LET THE DEAD PAST BURY ITS DEAD.

We take pleasure in reproducing the following from the State Democrat as it shows a broader spirit than is usually exhibited by the average Democratic paper in this State. The Democrat says:

"It would seem that a great State like South Carolina, the home of Calhoun and Wade Hampton, could find other occasions to celebrate, more worthy of a great people, than that of resurrecting the ghosts of red shirtism. It is as much a virtue to forget necessary evils as it is to commemorate heroic virtues. The wonder is that our sister State should take pains to keep alive an episode of such questionable merit, instead of occupying all such occasions in doing honor to her dead heroes and in keeping alive for future generations the honorable history, the splendid traditions of a noble people. The day of death for some things, as well as some people, is better than the day of birth."

We believe that every broad-minded person will agree with the sentiment expressed in the above article, and we wish this same sentiment were applied to the remembrances of the Reconstruction period upon which Democratic politicians so frequently harp. The political demagogue that has to go back forty or fifty years to scrape up an issue on which to write an article or make a speech is not worthy of an audience. It is what is doing to-day, and what may affect us in the to-morrow, that are of interest to all intelligent people.

Judging from history, there were many disagreeable things connected with the Reconstruction period, and for a few years thereafter, but so far as we have been able to learn, as many crimes were perpetrated by Democrats as by Republicans. The same condition of affairs existed just after the Revolutionary War—where there was neither a Republican nor a Democratic party.

The men who caused the trouble in the South, following the Civil War, do not make up either the Republican or Democratic party of to-day; and, therefore, neither party can be charged with crimes committed during that period. So far as the Republican party is concerned, there are ten times as many former Democrats voting the Republican ticket to-day as there are Republicans who lived through the Reconstruction period; and we have never heard any of the one-tenth condone the lawlessness during that period.

The party that cannot meet the issues of to-day does not deserve to exist. The voters are becoming broader minded each year and the old-time politician who cannot discuss anything but "nigger," red-shirtism and the reconstruction period will soon be a thing of the past—and their passing will be the best thing that ever happened for the South.

THEIR HOUSE IS DIVIDED.

A Democratic paper in New Orleans thinks that the Democrats will win the Congressional fight next year and elect a President in 1912 all because of the tariff bill passed by the recent special session of Congress. That paper says:

"Now that the tariff question has been made the paramount issue, the Democrats in Congress must co-operate with the insurgent Republicans, but this condition cannot endure for any length of time, because political parties, to be effective, must adhere to some uniform line of action. Hence at an early day the Republican insurgents will realize the necessity of aligning themselves with the party that is opposed to the Republican organization on the tariff issue. Therefore, the blows of Mr. Tatt's big stick are shaping a situation that is making for Democratic victories in 1910 and 1912."

There is no more reason why the new tariff bill should cause a Democratic victory next time than there is reason why it should cause a larger Republican majority. The fact is, we do not believe it will affect the vote materially either way. If a panic had followed the passage of the law the result might be different. But the people are enjoying an era of prosperity, and even those who do not like all the schedules in the new tariff bill will hardly turn their face toward the Democratic party for relief. The fact that the enterprises of all kinds were forced to close down and that public soup houses had to be established during the last Democratic administration, is still fresh in their memory. And as a matter of fact, the Democrats have been more inconsistent on the tariff than the Republicans. The Democratic platform promised to put lumber and other articles on the free list. The Republicans simply promised to revise the tariff. They didn't say upwards or downwards. Of course the general opinion was that it would be revised downwards, and many of the schedules were revised downward, and in our opinion, some few other schedules should have been lowered. But even as passed, we believe it a much better bill than the Democrats would have passed had they been in power. We do know that it is a better bill than the Democrats passed when they were in power. It would be impossible to pass a perfect tariff bill because the same articles or products are not produced all over the country and each section wants its production protected while the other section that does not produce said article wants it on the free list. The only question that can justly be considered in framing a tariff bill is the greatest good to the greatest number.

While the Democratic platform advocated free lumber, yet many of the leading Democrats in Congress favored a higher tariff on lumber than did the Republicans. And the same was true when the vote was taken on many other schedules in the bill. It was hard to tell where the Democrats stood, but it was very evident that they did not stand on their platform. Bryan, Bailey, Tillman, and other prominent Democrats are to-day in a squabble over the question as to just where the Democratic party stands on the tariff.

As the New Orleans paper says: "Political parties, to be effective, must adhere to some uniform line of action." And how can the Democratic party have an effective campaign on the tariff issue when the leaders in that party are themselves divided on the question?

A CARNIVAL OF CRIME.

The following is from a recent issue of the Greensboro Telegram:

"That is certainly a horrible story which comes from Newport telling of the murder of the mayor of that place. He enforced the law against distilling of liquor and, according to the best obtainable evidence, was slain for it. The mayor of Newport was a martyr to law observance. In times of peace he could not have died in a worrier cause than in a campaign for law enforcement."

Yes, it was a horrible crime, just as are many others that are chronicled in the papers almost every day. But the most lamentable fact is that such a carnival of crime should be witnessed during the reign of Democratic "good government" in North Carolina. Isn't there a reason, and isn't there a remedy?

WHAT IS GENUINE DEMOCRACY?

If there are any genuine Democrats, the question as to who they are should be settled before another "Democratic" platform is thrust before the people.

Some of the voters term themselves Cleveland Democrats, and even Mr. Bryan favors going back to the old Cleveland platform to resurrect an issue for 1912. Back to Cleveland whom the Bryan Democrats have abused from beginning to end! And suppose they return as disciples of Cleveland's policies. What will the Democrats do with their present leader, Mr. Bryan? It will be remembered that, before his death, Mr. Cleveland said he did not look upon Bryan as a genuine Democrat. Now can an un-genuine Democrat take up Cleveland's policies and lead the party to success? And, on the other hand, if Mr. Cleveland's policies were not of the genuine variety, can Mr. Bryan lead to success, flying as his kite a brand of Democracy that is not genuine? The Democratic situation is in a very muddy condition and will take some experts and probably a new Moses to lead it out of the wilderness. We repeat, if there is a genuine brand of Democracy it should be brought to the front at once and properly labeled under the Pure Food and Drug act so that the voters may not again be deceived.

COOK AND PEARY CONTROVERSY

Cook and Peary, the two men who claim they discovered the North Pole are still waging a war of words against each other's achievements. Peary claims that Cook did not climb to the summit of Mt. McKinley, the highest mountain in the Arctic regions, and, further, that he never went anywhere near the North Pole. Dr. Cook claims that when his records have been thoroughly examined that the scientists will be convinced that he did reach the pole, and in order to prove that he did also reach the summit of Mt. McKinley he says that he will do the stunt again next year. He has already selected a few members of his party, but the expedition will not start out until next spring. If Dr. Cook is not a faker he has been much maligned by Admiral Peary and his friends. It is to be hoped that the controversy of the discovery of the pole will soon be settled once for all.

Halley's comet is coming in 1910 and we must have some time to discuss that comet and its habits and customs.

According to the report issued by the Census Bureau Monday, the cotton ginned so far this year is three-quarter million bales less than had been ginned at same period last year. However, a very fair crop was made in North Carolina for which the farmers are realizing good money, and many experts claim that the price will go above 15 cents, and we see no reason why it should not, as the crop in the largest "cotton States" is unusually short this year.

EDITOR WHICHARD IN A FIGHT.

Was Assaulted By Capt. Hutchins and the Editor Attempted to Shoot.

Wilson, N. C., Oct. 23.—This morning at Greenville Editor Whichard, of the Reflector, and Capt. John Hutchins engaged in an affray which caused great excitement. Hutchins was refused space in Whichard's paper to make a statement concerning his tobacco warehouse business, and resorted to a circular letter, which intimated that a rival warehouse company controlled his columns. Whichard came out in the Greenville Reflector giving Hutchins the lie. Hutchins asked for an apology this morning. Whichard replied he didn't own any, whereupon Hutchins struck Whichard, who drew a pistol and in the melee that followed, it was discharged twice, no balls taking effect, however. Hutchins secured possession of the weapon and beat the editor over the head, inflicting severe wounds.

New Disease Troubles South Carolina Cotton Growers.

Columbia, S. C., Oct. 23.—In a report just made to Commissioner Watson, State Botanist Barre declares that the disease of anthracnose in cotton is costing the growers of this State probably $5,000,000 yearly, and the Georgia planters possibly as much as $14,000,000 each year.

According to Mr. Barre, the disease is spreading. Its worst manifestations have followed the use of imported seed, for which reason he urges that inspection of cotton seed be provided for in the proposed legislation to minimize pellagra by the inspection of grain.

Killed a Yellow Rabbit.

Policeman D. E. Hepler and two sons returned yesterday from Davidson County where they had been on a visit to relatives and where Mr. Hepler spent some time hunting. He brought back with him the hide of a yellow rabbit. He said it was the first yellow rabbit he ever saw and that a ninety-year-old woman in the community said it had come under her observation. Persons versed in rabbit lore say a yellow rabbit is something very unusual.—Greensboro Telegram.

Needs a Guardian.

Wilmington Star.] It is evident that Raleigh needs a guardian. First the books of the Chief of Police were mutilated. Next the market house, the home of the police, was robbed. Again, thieves broke into the Sheriff's office. Now a woman breaks jail. We suggest that the Legislature appoint Hon. Joseph Daniels foster parent of the Capital, and end all these scandals.

Besides twenty buggies and much feed, there were six horses burned belonging to Dr. E. F. Fenner, Dr. Upchurch, Mr. W. A. Hunt, Mr. Gus Moore, Mr. Walter Alston, and a race horse belonging to a colored man of Oxford, who was on his way to the colored fair in Raleigh.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, brick-dust or sediment in the urine, head-ache, back-ache, lame back, dizziness, sleeplessness, nervousness, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and better health in that organ is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. Swamp-Root corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. A trial will convince anyone. Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail.
