THE EVIDENCE IS AGAINST HIM.

In his speech at a picnic at Davidson some days ago Governor Kitchin said that the claim that the tariff laws meant one more cent in the farmer's pocket was "tommyrot and hypocrisy."

If the Governor's claim is true, then why is it that the farmer, in fact the country generally, is more prosperous under a protective tariff than under free trade?

Every farmer remembers that when the Democrats tinkered with the tariff during Cleveland's administration that cotton fell to four and five cents a pound, corn was only thirty to forty cents a bushel, eggs were six and seven cents a dozen and grown hens sold for fifteen cents, and sweet potatoes and peas could hardly be sold at any price. Since the Republicans have had control of the Nation's affairs they have enacted laws to protect home industries, cotton has sold as high as seventeen cents, corn has sold as high as $1.25 a bushel, and has averaged one dollar a bushel; eggs have sold from 20 to 37 1/2 cents, grown hens from 50 to 75 cents a piece, peas have sold for $1.50 to $2.50 a bushel and other farm products have brought good prices in proportion.

Isn't the evidence against Governor Kitchin and his party?

DEMOCRATS AND SENATORSHIPS.

The Democrats in Virginia have a Senatorial campaign all of their own. The campaign which ends to-day has been one of the bitterest ever waged in the Old Dominion. The charge has been made that more than half the offices in Virginia are under "ring rule," and the cost of the State government has doubled in ten years, due to the working of the "machine," and that the government has been run in the interest of the corporations instead of in the interest of the people. The lie has been passed several times and a Roanoke paper has discovered that the Richmond Evening Journal is "an ass."

A very bitter fight in the Democratic ranks in Maryland resulted again in Gormanizing the State. Ex-Senator Gorman's son was chosen in the primary for United States Senator. He and Senator Raynor are at dagger's point and a fight will be waged for the next two years with a view to defeating Raynor at the end of his present term. In the meantime it would seem that the Republicans have a good opportunity to carry Maryland. It is believed that many former Democrats will join the Republicans and help to defeat the Gorman machine in that State. Once before when the Democrats were unable to defeat the Gorman machine at the primaries they joined hands with the Republicans and made it necessary for Arthur Pue Gorman to return to private life.

All of this reminds us that there is a Senatorial fight on in the Democratic ranks in North Carolina and the independent Democrats may yet find it necessary to come over and help the Republicans elect a truly representative man to the United States Senate—one who could do something for the State besides draw his breath and his salary.

The Senatorial fight is growing very warm between the Kitchin and Simmons forces in Rockingham County. The Reidsville Review and Webster's Weekly, both Democratic papers, are at dagger's point even this early in the game, and the militia may have to be called out before the belligerents are finally quieted. In fact, the storm is brewing all over the State, and there are promises of much wool pulling before the next election—and it is all over the question as to who shall draw the $7,500 salary which carries along with it the privilege of sending out some free seeds! That is all that it now amounts to, as the Senators from the South at present are not favoring laws that would benefit Southern industries or the farmers.

DEMOCRATIC "GOOD GOVERNMENT" AND "BOOZE."

The Lincoln Times, commenting on the condition of affairs under Democratic "good government" in North Carolina, says:

"The conduct of those who are elected and sworn to execute the law has much to do with the moral tone of a community. If those in authority are sober, upright and orderly in all things, respect for law enforcement will prevail. On the other hand, if the sworn officers themselves set an example of insobriety and disrespect for the law, lawlessness will prevail and the moral standard of the community will be lowered. A community or State can no more maintain a high standard of morality with tainted officers than a stream can rise above its fountain head."

The above observations by the Lincoln Times are very true, and they bring to mind some very recent examples. It has not been so many days since a Democratic sheriff of a near-by county came to Raleigh and proceeded to get drunk and his further proceedings caused him to get a ride in the "Black Moriah" to the police station where he was locked up until he could sober up and settle damages with the city authorities. It has not been so many months since a more or less prominent Democratic politician, and sometimes office-holder from another near-by county, came to Raleigh and "tanked up" and was also carted to the police station to give an account for his conduct, and in this case we understand that some one dared to reprimand the officer for daring to arrest so important a personage. It was not so many months ago that a Democratic officer in this county was found guilty in the Federal Courts of blockading. And many other cases could be cited, but what's the use?

No, we did not see an account of these cases in the Raleigh News and Observer, and we should not mention them here but for the fact the News and Observer and the Democratic politicians would have the public believe that their officials are a lot of saints who knoweth not of the wine cup, but on the other hand, have tried to make the public believe that all the "booze fighters" are in the Republican party.

SHOULD HAVE ADVISED THEM TO BET ON REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE.

This from yesterday's Charlotte Observer:

"Colonel Bryan claims that during the three campaigns when he ran for President he always advised his friends not to bet. He might be entitled to a larger share of their gratitude had he advised them to bet on the opposing candidate."

If Bryan had taken the Observer's advice there would not now be so many men in this country with long hair and long beard who have been waiting for Bryan to be elected President before visiting the barber.

The News and Observer says that ex-Governor Glenn is now shelling the woods in Maine for prohibition. It would be interesting to know who employed Glenn to do this speechifying. Maine has been a so-called prohibition State for many years, but the Democrats had an idea that many of the Maine voters like their toddy, so in the last campaign the Democrats in Maine lined up for whiskey and the State will vote on the question in a few weeks.

The Lincoln Times has put on a new dress, and we are glad to note that it is not of the hobbled kind. The Times is a bright, newsy paper, and deserves a fine patronage.

The Durham Herald, commenting on the fact that North Carolina industries are now begging for a protective tariff, says:

"Just at this time North Carolina should be able to understand why the iron industry of Pennsylvania, the sugar industry of Louisiana and the wheat and grain industry in the West feel that they should be protected."

The Madison Howler alias Madison Herald, has suspended publication. While it was a very partisan Democratic paper, still it died protesting against the leadership of Simmons.

The management announces that we are to have a clean State Fair next time—that is, of course, providing it is neither very rainy nor very dusty.

The people who have children to educate will in a few weeks have to reach down in their jeans and purchase new books at exorbitant prices. Such is life in the Old North State.—Davie Record.

The News and Observer last Sunday said something about the time when "Aycock wiped up Butler." That reminds us of the time when Cornwallis whipped George Washington at Yorktown several years ago.—Clinton News-Dispatch.

The cotton farm is wearing that solemnly countenance that betokens that he has lost his best friend. A fifteen-cent cotton market is the best friend he ever had and he will recognize the fact before he gets it back.—Albermarle Chronicle.

The Democrats said if they increased the valuation they would reduce the tax rate. Well valuation was increased over $300,000 in Lincoln County. Have they lowered the tax rate? Now, don't every Democrat speak at once.—Lincoln Times.

At this writing cotton is bringing 11 1/2 cents a pound and not a dozen bales have been put on the market in this section. When the farmer begins placing his crop on the market it will doubtless come down to 9 or 10 cents. But we will hope for the best.—Davie Record.

The business men of the South who vote the Democratic ticket simply because it is popular in the South to vote Democratic, but who pray all the time that the Republicans will control Congress and prevent destructive tariff legislation, came very near getting what they deserved this time.—Lincoln Times.

If the farmers really appreciate what the recent Democratic Congress did for them they should meet and pass resolutions thanking them for reducing the price of their cotton from 15 cents down to 11 cents, also for reducing the price on all other farm products. Yes, let 'em know that you, too, are opposed to the high cost of living.—Clinton News-Dispatch.

A NOTABLE WOMAN PASSES A WAY.

Mrs. Cornelia Happer Faison, Widow of Capt. E. L. Faison, and Mother of Mrs. Marion Butler, Dies at Her Country Home at Elliott, N. C. Sampson Democrat.]

It was with great sorrow that the many friends here, to whom Mrs. Cornelia Faison was very dear, heard of her death, which occurred at Elliott, her country home, Wednesday afternoon of last week. Her death was not unexpected however, and was the culmination of a long period of illness. Under peculiarly fitting and beautiful circumstances did the spirit elect to leave the body, for she breathed her last during a prayer-service and in the presence of her rector, her family physician and nearly all the immediate family.

It is sad to die, but since death must come to us all sooner or later, what more could be desired than to die under such circumstances. She had reached the sixty-ninth year of her earthly pilgrimage, and while she did not reach the three-score and ten, yet she had lived a long and useful life, and will be greatly missed in her community and her church, upon the services of which she was a most earnest, constant and devout attendant.

Mrs. Faison's remains were brought to Clinton on the late afternoon train Thursday, accompanied by the family and a number of friends and relatives who went down from Clinton. From the train they were taken to the Episcopal Church, where the funeral service was conducted by Rev. J. E. Williams; thence to the grave, where sorrowfully and tenderly the body was consigned to the resting-place of all the earth. The flowers, reverently laid on the grave, were beautiful in the extreme.

Mrs. Faison, who was before her marriage to Capt. E. L. Faison, Miss Cornelia Happer, was born at Craney Island, near Norfolk, Va., on December 2, 1843. She and Captain Faison became acquainted during the Civil War, and were married in Baltimore on January 1, 1867. Mrs. Marion Butler is the only surviving child of this union; a son, Mr. Edwin L. Faison, dying January 1, 1907. Three sisters survive her—Mrs. P. V. Bumgardner, Mrs. M. E. Fowle, of Washington, D. C., and Miss India Happer, of Norfolk, Va.

Of late years and since the death of her husband, Mrs. Faison has made her home with Mrs. Marion Butler, spending the summer at Elliott and the winters at Washington. She was a consecrated woman, and a devout Episcopalian. Through her efforts as much or more than any one of its congregation was the beautiful Clinton Church erected, after the destruction of the former one. Though living a good distance from the church, she was always present at the services. Mrs. Faison was a splendid representative of the Old South. Her personality was very strong, and to be in her presence was to be reminded of the grand old chivalry of the South's by-gone days. Graciously hospitable, she endeared herself to all with whom she came in contact.

Cultured and educated, she was a delightful companion. In life and in death she was the personification of all that is good and noble. Great will her reward in Heaven be, for she had superior gifts and made superior use of them. To the God whom she delighted to honor and kneel in submission to, her spirit has gone, and we, as all who knew her, know that all is well.

The pall-bearers were the six nephews of her deceased husband, as follows: Messrs. J. F. Faison, Alec. M. Faison, Moseley Faison, Leonard Faison, Poldrous Faison, and Frank Faison.

ALL NEGROES LEAVE THE TOWN.

Sell Their Earthly Possession and Flee From Oklahoma City After White Farmer is Killed by Members of Their Race.

Durant, Okla., Sept. 3.—Horace Gibbs, a white farmer, was killed in a battle between five white men and five negroes near Caddo. The white men declare they were fired upon, while the negroes say the whites were the aggressors. Feeling is high and a race riot is feared.

Caddo, Okla., Sept. 3.—For the first time in its history, Caddo to-night has no negro residents. The blacks have also fled from much of the surrounding country. The exodus started this morning from the first report of the killing of Horace Gibbs, a white farmer, by negroes last night, and continued throughout the day. No warning notices were necessary.

The blacks took fright at the temper of the whites and feared to remain another night. All outgoing trains were crowded while extra facilities were required for the handling of their baggage and express. More than fifteen hundred purchased tickets for McAlester, Muskogee, Atoka, Okla., and Bonham, Whiteright and Denison, Texas, and smaller towns. The ticket sales amounted to nearly a thousand dollars.

Cattle, hogs and crops were sacrificed at ridiculous prices in order to raise money, while much other personal property was left behind.

Senator Bailey Will Not be a Candidate for Re-election.

Senator Bailey, of Texas, has announced that he will not be a candidate for re-election next year. Bailey has been out of harmony with his party for some time.

Democrats Eternally Increasing Taxes

Lincoln Times.] What do the people think of this thing of eternally increasing their taxes any how? There are no more offices in the county than have been for years. Then why does it require more taxes to run the county? We want somebody to tell the people. We don't know.

Tax Valuations in Catawba County Increased Over $300,000.

Lincoln Times.] The Lincoln County News says the valuation of the property of this county was raised over $300,000 this year. The Democrats will have to dig up a few more extra jobs for "pets" and increase tax money. Don't think of reducing taxes, the people don't mind it so long as "the party" is in power.

RAN INTO OPEN SWITCH

Engine Turned Over and Passengers in Coaches are Shaken Up

Fireman Jumped for His Life—Wreck on Norfolk Southern Near New Bern Tuesday Morning—Engineer on Passenger Train Stuck to His Post or There Would Have Been Great Loss of Life—Several Box Cars Were Completely Demolished—Track Torn Up for Several Yards.

New Bern, N. C., Sept. 5.—The forethought and quick action of Engineer George Dunn doubtless saved a number of lives when train No. 16, which was due to arrive in this city from Goldsboro at 12:25 a. m. ran into an open switch just north of the coal chute and dashed into a string of flat cars and box cars. As it was, the engine of the passenger train was turned over on its side and several flat and box cars were completely demolished.

The fireman of the incoming train jumped from the cab just before the collision occurred and was severely shaken up and bruised. Engineer Dunn stuck to his post and very fortunately was not injured. All of the passengers were more or less shaken up when the engine and cars collided, but none of these were injured.

The track was torn up for several yards, and it was necessary to lay a section of new track before trains could be taken through. The officials of the road claim that the accident was caused by some unknown person who opened the switch and removed the light which is placed on top of each of these switches to guide the engineers. This light was found lying about fifty feet from the switch, and could not have possibly found its way there unless thrown there by some person.

Investigations tending to discover this person is being made. But for the fact that the train was running comparatively slow the loss of life would have doubtless been great and thousands of dollars worth of property destroyed.

Democratic Party Had Better Hunt for Their Hole.

The trusts have robbed the farmers long enough. Like a giant long asleep, the farmers are preparing to give the death blow to their spoilers.—News and Observer.

Yes, and so have the Democratic party, and if the farmers are preparing to "give the death blow to their despoilers," the Democratic party had better hunt for its hole.—Clinton News-Dispatch.
