NOTABLE EVENT TO BE HELD NEXT WEEK

Daughters Of Confederacy To Unveil Monument To Southern Dead In Arlington

(Special to The Chronicle.)
 WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The gathering in Washington the week beginning November 11 of the Daughters of the Confederacy for their nineteenth annual convention will be one of the most interesting occasions in the history of the organization. It is of interest from a historical standpoint because it will be the first time that the Daughters of the Confederacy have met outside of "Dixie." Every convention of any Confederate organization heretofore has been held in some Southern city. Besides this interesting point the laying of the cornerstone for the Confederate dead at Arlington will go down in history as one of the most notable events in the history of the country.

Thousands of delegates and visitors will assemble in Washington to witness the laying of the cornerstone. While the monument is for the Confederate dead and is being erected with money from sons and daughters of Confederate soldiers, Northern as well as Southern veterans will take part in the laying of the cornerstone.

The convention will be opened with an address by President Taft. The Chief Executive will welcome the delegates and visitors to the National capital and will receive the delegates at the White House on Wednesday, November 13.

The invitation was extended to the President to make the opening address by Hillary Herbert of Alabama, Secretary of the Navy during Cleveland's administration, himself a Confederate soldier, and former Senator Marion Butler of North Carolina.

Mrs. Marlon Butler of North Carolina, president-general of the Washington division of the Daughters of the Confederacy, has arranged for a goodly number of receptions and entertainments for the delegates. The first will be held at Mrs. Butler's paternal home on R street when she will receive, assisted by Mrs. Scott, president of the Daughters of the American Revolution. On Thursday Mrs. Scott herself will give a reception to the Confederate daughters at the New Willard Hotel.

Mrs. Butler said today that convention week will be one of interest not only as a historical event but one that will be a red letter in social circles.

Mrs. Stonewall Jackson, widow of the famous Confederate general, will not be able to attend. She has notified Mrs. Butler that she does not feel strong enough to stand the trip.

Every county in North Carolina and every State in Dixie will be represented.

Country Spelling Bee.
 (The Christian Herald.)
 Each guest on arriving is presented with a small bean bag, either red or green, which he or she keeps until later in the evening, when, after much mysterious guessing as to what the bean bags are for, the guests are asked to form into two lines, the "Red and the Green Bags," for a spelling-bee. A captain is chosen to give out the words, which should

It Makes Weak Women Strong, Sick Women Well.
 It acts directly on the organs affected and is at the same time a general restorative tonic for the whole system. It cures female complaint right in the privacy of home. It makes unnecessary the disagreeable questioning, examinations and local treatment so universally insisted upon by doctors, and so abhorrent to every modest woman.

THE WEATHER.
 Forecast for North Carolina: Fair tonight, with frost; cooler east portion; Saturday fair. Light to moderate west winds.
EXPLANATION OF TODAY'S MAP.
 The low pressure area which covered the Southeast Thursday will be noted over New England today. In the past 24 hours rain has fallen from the Carolinas northward.
 The high pressure area central over Texas has advanced eastward and produced clearing and decidedly colder weather over the South and Southeast. The high extends this morning from the middle gulf to the Northwest. The "freezing line" will be seen to include quite an area in that section.
 The indications are for fair weather tonight with frost in this vicinity; Saturday fair.

A Pretty Parlor Trick.
 (The Christian Herald.)
 Can you pick up a handkerchief twisted ropewise by its opposite ends, and, without letting go of either end, tie a knot in the middle of it?
 This is the way to do it. Lay the twisted handkerchief in a straight line upon the table. Fold your arms so that the fingers of the right hand come out above the elbow of the left arm, and the fingers of the left hand pass below the elbow of the right arm. With arms in this position bend forward and pick up the handkerchief, the right hand picking up the left-hand end of the handkerchief, the left hand picking up the right-hand end of the handkerchief. On drawing your arms apart it will be found that a knot is tied in the center of the handkerchief.
 Don't waste your money buying strengthening plasters. Chamberlain's Liniment is cheaper and better. Dampen a piece of flannel with it and bind it over the affected parts and it will relieve the pain and soreness. For sale by all dealers.
