Working on Treaty With Great Britain.

Washington, D. C., May 16 .- The proposed treaty of arbitrtaion between the United States and Great Britain on which rests the hope of the English-speaking people for a permanent peace between the two great nations and which probably will be a model for peace pacts with other nations, has at last reached the stage where it is to be presented to the British Government for its approval.

Ambassador James Bryce, of Great Britain, before the Cabinet met today had a half-hour conference with President Taft during which certain points in the treaty were thoroughly discussed. This was the final conference of the numerous ones which these two advocates of permanent. the treaty and to-day Secretary Knox the season of 1910 and 1911. presented to the Cabinet for its approval a tentative draft of the treaty. Apparently it was most satisfactory to the President and his official family as a whole.

The attention of lettuce growers in the vicinity of New Bern were first of the North Carolina growers to be attracted by the ravages of this disease which was some fourteen years ago. Since that time its deadly effects have been felt by growers in the Wilmington, Fayetteville, Maxton and Willard sections of the State. The disease once gaining entrance to a bed it is thereby rendered unfit for profitable lettuce growing unless the fungus causing the disease is eradicated. Practically all the lettuce growing section of the Atlantic seaboard is troubled more or less with this trouble.
