WALSH VS. BRADY.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 - Council for John A Waish this afternoon took the named along to diamiss the suit entere by Walsh some time ago against Gen Thos J Brady, ex-assistant Postmaster General, for the recovery of $28,000, al leged as been loaned to Brady. Walsh's claim against Brady bore a conspicuous part in the late star route trials. He testified that he loaned Brady the money, and that subsequently Brady took the notes which he had given to Walsh and told Walsh that he considered the money supposed to have been loaned as payment for expediting one of Walsh's star routes. Mr Walsh in a letter to his attorneys instructing them to dismiss the suit, gives the following reasons for taking this action: I do not believe I can get justice in the city of Washington. I am not willing to try my action before a jury of that place. The United States have permitted me to be grossly libelled while a witness on its behalf without punishing the offenders; therefore, not withstanding I placed in its possession the proofs, etc. ed in its possession the proofs, etc., which fact is calculated to create prejudice against me in my civil action against Brady. I will examine Brady on the 3rd of October next, as also Wm Pitt Kellogg baving obtained an order to that effect from Judge Donahue yesterday. I got service on both of them. Walsh has brought suit against Brady in the Supreme Court of the State of New York for the recovery of the $28.

An Important Meeting of Bankers. Several of our Charlotte bankers an preparing to attend the next session of the American Bankers' Association, to be held in Louisville, Ky, on the 10th and 11th of October. The programme has been arranged by committees of arrangements that have been meeting during the last two weeks in Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Louisville and other cities of the South and West, as well as in New York and Boston. Time for sending in papers on financial questions has been extended to September 20, and several reports have been received by Secretary Marsland upon the progress of banking during the last year in various sections of the country, upon the best methods of preventing losses to banking and commercial industries from raising checks, also upon the growing tendency of our banking system to increase its basis of capital since the repeal of the tax on capital and deposits, and upon the power of banks to prevent panies. An important feature of the convention will be the discussion of these questions by externpore brief addresses instead of by long. elaborately written papers. The Masonic Temple will be used for the sessions of the convention, and owing to the exposition at Louisville, it is expected that a large number of merchants will attend the open sessions. Setting Up Bogus Stills to Get the In-

Revenue Agent Thomas Powers, who a stationed in this city, returned home yesterday from his trip into South Caro-New River road jumping the rails at lina, where he has been investigating the alleged seizure of sham stills in Pickens county. There was nothing crooked about the revenue agents, but Mr Powers found three cases where sham stills had been seized, and the "informers" paid just as they would have been in case the shams had been genuine blockade stills. Agent Powers is a man of keen foresight, and is evidently well up to his business. He reports that there is but little illicit distilling going on in North Carolina, and there has been none of the sham fraud in practice in this State. In speaking of the South Carolina matter he says that out of twenty-eight captures of illicit stills in that State since January last, the three mentioned are the only enes about which there is any suspicion of fraud. The greatest cause of complaint in that locality is the great number of trivial arrests made by the deputy marshals for the obvious purpose of obtaining fees. He says also that there seems to be a great many warrants out in the hands of the deputy marshals in the cases that have been in abeyance for some time, and a great majority seem as matters of little importance, as Mr. Alfred Cozzins is expected to arrive so many are dismissed upon hearing, on the 26th last, when they go immediowing often to their being so old that the parties have forgotten the circumthe parties have forgotten the circum-stances connected with them. The Providence Bud in Town. About 5:30 o'clock yesterday merning, the Providence Bud made his appearance on the street, and thinking it out of bed he set about waking up the town. A couple of policemen grappled with him, but the Bud plunged about at such a terrible rate that they could make but little progress towards the guard house. He tore up the bricks in the pavement with his feet like a steam plough and it was not until reinforcements arrived that he was subdued. Four policemen gripped his arms and legs and sailed to the guard house with brakes off. This is the first time that Jonathan has given any trouble within six months past, having been a good boy during all that time. It is to be hoped that he is not arranging to fall back on his old plan and sell all of his cotton crop at the mayor's court this fall.

About the Autamnal Equinox. The autumnal equinex does not occur on the 21st of September, as is often supposed, but it occurs about the 23d of September. The vernal equinex occurs on the 21st of March, and the supposition that the two are exactly six months pression. Solicitor Osborne made the apart may lead to the error. The name takes its origin from the fact that when the sun passes through the plane of the celestial equator, the days and nights are of equal length in all parts of the world. The equinoctial points, or those where the celestial equator and ecliptic intersect each other, are the first point of Aries and the first point of Libra. The sun enters the first on the 21st of March and enters the latter on or about the 23d of September. About the time of the equinox violent storms may be looked for. They sometimes precede and sometimes follow the event, and as we have had a hard blow already, we are hopeful that no more will follow.

He was put under a bond of $500 in each case and was remanded to jail. McCopin is an untamed thief. He was sentenced to the penitentiary for five years, for horse stealing, by the Superior Court of this county a long time ago, and had served out his sentence. Through the agility of Rev. There is also an entertaining chapter on army pets in Harry M Keifler's "Recollections of a Drummer-boy," together with an amusing anecdote of how General Grant once had to go thirsty. Extending the Richmond and Danville from Goldsboro to Norfolk. The recent visit of members of the Sensy syndicate to Norfolk is likely to result in the building of a line of road from Norfolk to Goldsboro, and the long cherished dream of Col. L. W. Humphreys will be fulfilled. The Richmond & Danville is endeavoring to secure a direct line to Norfolk for the freight which has heretofere gone to Norfolk over the Norfolk and Western railroad from Knoxville by virtue of the connection with the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad at that place. The plan is to build a road from Norfolk to Goldsboro, in this State, at which place the line of the Richmond and Danville system ends, and thus secure the carrying of all freight put on any of its lines ter was granted by the Legistlature of am this State in 1872 for the purpose of building this road. A Mr. Owens, of New York city, is president, and Colonel L. W. Humphrey, of Goldsboro, is the moving spirit. He has been working at this project for eleven years, and now thinks the road will be built in a very short time. The Atlanta Consti-tution says that a year ago the Richmond & Danville people made a strong effort to buy a majority of the stock of the Seaboard & Roanoke railroad and failed. It is asserted here that this spurt of the Richmond & Danville folks is made for the purpose of inducing the holders of the Seaboard stock to sell, so that the Richmond & Danville owners may thus obtain control of the line frem Norfolk to Raleigh, which would do away with the necessity of building a road to Goldsbore, as connection would then be at Ralegh. If they fail it is firmly believed that the road will be meedily built to Goldsbore.

A New Departure in Gold Mining. Mr. J. W. Seacrest, a Northerner, who has had considerable experience in developing our gold mines, has taken a about time that all our people should be | new departure in gold mining, and will next week commence tapping the rock bottom of the Broad River, at Smith's Ford, in York county, S. C., for the precious metal. There is an old river bed at that point which has been dry ever aince the war, and Mr. Seacrest proposes sinking shafts through the soil to the rock bed, where he will find the gold. This is called the river washing. The gold is found under the sand on the rock, where it settles by gravitation and is found in its virgin state. Mr. Seacrest has had this plan of mining in view for several years, but it was net until last week that he was able to perfeet his arrangements for mining. He showed us a lot of scrapings from the bed rock that was filled with gold, besides such precious stones as rubies, garnet and emeralds. The stones are too small to be of any value. There is an island near this point and Mr. Seacrest proposes to turn the river into one channel and work the dry bed, after which the channel will be again turned and the other bed worked.

The Geography Muddle. To the Editor of the Journal-Observer.

The controversy over the selection of a suitable geography for the graded schools has attained to such proportions that it may now be regarded as a legitimate theme of discussion by the public. Colonel Chas R Jones, Doctor "Oily," and Capt Gray J Toole have been kind approach to favor your readers with their and Capt Gray J Toole have been kind enough to favor your readers with their views, and an humble "private" now begs leave to be heard. Let me premise by saying that I have no stock in any publishing house, am not the mouthpiece of any book agent, and have no axe to grind. I am a patron of the white school and am personally intersected in piece of any book agent, and have no axe to grind. I am a patron of the white school and am personally interested in its success. I assume that the community at large fi indifferent to a choice between the Maury and the Eclectic geographies, so far as the respective merits of the two books are concerned. No man or set of men, however, sught to be permitted to jeopardize the very life of the schools by getting up an apparently unnecessary wrangle over the adoption of a certain text book. It is well calculated to injure the schools, and already some of the opponents of the graded school system are chuckling over the situation, and felicitating each other on what they profess to believe is an entering wedge that will ultimately result in the breaking up of the system. The schools are even now somewhat demeralized, despits certain representations to the contrary, and only the little innocent school children are the sufferers. The question naturally suggests itself, who is responsible for this state of affairs. Let the facts answer. The school commissioners, by a majority itself, who is responsible for this state of affairs. Let the facts answer. The school commissioners, by a majority vote of their whole number, directed that Maury's geographies be substituted for the Eclectic. Our local booksellers prepared certain memorandum orders, signed by Prof. Mitchell, for the purchase and exchange of the new books! These were put in the hands of the school children, and over one hundred of the Maury geographies introduced into the schools. On Friday evening last the school board were convened in special session, a bare quorum, five members, being present. By a curious co-incidence four of those present favored the Eclectic, and all those absent favored Maury's. Consequently, Manry's was thrown out and the Eclectic reinstated. Now, Mr. Editor, what I want to know, and doubtless what the public wants to know, is, why was it necessary to meet in such hot haste, with two members out of town, and another not given sufficient notics to be present? If the meeting was to be such an important one as to justify taking a commissioner out of a sich room and conveying him to the city hall in a close carriage. Ought there not to have been pardon me for coming to the conclusion that they suffered themselves, unconsciously of course, to be pulled around by the nose by somebody, I do not undertake to say who.

So far as the two books are concerned, Mr. Editor, I have nothing to say, because I have not compared them and am not qualified to speak of the merits or demerits of either. I am an outsider, so to speak, en that question. I desire
