POETRY.

It is the gift of Poetry to hallow every place in which it moves; to breath round Nature an odor more exquisite than the perfume of the rose, and shed over it a tint more magical than the blush of morning.

SUGGESTION.

The sun and moon were forced to part, They kissed and went along; The night went into the poet's heart, And it came out a song. The sun, down-sloping in the west, Made gold the evening air; The night went into the painter's breast, And grew to a picture fair. The Mother murmured to her child, And hushed it yet again; The sound, as the musician smiled, Grew music in his brain. The daisy turned, her hair to bind, A flower was in her zone; There grew from out the sculptor's mind, A daisy curv'd in stone. The song was said, the time was played, The girl in marble stood; The sunset in the picture stayed, And all was sweet and good. And God, who made these things to be, The daisy and the sun, Color and sound, and you and me, Was pleased to see it come. And all the angels would be glad, If, in the world he built, Although there must be some things sad, No drop of joy were spilt. But all the beauty in the earth, And skies and hearts of men, Were gently gathered at its birth, And loved, and born again. MATTHEW BROWNE.

Ordinance.

ATTENTION IS CALLED TO THE FOLLOWING City Ordinance, which will be RIGIDLY ENFORCED, in order that the health of the City may be insured: Be it ordained, That any person or persons who shall deposit in any of the streets any rubbish, refuse, or filth of any kind whatever, to remain, shall forfeit and pay for each and every offence the sum of Five Dollars. And any person or persons who shall suffer his, her or their chips, wood, boxes, hogheads, bales, or anything (material for building excepted) calculated to obstruct the free passage of the streets, sidewalks, or ways, or gutters, to remain in the said streets, walks, or gutters, longer than forty-eight hours, shall forfeit and pay for each and every offence the sum of Two Dollars, and One Dollar for every day said obstructions remain. Be it further ordained, That any person or persons who shall deposit the carcass of any dead animal in any street or lot, or suffer such to remain on their premises, within the limits of the town, shall forfeit and pay for each and every offence the sum of Five Dollars. Be it further ordained, That no one occupying any house in the City shall suffer any water to remain in his or her cellar, or on their lot, so as to become stagnant, under a penalty of Five Dollars; and the further penalty of One Dollar for every day such nuisance is suffered to remain. Published by order: A. BURWELL, City Clerk.
