

The World of Sports

LET US ALONE.

The game that we ought to win to-day will put us in the 400 column.

If we win to-day and Anderson loses again they will tie us for bottom place.

We are anxious to see what Mr. Cassidy will do with the Charlotte bunch.

Let's have a few more bunched hits and we will have a few more games to our credit.

Guess Winston-Salem took a little of the conceit out of McKevitt's bunch yesterday.

Now, Phil, show the Musicians what instrument you can play. We are looking at you.

Somebody will have to go if they get any more players on the team. Wonder who will get the pink slip?

Shumaker has reported for duty and Collett will be here soon, and the fans are looking for some swatting from them.

Phil Hinton has proved that he is in Class A as an outfielder. Is it believed that he would be in the same class as a sacker.

Manager Collins thinks its kind 'o chilly down in the cellar. He is going to get out of there if it can be done this season.

Let the Hornets bunch their hits again to-day. If they do this and give Fulenwider the proper support the game will be won.

The loss of both games in the double header last Tuesday oughtn't to deter the Hornets from trying their hand at it again to-morrow.

Say, this record of that player from Texas sounds too good for this league. Out of 14 games he got 23 hits and 31 stolen bases. That is too much.

Oh, Greensboro, where is thy prowess! The Twins did you up to the tune of 8 to 2. Why, we wouldn't let them make eight runs in four games down here.

On the very start Manager Collins is showing a disposition to get a team that will win some ball. All he needs is backing and he has been promised that.

It is reported that somebody has offered $500 for one of Charlotte's players and he is not one of the pitchers either. The guessing contest is now open.

Those home-run signs on the fence are mighty lonesome these days. Nobody on the home team seems to pay any attention to them. After them, boys!

Collett, of the South Atlantic League, with the Savannah team, is another new man signed by Manager Collins. He also comes with the record of a hitter.

Someone has had a premonition that the unearthly rivet-driving on the skyscraper will stop on the very day that Charlotte's team is strengthened to the winning point.

Yesterday was the first day that the weather has made an unkind cut at the Charlotte gate receipts. Forgetting the percentage column this town has had a star season.

The sporting editor of The Industrial News thinks Charlotte has sent for the well digger to get them out of the cellar. Huh! think we are going to give up our warm place?

It is understood that Bob Carter has discontinued his subscription to The Merchants' Journal since Umpire Johnson called White out in the ninth inning in Wednesday's game.

With the strengthening of all the teams in the league except Greenville, which has been too heavy for the rest heretofore, the Carolina Association is getting to be about equally divided.

Spartanburg has more defeats to her credit this time than she has had on any previous visit to Charlotte. The Hornets had just as well put two more eggs in the nest of the Musicians.

If Jim Fox really wants a job on the Charlotte team and doesn't get it there will be some mad baseball fans in this burg. He is just the kind of player they want to see on the team.

Greensboro has at last blundered on a plausible excuse for small attendance. The weather came to her rescue yesterday. It was so bad that the citizens couldn't even sit around the postoffice.

Barre won a game from the Electricians yesterday. They must not have been looking to let that Bunch of Tom Stouch's to win from them after being trimmed three straights by the Patriots.

The attendance at the Greenville-Anderson game yesterday, was "very small." Greenville seems to have gotten mad because some other teams in the league have done about and gotten in her class.

To the members of the Charlotte team: Hit, whether you get it or not. It is hitting the ball the people want to see. If you get out it is not your fault. It shows that you have made an effort.

It didn't take Greenville long to get out its hammers when the team began losing. Wonder what they would have done down there if they had had a team losing like Charlotte has during the whole season?

Nothing seems to count like bunched hits. In the game yesterday at Columbia Macon got three against Columbia's 10 hits and yet Macon won the game. Two three-baggers were made in the fourth.

Lindsay kept up his hitting streak in Greensboro and made a home run. That boy is hitting and fielding out of his class. We don't expect to see him in this league next year if he keeps up the pace he has set.

And Greenville actually won a game from Anderson. Well, it needed to win for the bugs in Greenville were beginning to hammer the team, the only chance they have had to do such a thing since the season opened.

Yes, Carriegine, the Charlotte public has supported the team in such a manner that would warrant the club entering a class "B" league, but the directors insist that we have a team commensurate with the the patronage afforded.

There is some talk of selecting an all-star team from the Carolina League at the end of the season and arranging a series of games with the pennant-winners in the Eastern Carolina, the South Carolina, Virginia and South Atlantic Leagues.

Anderson evidently doesn't expect to be in the playing next season. They have sold Willis and Hornhorst, two of their best men, and are doubtless ready to sell more at the bidding. Anderson ought to do like Charlotte—hold to her team for next year.

The season is more than half over. If we get a team that will win the majority of the games the rest of the season it will be some consolation to the fans who have been cussing between groans since April 30th—and cussing because they had a right to.

Somebody has wailed, anent the record of the Hornets and the good attendance here, that Charlotte would not have supported a winning team. Nobody has ever asked for another. Ashenback aggregation, neither has anybody demanded a team on the other extreme.

There are a number of men in the Carolina League who hold a warm place in the hearts of the fans on account of their paternal appearance. For instance, there are Father House and Pop McKevitt. And there is Grandpa McLaughlin. And who has forgotten dear old Great Grandfather Metz?

The Twins have tagged on several brands to their stock in trade; the Patriots have added some more Quakers; the Electricians have increased to a marked degree their current; the Musicians have got several new slide trombones, and at last the Hornets are sending for more buzzers. The Spinners haven't needed anybody from the very beginning.
