And Internationals Give A Classy Exhibition

Charlotte baseball patrons had an opportunity yesterday afternoon of witnessing genuine baseball when the Boston Nationals and the Buffalo Internationals faced each other for the first big exhibition game of the season here. The event was well played and abounded in interest and an abundance of excitement. There was little to choose between the two teams. Both sides were unable to do heavy pummeling of the pellet on account of the excellent slab work of Frill and Fulenwider for Buffalo and Perdue, the crack flinger of the Braves, who went through the entire nine frames.

The pitching of Fulenwider and the opportune hitting of Mann stood out prominently. Fulenwider worked the last four innings and allowed nothing that resembled a hit. Although a little wild in spots, he was master of the moments he reigned on the eminence. He fanned Titus, Sweeney and Jackson in a row in the eighth inning and during the four innings he performed a total of six Bostonese whiffed the atmosphere. Perdue was effective at all stages, the first run off him being due to an error by Metz, followed by a victous drive which Mann made to the right field fence. Again in the ninth inning after McCabe had singled. Mann drove him home and was out himself trying to elongate the lick into a double.

Both infields were along in fine fashion and played genuine baseball all the way through. The crowd was large and while not overly demonstrative, it showed its enthusiasm at intervals and apparently had a fine afternoon of it.

The same teams play again this afternoon at 8:30 o'clock. The box score follows: Moranville, 88.. ... 4 1 1 Titus, rf.. 4 0 Sweeny, 2b.. 3 0
