GUARDING THE PUBLIC DOMAIN. Representative Payson Enters a Protest Against Turning Over Millions of Acres of the Public Domain to the Southern Pacific.

WASHINGTON, September 6 .- Representative Payson, of Illinois, has filed a communication with the Secretary of the Interior protesting against the ap-pointment of a commission to examine the completed Southern Pacific railroad in California preliminary to the issue of patents for the lands embraced in the Texas Pacific Grant, which embraces about fifteen million acres of land.

Representative Payson was a member of the House judiciary committee, which last winter concluded to recommend the forfeiture of this and other railroad land grants and decided that the Southern Pacific Company had neither a legal nor equitable claim to any part of the Texas Pacific grant. After referring to the conclusions reached by the House judiciary committee, he says: "As a lawyer, I believe the claim of this company to be base-less, as a citizen I shall feel that past experience is being repeated should it secure what it seeks.

You and I both know that while we have favored so many of these corporations with prodigal and lavish grants of the public lands and aid from the public treasury, they as a rule in return have oppressed the people by the impo-sition of terms hard to be borne, and in their strength and wealth, have practicably bid defiance to the government and legislative control as they gain in financial strength. They are beginning to realize that any attempt to secure this vast grant, about 15,000,000 acres, through Congress would be futile. The agents and attorneys for the Southern Pacific company shrewdly attempt to secure a foothold in the extension branch, and by such claims of a purely legal and technical character as the engenuity of learned counsel can devise and present to secure such a recognition as will enable them to procure eventually the patent letter to this land.

Mr. Payson then takes up Mr. John Hale Sypher's letter and says a more absurd proposal was never made than that the statute was mandatory upon the secretary to appoint the commis-sion, "asking the Government to pass over to the combination 15,000,000 acres of land as a reward to it for accomplishing just what the Congress strove to prevent." It is the coolest piece of procedure to which my attention has ever been called.

With regard to transportation be-tween the Mississippi and the Pacific Coast, and between the two oceans, Mr Payson says, omitting the Northern Pacific route, "the whole business is in the absolute control of the Gould and Huntington party. As to the preference of route the American people pays its money and takes its choice. The cash all goes to the same till."

After a fierce denunciation of the Southern Pacific Company and its methods the communication close with an appeal to the Secretary to refer the whole matter.

It is stated that Chinese merchants are leaving Canton because their letters are opened, and they district the Canton mandarins.

Business Looking Up in New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Business has been moderately good with the commission houses to-day, the active condition of the jobbing trade here and throughout the country having led to a very fair demand for general reassortments.

The market is full of retailers from the interior, and they are seemingly in excel-lent spirits because of the promising aspect of the fall and winter trade,

The Improvement Boom.

The "old red house," as it was familiarly known, located on West Trade street, opposite the First Presbyterian church, is being torn to the ground, and in its place Mr. Frank Horak will erect a handsome two story brick house, with two store rooms on the first floor. The "eld red" has long been an eye-sore to that portion of our city, and none will regret to see the familiar old object vanish from sight. The work of building the new brick house which is to take its place will begin at once, and when finished it will be a vast improve-

The streets are blockaded, and squads of masons are at work at corner of Tryon and Sixth on the Methodist church; Sixth, on Wadsworth's livery stable; College, on Chambers' livery stable, (about completed); College, on Gaither's new storehouses: Fourth, on Carson's new storehouses-and still Charlotte is not happy.

The crowd that had gathered about the court house early yesterday morning to attend the opening of the court, were disappointed over the announcement that Judge Gilmer had failed to arrive and that the Sheriff had been instructed to adjourn court until the afternoon. He arrived in the city yesterday afternoon and at once proceeding to the court house, convened the court. The old iron clad suit of W S Brown and wife against T S Cooper, administrator

The interference of bystanders and the arrival of the police put a summary stop to the proceedings. Major Carlisle was summoned to appear before the mayor yesterday morning and was promptly on hand. The mayor put him under a bond of $50 for his appearance for trial at the next term of the Inferior court on the charge of carrying concealed weapons. The other participants in the quarrel will be arraigned before the mayor this morning.

Resignation of Mr. Kendrick.

The following card handed in yesterday by Mr. J. M. Kendrick, Chief of the Charlotte Fire Department, explains itself. Mr. Kendrick has long been identified with the department as an active, enthusiastic firemen and "the boys" will regret to see him relinquish his position. We suppose a meeting of the fire department will be called at once to act in the matter:

To the Officers and Members of the Charlotte Fire Department:

GENTLEMEN—Owing to a contem-plated absence from this city at an early day, which may be prolonged, I here-with take this method of tendering you my resignation as Chief of the Charlotte Fire Department, to take effect from this date and request your immediate acceptance of the same.

Respectfully,

Knocked Crazy by a Cotton Bale.

A colored man who drives a dray for Mr Allen Cruse came near being killed yesterday through his foolhardiness in trying to haul ten bales of cotton at one load. He was seated on a top bale about ten feet from the ground, driving through the streets, when a jolt of the wagen upset the cotton and it tumbled off. The colored man tumbled first and as he hit the ground a heavy bale came down on him. It was thought by those who witnessed it-that the man was surely killed, but when the bale was rolled from his body, it was found that he was not dead but crazy. The bale struck him square across the chest and had the rather strange effect of converting the driver into a raving maniac. Dr Byers examined him but could find no bones broken. The driver was sent to his home to be held under restraint until the effects of fall wear off. Carrots in '49, Miss Lizzie May Ulmer, a bright and vivacious young actress, makes her dience in the opera house on Friday the 11th inst., as Carrots in '49. The play is a new one and has already scored a success in Philadelphia, where it is be-ing played at the Chestnut street theatre The Times remarking on it says: "The Chestnut street opera house was opened last night for the season. Lizzie May Ulmer appeared as Carrots in '49' and the house was full. The play is of a kind with which theatre goers are entirely familiar, yet it is a kind which is very popular. People seem to like the slang and native dash of a character like Carrots, and there is something in the rough human nature as brought out of the mining regions which is peculiarly fascinating. There is a sparkle about Miss Ulmer, mixed with a simple pathos, which well fits her for her part sympathy of the audience. She is very well supported by characters in all va-riety and '49' promises to have a successful week." More About the Death of Ira Hall. A special dispatch published in this paper from Rock Hill last Tuesday announced the death in that place on the previous evening of Mr. J. Ira Hall, from an overdose of morphine. The following additional-particulars of the affair we get from the Bock Hill Herald: "Whether or not Mr. Hall took the fatal dose with the intention of producing death is by no means clear, but the fact that he was making hurried preparations for a trip to another town on business, and the further fact that there is no known reason why he should ne in very small (feetual."
