A CRASH OF CARS.

Two Men and a Woman Burned up in

CHICAGO, October 6.—A united press special from Hudson, Michigan, says a terrible accident occurred at six o'clock this morning, on the Lake Shore Road, at Puttsford, six miles west of Hudson, in Hillsdale county. A freight train had just arrived at the station on the main track, and was cutting out a car, when another freight dashed around the bend and ran into the caboose of the first train. The caboose immediately took fire and two men and a woman who were in it lost their lives in the flames and crashing timbers. Their bodies were burned beyond recognition, the heads and limbs being charred to a crisp. Another lady passenger had both legs horribly crushed, and is otherwise fatal-

RAILROAD COLLISION.

One of the Firemen Roasted to Death. SCRANTON, PA, Oct. 6.-A terrible collision occurred late last night on the Delaware, Lackawana and Western Railroad near Cresco. Three coal trains were coming down the mountain following each other closely. The brakes on the rear train failed to hold, and the train came dashing down into the second one, piling up coal cars and throwing the engine over on to the south bound train, completely wrecking it. The engineer and fireman of the rear train stuck to their engine, and were fatally injured by the escaping steam. The areman, Archibald Ford, died this morning. He was literally roasted alive. The flesh came off with his clothes when they were removed. The engineer, John Dunn of this city, cannot live. He has a wife and family living here.

What Grevy Said to Alfonso. Paris, Oct. 6 .- The Journal Official publishes the following conversation: Several versions have appeared of a conversation held during the visit Sunw last, of President Grevy to King Alfonso in order to assure his majesty of his sentiments and those of the country towards him. The jonly authentic account is that which was furnished the press by the Stavas agency. which account must be regarded as offi-

"The account referred to above stated that President Grevy tendered to the King in the name of France an apology for the behavior of the mob, and at the same time begged the King to give France fresh proof of his sympathy by attending the banquet at Elysee Sunday evening to meet the ministers, when the true sentiments of France towards Alfenso would be shown."

Spain's Demand on France.

Paris,Oct 6.- The Figaro and Gaulois both report that the Duc de Fernan Nunez, Spanish ambassador, yesterday handed to M Ferry, prime minister, and M Challemel-Lacour, minister of foreign affairs, a note setting forth the grievances of Spain in connection with the arrival of King Alfonso in Paris, and demanding the punishment of the authors of the manifestations against his Majesty and satisfaction for Spain in proportion to the gravity of the outrage. The note, these papers say, was well received by M Ferry and M Challemel-Lacour. M Ferry subsequently held a conference with President Grevy.

OUR JOCULAR SENATOR.

WASHINGTON, October 2 .- It can hardly be said that Senator Vance was ever a social "lion" here; he has too much good sense and too many resources for a good time and for a good influence fer that. But if the walls of his residence on Massachusetts Avenue could tell all that they have heard, the neighboring buildings would join in a chorus of laughter. It is a rather modest residence, as residences go in this now luxurious city; but it is pleasantly situated. There is a modest lawn in front, and the house is one part of a double house. It is what any North Carolinian would call very comfortable indeed, but it is far from being fashionably furnished.

The Senator's study is a small room up stairs, where a few books, thrown harumscarum, a few piles of papers, a brace of easy chairs, a table and a spacious and hospitable spittoon welcome any Tar Heel. It has a jovial appearance-that look of negligence and ableto-take-care-of-yourself which so well becomes the furniture of a busy or of a lazy man; and surely Senator Vance is Here one night just before the last Congress adjourned, I had the pleasure of sitting, as we had previously appointed, to discuss very important business. The preliminary talk about the weather or about North Carolina led not to serious work but to serious jokes; and for an hour, fun and tobacco juice found escape from his lips.

"I was mighty nigh dead to get here," old Zeb said, "but I'll be hanged if I am not nigher dead to get away. Every vacation of Congress I get stuck on some committee." Then, as always, when the test comes, there was a serious tone and a patriotic manliness in his voice. But, before you could think about it, he was illustrating man's duty to his Creator by an anecdote in which old Nash brandy somehow or other played a part.

Although, therefore, the throng of fashion never goes to the Senator's. there are always a few of the most interesting people in Washington to be found there. He seems to have made it a rule to be as domestic as becomes a newly married man; and you can nearly always find him either at home or at

But there are not a few of the Republican Senators who are his bitterest, political enemies that are his warm personal admirers and especial friends. Such "Buncombe" as he gives them is very strange to their notions of Senatorial dignity. In the fiercest debate he has always held their uttermost respect and has always, too, confused them by

I think I am not rash in saying that he is by far the readjest and most graceful humorist that there was in Washington last winter. There are many Southern Congressmen who are genial gentlemen and full of fun; but the most of them need congenial company and a great deal of elbow room to display their wit. They are heavy when they rise to make a speech. Old Zeb. is as jolly at one time as at another. And I am sure that no man ever came to Washington who made warmer friends here than he or who of recent years has done more to put all the world in a good humor with the South. Not the least cheerful outlook of those who enjoy his personal acquaintance is the pleasure of months; and all his circle of friends have been glad to hear the news of the departure of sickness from his household.

Our people were in no way disappointed with Sells Brothers circus yesterday, but were possibly surprised to find that they had everything they advertised. The street parade, despite the descending rain, was the best ever made by a circus in Charlotte. The cages were all handsome ones and there were four bands and a steam piano in the parade. Among the best attractions was the elephant mounted on a chariot, the team of six carrels and the elephant family. Under the tent, everything came up to the average show. The bare back riding was good and the fears of the acrobats and contortionists were unsurpassed. All in all, it is a good circus and has less cheat about it than the majority of | tians."

A Fine Thing Coming.

One of the events in the amusement line next week will be "Our Strategists," at the opera house next Saturday night by Haverly's celebrated comedy company. The Augusta Chronicle and Constitutionalist, says that it "is immense Seldom has a house in Augusta been; better entertained than that last evening at Masonic Theatre. The audience were kept in the brightest and best of humor from the start and the house during the greater part of the farce was in a continual howl. The whole conception of the drama is daringly droll. It is a piece of dromino business, from the outset and involves more absurd situations than are imaginable in any four acts. The central figure in this whirligig of mirth is Jack Rutledge, who adopts a system of strategem by impersonating successively and successfully his own father and the stern parent of his 'Nellie,' both of whom are opposed to the union of their children. The manner of bringing together these obstinate dignitaries and changing them from their stands by pure pique was something screamingly ludicrous. The

AN OLD TIME CIRCUS DAY. A Review of the Scenes on the Streets and a Census of the Station House-

How Some People who Came to See the Circus Behaved and Where They Found Lodgings. "I have lived here 53 years," remarked Major James Fox, of the Central

Hotel, yesterday, as he stood in front of the hotel and watched the crowds go by, "but in all that time I have never seen half se many drunks here in one day as there is to-day." Major James was very deliberate in this assertion, but he was correct. There was a regular epidemic of tangle legs. They didn't go about in ones and twos, but in groups of from six to a dozen, in all stages of goneness, from the simple loose kneed to the plumb dead drunk who could not navigate at all except in a horizontal position, back down, with somebody hold of his arms and legs. The regular police force was increased by a corps of specials and all they had to do the whole day long was to gather up the drunks. It was not a riotous drunk but a good old rainy day circus drunk, and it appeared that the sovereigns were simply bent on having fun. They've had it, and to-morrow morning they will pay for it. The first arrest, and the only one made for any serious offense, was that of a colored youth from Mooresville, whom officers Orr and Blackwelder dragged through the streets handcuffed to the jail, just as the parade was passing Independence Square. The prisoner had deliberately drawn his pistol and sent a bullet into the abdomen of a mule that was hitched in a back lot, and that was owned by a colored man named Ned Holland. The animal was a fine one and would have brought $200 at any sale. The negro was seen to walk up to the mule, draw his pistol and shoot it. The mule dropped to the ground mortally wounded and the police soon had the negro under arrest. It was a most brutal piece of work and the mayor sent the negro to jail under heavy bond. About 2 o'clock the police started around town with a wagon to pick up the fallen and a great load of them was gathered from the byways of the city. The guard house soon became crowded and to make room Mayor Maxwell held a short session of his court, at which he released some on bail and sent others to jail. A census of the guard house, taken by the reporter about sundown showed that there were fifteen in one cell. Most of the occupants of the other three cells were too drunk to answer the roll call and an accurate return cannot be given, but as near as we could come to it the population of the guard house was about forty-three. In this crowd were whites and blacks, one Indian and one Chinaman. The majority of the arrests were made for simple drunks, several for fights and the balance for carrying concealed weapons The mayor's court will commence at 9

"I am Strictly Business,"

It will delight Bishop's admirers in this city to know that he is coming again, and will give us "Strictly Business," at the opera house next Friday night. Old Bish appears to be better this season than ever. The Richmond State says: "The Theatre was packed from pit to dome last night by a fashionable audience, when Mr C B Bishop made his first appearance in Gunter's melo-dramatic comedy, "I am Strictly Business." This is a brand new piece. and last night was only its fifth appearance. But it has all the elements of success, and in Bishop's hands will be the great hit of the season. * * * The comedy is full of side-splitting humer, and the tumultuous applause of the audience was excellent proof of the merit of the performance. The company is a good one, but if there was no one in it but Bishop, the comedy would be a success."

A Gin House Barned.

From citizens of Monroe who were in the city yesterday we learned of the destruction by fire, the day previous, of the ginhouse of Mrs Mary A Matthews, located near Sandy Ridge church, in that county. With the gin house ten bales of cotton, all the property of Mrs Matthews, were burned. The loss is about $1,800. The origin of the fire is supposed to have been a match in a lot of cotton and which ignited as it was going through the gin.

The Money-Changers' Game.

The State Fair- Its Outlook. The prospects for a grand success were never more promising for a State fair than for the exhibition to be held at Raleigh from the 15th to the 20th of the present month. The display of machinery of all kinds will be large and full, comprising many new articles of practical utility. The display of fine bred live stock promises to be the largest ever witnessed in the State, if not in the South. Hogs worth $200 a head are not often seen and yet that is the value fixed upon hogs now being prepared for shipment to our State fair. Fine sheep, in the raising of which our people have great need of becoming more interested, will be present in all the best breeds.

The trials of speed will be very attractive for at least four days of the fair. Then come next fine breeds of cattle, including Jerseys, Devons, short horns and other fine bloods, in all of which our people are becoming more interested each year. Those fine butter makers will ere long take the place of our scrubs to a large extent, and the sooner the better. The prospects are very flattering for an unusually large exhibition of farm products of all kinds Our farmers are showing more of the present day progressive spirit, and we trust at their State convention infuse they will infuse the intensive spirit into each other, and spread the same throughout our grand old State.
