POETRY.

THERE IS NO DEATH.

There is no death! The stars go down To sleep upon the silver shores...

There is no death! The dust we tread Shall gleam beneath the summer showers...

There is no death! The leaves may fall, The flowers may fade and pass away...

There is no death! An angel form Walks o'er the earth with silent tread...

There is no death! He plucks out fairest, ever-blossoming flowers...

There is no death! The bird-like voice, whose joyous tones Made glad these scenes of sin and strife...

There is no death! And when he sees a smile too bright, Or heart too pure for mortal eyes...

Born unto that undying life, They leave us both to come again...

And ever near us, though unseen, The dead immortal spirits tread...

THE GOLDEN CHICKEN RULES.

The following are some rules that it would be well to observe in raising chickens:

- 1. Keep the chickens in a warm, clean dry coop. 2. Don't let them run out in the morning until the sun has removed the dew from the grass.

Rules for keeping the henery in proper order:

- 1. Clean out every day and sprinkle a handful of lime. 2. Sprinkle ashes over the floor two or three times a week.

One of the most surprising things in this age of wonders is, that the Turks are beginning to discuss the question of educating their females...

Be not astonished when you see men of virtue in disgrace, and dignities worn by those who have no right to them.

In the depths of the sea the waters are still; the heaviest grief is that borne in silence...

San Francisco suppresses Chinese bands by law, the noise is so barbarous.

The Daily Observer

Vol. 1. CHARLOTTE, N. C. SUNDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 26, 1869. PUBLISHED WEEKLY.

The man who, whether in his habits or his actions, in great things or in small, separates himself from his friend, seems to set every one against him.

Conversation is the danger of reasoning, the mother of knowledge, the breath of the soul, the cement of hearts, the bond of friendship, the nourishment of content, and the occupation of men of wit.

If family religion were duly attached to and properly discharged, I think the prevailing of the Word would not be the common instrument of conversion.

The Boston Post says a guest at Saratoga mistook a large silver-handled dinner knife for his pocket handkerchief. A policeman pointed out the error.

It is easier to go six miles to hear a sermon, than to spend one quarter of an hour meditating on it when I come home.

Men will wrangle for religion; write for it; fight for it; die for it; anything but live for it.

We may judge of man's ordinary conversation toward God, but never by God's dispensation toward them.

The popular pets of the Christian ladies now are monkeys. That is not the only place.
