VOL. 1. CHARLOTTE, N. C., MONDAY MORNING, JUNE 7, 1869. NO. 113.

POETRY.

I Ask No More.
I have no wealth, no lands are mine,
I own no houses, broad and high,
I have no costly gems to shine,
No robes of rich and varied dye;
No regal coach, or dappled gray;
No drag me through the crowded street;
No tilled fops to lip my praise,
And bow in homage at my feet;
No servants to obey my will,
No slaves to wait at my command;
No golden cup with wine to fill,
No jewels on my soft, white hand;
No sumptuous couch, with costly lace,
And softly spread with snowy white,
To rest at night my form upon,
When wrapp'd in tranquil slumber light.
No, I have none, not one of these;
My home is but a rustic cot;
I've no fastidious friend to please,
And mine's a very happy lot,
For I am loved by one true heart,
And as the hours and days glide o'er
I see no golden dreams depart—
Oh, I am loved! I ask no more!

Be it further ordained, That any person or persons who shall deposit the carcass of any dead animal in any street, or lot, or suffer such to remain on their premises within the limits of the town, shall forfeit and pay for each and every offence the sum of Five Dollars.
Be it further ordained, That no one occupying any house in the City shall suffer any water to remain in his or her cellar, or on their lot, so as to become stagnant, under a penalty of Five Dollars; and the further penalty of One Dollar for every day such nuisance is suffered to remain.
