MY NEIGHBOR, THE DRUGGIST.

What a wonderful miscellany is displayed on the shelves and the counters of the store which my neighbor, the druggist, keeps! It is a commentary on human misery and the relief of distress. What a variety of compounds! What wealth of ingenuity has been expended in making them and in bringing them together! e There are medicines to cure disease and there are poisons to kill. There are cosmetics to make the complexion beautiful, and there are pills, and plasters, and potions, and lozenges, and pads, and ointments, and pomades, and salves, and sundries, and soaps. and knick-knacks, and perfumes, and toilet essentials, and, in a word, almost everything that people need to cure their diseases, and a great many things that cannot cure even a sick cat or a debilitated monkey.

My neighbor, the druggist, will not take it as uncomplimentary, if the remark is made that many of the things he sells for the cure of dyspepsia are of no particular account. The fact is that dyspepsia is a very tough disease to wrestle with. It needs tonics and it needs iron. A good many of the articles offered for the cure of this malady have failed in that the tonics they contain are not the right things, and that the iron is introduced in such a way as to do more harm than good.

But my neighbor, the aruggist, is fortunate in having on his shelves, one medicine which is no failure, but, on the centrary, a sure success. Among all the others it stands pre-eminent. It is Brown's Iron Bitters. Here I see what my dyspeptic friends need. Many a victim of dyspepsia has been helped by it into liberty and life. Let all the other contents of the drug-shop go, but give me Brown's Iron Bitters for my dyspeptic friend. A dollar a bottle, did you say? Certainly a reasonable enough price. My neighbor, the druggist, will tell you so.

sep9d1m* HOME COMFORT. After a Rainy Ride a Country Physician Tells What He Thinks of "I wish to gracious some people would learn when they need a doctor and when they den't." exclaimed Doctor E-, as he entered his house in a cosy little village in the interior of the State of New York, after a tedious night ride of many miles. "I have been down among the mountains to see a man, who, the messenger said, was very sick and not likely to live 'til merning, unless he had immediate help; and found him suffering from a rather sharp attack of colic, which his family might have relieved in ten minutes, if they had a grain of sense and two or three simple remedies in the house. But no; they must remain ignorant as pigs, and when the least ache or pain takes them, send for a doctor, whether they ever pay him or not."

"Why, Doctor, what kind of simple remedies, as you call them, do you expect people to keep in the house?" asked the wife, as she poured him a cup tion, or by a union of the two processes. Benson's Plaster premotes both. It incites the torpid or-gans to act, and sends its soothing influence through the myriad pores of the skin. All other plasters oblige the patient to wait. They give him hope for to-morrow. Benson's plaster gives him help to-day. Which is better, do you think? Buy the CAPCINE and keep it in the house.
