A barbecue was given the postmasters by the Raleigh Chamber of Commerce at the Fair Grounds yesterday (Wednesday) afternoon.

Wake Court Has Big Docket. Wake County Superior Court convened Monday for a two weeks term for the trial of criminal cases, Judge Allen presiding.

There are 179 cases on the docket. There are some capital cases which are expected to come up at this term. One is against Dan Mizell, charged with entering the home of Ella Johnson, near the Soldiers' Home; another is against Bob Keith, alias Bob Jones, of Barton's Creek Township, charged with the murder of his own child. It is alleged that the baby was sleeping in a separate bed on the night of its death, that it was crying and Keith would not let his wife go to the child, that Keith grew tired of the crying and went to the bed and choked it or slapped it on the cheek. The baby hushed immediately and when the mother went to the bedside next morning she found it dead.

Lovie Upchurch is to be tried for the murder of another negro woman at Johnson street depot.

There are also cases against Foster Evans, Gordon Evans and David Jackson for the murder of Sue Holding, a negro, near Roleville. Daniel Gill will be tried for rape and attempt to commit rape.

The Unlucky Thirteen. There were just thirteen cases called in the Raleigh police court Monday. The charge against ten of the defendants was for being drunk and disorderly, while another was placed under a bond of $200 on the charge of retailing.

It's the greatest healer on earth. Sold by all druggists.

JOHN ROBINSON COMING.

Big Shows Will be Here Next Thursday for Two Performances.

The splendid reputation of the John Robinson shows is so firmly established none will doubt the genuineness of the promises made, and no one will be disappointed. This year the show has been enlarged so as to rank with any tented organization on the road. Thousands of dollars have been spent in improving every department.

It costs about $3,500 a day to run such a big circus. There are 670 men with the show, besides $3 advance men, contracting agents and bill posters with the three advertising cars.

The Robinson Show carries 300 horses and 70 ponies, the lot valued at $70,000. The eight big elephants represent a fortune in themselves.

With the monster show is its own surgeon, barbers, blacksmiths, electricians and others.

No one who is not in touch with the great show can form any idea of the immensity of it. It is a small city in itself, constantly on the move, but with all kinds of mechanical provisions for its running.

One thousand pounds of meat are consumed daily in the circus dining halls, to say nothing of barrels of potatoes and similar supplies. All is purchased daily. In the culinary department are employed fifteen cooks and thirty-six waiters, besides assistant cooks, meat cutters and pastry cooks.

A circus is a splendid object lesson in system—perfect system.

This is seen in the unloading of the cars and in every detail of the work. Every man is held responsible for his particular duty.

Mr. John G. Robinson who accompanies the circus, has 26 assistants on his staff. His "office on wheels" is complete, being provided with all conveniences, even long distance and local telephones, electric lights, etc.

The laundry bill for the Big Show alone is $250 per week.

The money carried out of town by a circus is the extra money brought in by excursionists who come to the show. The money received from town people is more than offset by the sums paid out here for supplies and other needed expenses. The Big Shows are coming to Raleigh Thursday, October 7th.

Man Sold Ten Fictitious Bales of Cotton.

A man who gave his name as C. E. Jones, swindled Barbee & Co., cotton buyers, out of near six hundred dollars a few days ago. Jones sold Barbee & Co. one bale of cotton and was given a ticket at the platform showing weight which was to be presented to Messrs. Barbee & Co. for payment. Before presenting the ticket "Jones" made it read eleven bales and changed the weight to correspond. The man was paid for eleven bales and the fraud was not detected until after Jones had left town. J. Ernest Smith, son of Mr. Marcus Smith, who lives in Houses Creek Township, was arrested Friday charged with the offense, but he made the officers believe that he sold his bale to another firm and was released. Luther Thompson, who was in Raleigh the day "C. E. Jones" sold the cotton was arrested Saturday, as the officers believe he knows something of the crime. He was required to give bond in the sum of $100.

Wake Forest Man Killed by a Train.

The mangled body of Luther Henson, a white man of Wake Forest, was found by the railroad track, a half mile from Wake Forest, early Sunday morning. Coroner Seapark, of Raleigh, was sent for to hold an inquest, but as the body was found within the corporate limits of Wake Forest, he stated that it was not within his jurisdiction. Those who had last saw Henson alive state that he was in a drunken condition. It is possible that he fell asleep on the railroad track and did not hear the train approaching. He leaves a wife and two children.

Special Rates to the State Fair.

Secretary Pogue says that the exhibits at the State Fair this year are expected to outclass the exhibits of past years, and that many free attractions have been booked. The railroads are offering special rates to the Fair and several of the roads will run special trains for two or three days during the Fair. The prospects are bright for an unusually large attendance this year.

Given Chance to Reform.

Thirteen-year-old Marie Pulley, of Johnston County, was placed on trial at Smithfield last week for the murder of her foster father. Pulley had maltreated the girl, and she was not sentenced, but released on the understanding she was to be placed in a reformatory.

Given Six Years in Jail.

Hillman High, a white man of Wake County, who eloped with his niece, the daughter of Mr. James Markham, of Durham County, was tried yesterday for forgery on three counts and sentenced to six years in jail.

President Taft at Seattle.

Seattle, Washington, Sept. 29.—President Taft to-night reached the Pacific coast just two weeks after his start from Boston. He will leave Seattle for Tacoma on Friday.

BILKINS IN INDIA.

The pillars or ceilings of this temple air of pure white marble and every inch of surface is covered with figures of heathen gods, human beings, animals, and flowers. In one great hall maidens danced; in another warriors fought; in a third flowers bloomed, and in a fourth a chiseled out of marble in the best of workmanship. When the Mohammedans conquered and invaded India they destroyed some of the beautiful things found in this temple. Lord Curzon, the English Viceroy in India, attempted to restore the temple to its former beauty. But he found that it was not possible to find marble to match that in the temple, hence hit it still a mystery what that marble came from.

With all his riches India is not happy. The "plague" still exists. This disease has killed countless thousands in that country. It is estimated that ten thousand people die daily in India from that disease alone. The best medical talent has been employed for years trying to find a preventive and a remedy, but with only partial success.

Bombay is the leading manufacturing city in India. Here air many large cotton mills. These mills are owned and operated by natives to a large extent. But English capital and energy introduced the industry.

The Parsees are a peculiar religious sect found in India, being especially strong in an "near Bombay." The Hebrews claim to have been the first believers in one God. But the Parsees dispute the claim. Their sacred books give history dating back as much as three thousand years before Christ, that is, history of the Parsees. The members of this religious order, and they seem to be religious, dress in a neat but peculiar style, both men and women, known as the Parsee costume. The original members of the denomination were mostly Persians. When the Moslems swept over Persia, conquerors of the country, they tried to force the Parsees to adopt the Moslem faith, the Moslems being very much like the members of a certain well-known political party in the United States, not religious, but arrogant and intolerant. The Parsees, or a portion of them, left Persia and located at an "near Bombay, India. For more than nine hundred years they have preserved their identity in heathen India and have made gains, probably having a hundred thousand members in the world. They have made Hindu converts. They use fire as a symbol because fire is the purest thing on earth and fire is kept burning in their temples day and night.

The Parsees have a peculiar form of burial or their dead. Just outside of Bombay, near the sea, they have, in the midst of a beautiful garden, their "Towers of Silence." These are large circular buildings without a roof. Within the wall is a circular platform sloping downward to a deep well in the center. When a Parsee dies he or she is prepared for burial and the body is carried to this garden or "buildin'" and is placed naked upon the platform which slants in the direction of the well. As soon as the friends of the departed leave the vultures which stay in an "about the towers of Silence" swoop down upon the corpse and do not rise until the bones are bare. The skeletons finally fall into the well in the center, where rich an' poor, good an' bad, mingle their bones together awaiting eternity. A fixed rate of five rupees is charged if the relatives are able to pay hit; if not, hit comes from a common burial fund. Hit is indeed strange that a people who seem to be so intelligent, so religious, should have adopted such a strange form of burial.

The Parsees believe in education and both men and women have the same advantages. Some of the wealthiest members of the order have established colleges, hospitals and other useful institutions. Hit is doubtful if a similar sect can be found anywhere in the world.

English rule in India has hit advantages. But hit a wiser hez imperfections. India pays about two hundred and twenty-five million dollars annually in taxes. If the masses of the people were prosperous this would not be a large sum when the great population is considered. But about one hundred millions of this goes to England never to return. Much of the remainder is paid to English officials who assist in managing the country, and to English military officers and soldiers, part of which is sent to England, of course. English civil officials residing in India get about fifteen million dollars in the shape of salaries. Some day, perhaps, England will let up on India and the people will not have such heavy burdens to carry. Hit is sad that one of the reasons why England keeps so many soldiers in India is a fear that Russia will attempt to seize India. But that may be only a bit of diplomacy. One of the real reasons is that the people of India are restless and are liable to attempt to throw off English rule at any time. England believes that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, and she is going to hold tight reins in India for many years yet—until they become loyal subjects.

Well, I will now leave India to fight her own battles. Me an' Bob air goin' ter head fer China an' Japan. After seein' what them folks air up to, an' what they hev in those countries worth tellin' about, we will tackle the Philippine Islands, which air now sumptin' worth while.

Az ever,

ZEKE BILKINS.

Pardoned, But Re-Arrested.

Governor Kitchin has had William Lawder, of Morganton, whom he pardoned in April, arrested, and the prisoner must show cause why his pardon should not be revoked, or he will resume his term.

Lawder was convicted at the March term, 1908, of Burke Superior Court, of selling spirituous liquor without license, and sentenced to jail in three cases for terms aggregating eighteen months.

On April 10, 1909, Governor Kitchin granted him a pardon on condition that he remain law-abiding and of good behavior. It has since been made to appear to the Governor by affidavits and otherwise that he has repeatedly violated the conditions of his pardon.

BIG WHEAT YIELDS

Wheat requires a fertilizer that contains ammonia in different forms, some slow, some active, to provide gradual and continual food to the plant from start to maturity.

There is one fertilizer that does this—one that is Nature's own provision for wheat crop—one which contains ingredients that the chemists have never been able to put into fertilizer. It is genuine old

Peruvian Guano

Old farmers of Virginia and the Carolina's recall the splendid crops grown with Peruvian Guano years ago. No fertilizer discovered has ever equaled it for producing enormous yields.

Your land probably needs just such a soil improver. Order one or two tons and compare the results with those from any commercial fertilizer.

Write for prices, and full information. Agencies still open in some localities.
