The trial of the Rev. Colm C. Tate, of Co. umbus, Ohio, for violating the law of the Episcopal Church, was commenced in Columbus on October 26. The charges against him relate exclusively to his manuer of conducting the singing in public worship. He put his choir into surplices, and, more over, had them enter the church in procession, singing the psalms and hymns at the commecement of the service, and go out in the same manner at its close. There is also a supplemental charge of persistence in this practice after being forbidden to do so by the Bishop of Ohio. The whole case turns upon the question whether the canon requiring priests to obey the "godly admonition" of their bishop obliges them to follow his direc-tions on these points concerning which there is no written provision.

At a religious anniversary recently held in Salem, Massachusetts, the following question was discussed at considerable length: "Ought churches to hold Fairs for the purnose of raising moneys to sustain the institutions of religion ?" & allient 32

Of course they ought; it seems to be the only method now, to dislodge the dimes from some men's pockets. And then, it is right, masuruch as the " liberal giver" on such occasions can have witnesses to prove his charite! The number who give and keep it a secret from his left hand, are mighty few! There can be more raised in one night. through the medium of a tair, than twenty We hope to hear of many church fairs this

The Standard noticed on the streets of Raleigh, Thursday, a cart load of willow baskets manufactured in Johnston county by the lady who was offering them for sale. This willow is native to our soil, and these baskets, of various paterns, were quite as hand-some as those brought from the North and offered in our stores.
