EXPRESS RATES

Regulating Bread Yeast and Bakery Products to be Investigated by Commerce Commission.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 .- On its own in tlative, the Interstate Commerce Commission today ordered an investigation into the rates classifica- ing the church tion and regulations of express companies, respecting the transportation of bread yeast and bakery products. Under existing express rates these products enjoy a special rate at an average of 25 per cent lower than the general merchandise express rate. In the rate schedule proposed by the commission no special rates for such commodi les were made. The applision would increase the cost of express transportation of bread and like commodities.

Twenty-seven express companies are made parties to the investigation. quiry will be announced later.

Carraway Invited Methodists To Meet Here

The reception accorded President Hook and Secretary Carraway of the in High Point, was of a very encouraging nature to the committee, and week. it is believed that the invitation from be accepted by the conference.

Bishop Denny was much impressed with the fact that a commercial organization should extend this invita- part of the paving. tion and the committee was most cordia ly received by him. From the attitude of the Bishop it was judged that he would lend his influence toence of 1913. The Bishop inquired pointedly why the committee had come to ask for the conference, evi-dently thinking that it was a church committee or representative of church, but when assured that the committee had come as the reprechurches and the city itself, it appeared that this form of invitation their invitation on the conference

Mr. Durham Speaks. Rev. Plato T. Durham. presiding elder of the Winston district, requested Bishop Denny to suggest some means by which the attendance of church members may be increased at the quarterly meeting services held in the country places of the districts, the attendance at these services in the country churches at present being very small and a stirring up on this question, he said, is needed. Mr. Durham said further that recently he took a census in an official board of a church in the Winston district with reference to the observance of family worship and that only one member of that board held up his hand, and that when he took similar census with reference to the observance of daily reading of the Bible not one hand was hald up and only one member of that official board stated that he read the Bib'e regularly on Sunday. Mr. Durham sald also that when he was asked why it was that so few young men are entering the ministry of this Church he had replied that it was not to be wonder at that men were not entering the ministry from homes of the kind.

Mr. Durham spoke especially of the work of West End Church one of the younger churches of the district. He called attention particularly to the fact that this church pays the salary of the pastor an l all of the assessments in advance and said he believed this is not true of any other church in the convention. He requested Bishop Denny to call attention to this fact in other conferences where he presides.
