"It is our duty to believe every one to be good as long as we have not the proof to the contrary; the world is so large and we ourselves so small that everything cannot revolve around us."

"If something damages us, hurts us, who can tell if that is not necessary to the welfare of creation?"

"In everything of this world, whether dead or alive, lives the mighty, wise will of the almighty and all-knowing Creator, we little people only lack the reason to comprehend it."

"As everything is, so it has to be in this world, and, however it may be, should always seem good to the mind of the creature." These sentences give one an insight into the thoughts of the Kaiser.

LECTURE BY A THIEF.

A score of boys were before a New York Judge on charge of petty thieving. The judge ordered the boys to take front seats and then called in a man who had just been sentenced to Sing Sing for three years for burglary. "Boys," said the judge, "I am going to show you that it does not pay to be a thief, and I trust that what you hear here to-day, coming as it does from a man who knows what he is talking about, will swerve you from the path of crime to one of goodness.
