not havin' bin invented at that time. Seriously speakin', this wuz probably the longest

SLAUGHTERING THE JEWS.

Bloody Riot in a Russian Town—Synagogue Attacked, Rabbi Killed, Congregation Butchered and the Edifice Set on Fire—Jewish Women Chained Together and Driven Through the Streets.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 21.—A dispatch received here to-day confirms the report that many persons have been killed and hundreds injured in the anti-Jewish outbreaks at Kieff. Twenty were killed in to-day's fights alone.

The attack to-day came as the culmination of a series of outbreaks which started last Thursday while the Jews were celebrating their New Year.

Hundreds of peasants, hired by the reactionary leaders, were armed and plied with drinks until maddened. They led in the rioting and some of the details of the atrocities practiced by them upon Jewish women and children are too terrible for print.

One hundred Jewish women were seized by the peasants, stripped of their clothing and chained together. They were led naked through the streets, while the drunken rioters shouted curses and insults at them.

The husbands and sons of the women tried to defend them, but they were beaten back.

The peasants and soldiers sacked the homes of the Jews, setting some of them afire. What loot they did not carry away they piled into street and set afire. It was upon one of these bonfires that two Jewish bodies were chained and slowly burned to death, while the rioters danced about the fire shouting and screaming in a frenzy of bloody abandon.

A band of Semites armed and tried to defend themselves. They were driven up against a stone wall and shot down like dogs. With great knives the peasants dismembered their bodies, kicking the arms and legs and heads through the streets.

As the slaughter continued the Russians completely lost control of themselves and became savages. Drunk, their hands and clothing stained with the blood of their victims, they fought among themselves over the division of their spoils.

A number of Jewish women fled to roofs and were not found until the Russians began sacking their homes. The women, to avoid capture, poured boiling water upon the soldiers who tried to ascend to the roof. Finally their supply gave out and the soldiers gained the roof, throwing the women headlong into the street below.

One of the first acts of the mob was to rush upon the synagogue. The rabbi was conducting services and the edifice was full of worshippers. Brandishing their weapons, the intoxicated soldiers and ruffians burst into the temple, screaming blasphemous oaths. The rabbi was seized and dragged into the street, where he was killed. The mob attacked the congregation and the floor of the church ran red with blood.

When the floor became too slippery for the butchers to continue belaboring the Jews, they drove the congregation into the streets and set fire to the building. Almost every home was visited. Among the dead were a number of babies, some of them being torn from their mother's breasts.

Sad Accident in Stanley.

That was a sad accidental shooting recently in Stanley County, of Ralph Lefler, son of George Lefler, near Misenheimer Springs. In picking up his gun it was accidentally discharged, the whole load entering his breast. His father had recently dropped dead. The lad was only fourteen years old. Another evidence of the folly of boys carrying guns.—Ashboro Courier.

A Young Grandfather.

Superintendent J. H. Holmes, of the Winston Fire Department, is just a little bit ahead of Mr. W. T. Stewart in the matter of grandfathership. Mr. Holmes says he was married when he was fifteen years old, and that two months before he was thirty-six years old his daughter, who is Mrs. Charlie Payne, gave birth to a child. The child is now a year old.—Union Republican.

Negro Coughed Up Bullet.

Salisbury, N. C., Sept. 18.—After being shot in the face with a pistol in the hands of Sylvester Reeves here yesterday, Martin Wood, a well-known colored man, coughed up the bullet with which he had been shot, spitting it upon the ground. His injuries, while painful, are not thought to be fatal.

Horrible Accident at Cotton Gin.

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 18.—Hermon Beattie, aged 12 years, met with a fatal accident at the gin of E. B. Spurrier, in Paw Creek Township. The boy's arm was literally jerked from his body by shafting in which it had become entangled. He was also whirled around the shafting. Medical attention was given but his life could not be saved.

Disastrous Fire at Pinetops.

Tarboro, N. C., Sept. 21.—Every business place on the west side of the East Carolina Railway was swept away by fire Sunday at Pinetops, which left only one place of business standing. The origin of the fire is unknown. The loss is estimated between $40,000 and $55,000, about 20 per cent being covered by insurance.

EQUINOCTIAL STORM

Passed Over Gulf States Leaving Wreck and Ruin in Its Wake.

FOUR PERSONS ARE KILLED

New Orleans Gets the Worst of the Storm—Was Cut Off From Communication With Outside World—The Property Loss in New Orleans Alone Will Amount to Over $100,000—Several Miles of Track of the Illinois Central Washed Away—Much Damage Done at Biloxi, Mississippi.

A tropical hurricane swept over many of the Southern States Monday doing considerable damage in many towns along the Mississippi and Gulf Coast. New Orleans, apparently the storm centre, was cut off from communication with the outside world.

It left in its wake four dead at New Orleans and perhaps others along the Gulf Coast, though no definite advices of mortality in other sections have thus far been reported here.

The velocity of the wind was the most intense in the history of the Weather Bureau there. The tracks of the Illinois Central out from that city was covered with water and several miles of the track washed away.

The storm at Mobile was very severe. Many small boats were washed away and the water backed up in the city for several blocks. Many people along the Alabama coast flocked into Mobile for safety. At Biloxi, Miss., the storm was severe and did much damage to property.

Five hundred feet of the track of the Gulf Coast Traction Company was washed away and all the bath-houses and piers along the beach from Gulf port to Senator Money's home, a distance of five miles, were washed away.

At Pensacola, Fla., several barges loaded with lumber lost their cargoes and two were sunk. The tide was higher there than for many years. Considerable damage was done to the rice crop in Western Louisiana.

Later News From Storm District. Jackson, Miss., Sept. 21.—Two persons were killed here last night as a result of the storm which swept portions of Mississippi yesterday, their death was caused by falling walls. Hundreds of buildings were unroofed in the city, fences carried away and trees uprooted. The east dome of the new capitol building was crushed in and a number of upper rooms flooded.

Charles Clayton and Karl Wooster, blacksmiths, were caught beneath falling walls here last night and badly mangled. Wooster was killed outright, and Clayton died to-day. The old capitol building was unroofed, several sections of the roofing being carried hundreds of yards.

Result at Vicksburg.

Vicksburg, Miss., Sept. 21.—Two boats were sunk by the storm which swept over Vicksburg and vicinity last night and early to-day and other property was damaged to a large extent.

Need a Chairman That Will Work to Build Up the Party.

The Eastern Recorder.] Next year is the time to get busy and elect our chairmen both in county, district and State, and the Recorder takes this occasion to sound this note of warning. The Republican party, meaning all the people that goes to make up that party, should see to it that the very best men should be selected as chairmen of the various executive committees. Elect men that will give the party some of his time and one that is really desirous of seeing his party grow. We have no patience with the fellow that wants to vote for a certain man because he is his friend, but the question for the party is, "Is he the man for the place?" If the fellow has held that job before and the party has not grown under his leadership, then the thing for the party to do is to get a man that can so manage the party that the thousands of good men who are leaving the Democratic party will come to the Republican party. What our party needs is men that can do things and not lose our chance of electing our ticket simply because the head of the party is totally incompetent to manage and direct our party as it should be. We've got no pets, never did have, and don't want any; but we intend to see, so far as we can, that our party next time puts up men that really have the success of the party at heart, and men that know how to direct and lead us to success. Republicans, if you would succeed, you must lay down your pets, if you have any, and put men in the saddle who can and will carry our grand old banner to success. She has been in the dust long enough.

News from Greensboro says that the United States Clerk of Court, S. L. Trogden, will resign October 1st and that United States Marshal Millikan will resign to accept Mr. Trogden's place. There is speculation as to whom will succeed Mr. Millikan as Marshal.
