THE VETERANS ON PARADE.

Git my old knapsack, Mary, git my uniform of grey,
Git my battered helmet, Mary, for I'll need 'em all today;
Git my canteen and my leggin's, hand me down my empty gun,
For I'm goin' out paradin' with the Boys of Sixty-One.

Never mind them blood-stains, Mary, never mind that ragged hole,
They were made there by a bullet that was sarching for my soul;
Jest bresh off them cobwebs, Mary, git my bonnie flag of blue,
For I'm goin' out paradin' with the Boys of Sixty-two.

This uniform don't fit me like it did when I was young;
Don't you recollect how neatly to my manly form it clung?
Never mind that sleeve that's empty, let it dangle loose and free,
For I'm goin' out paradin' with the Boys of Sixty-three.

Draw my waist belt tighter, Mary, put the strap beneath my chin,
I'm growin' old an' threadbare, like my uniform, an' thin;
But I reckon I'll pass muster as I did in days of yore,
For I'm goin' out paradin' with the Boys of Sixty-four.

Now I'm ready, kiss me, Mary, kiss your old sweetheart good-bye,
Bresh away them teardrops, Mary, Lord, I didn't think you'd cry!
I ain't goin' out to battle, cheer up, Mary, sakes alive!
I'm just goin' out paradin' with the Boys of Sixty-five.

—S. Porcher Hevt, in Florida Times-Union.

MRS. JONES GUEST OF MRS. BURWELL.
Mrs. Jones, mother of Mr. Jo Jones, and sister of Dr. James R. Bridges, is a guest of Mrs. W. R. Burwell, her cousin. Mrs. Jones arrived the day after Mr. and Mrs. Jones' little son was taken ill in Yorkville. She will visit them, but during their absence was the guest of Mrs. Burwell.

MR. AND MRS. CARSON COMING IN JULY.
The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Carson will be glad to hear that they will spend the greater part of the summer at home—here. They come July 1st and will be at home as usual, on North Tryon street. Mr. and Mrs. Carson have recently built a handsome residence at Whiteville, where they will spend the winters.

NEW BOOKS AT THE LIBRARY.
New books at the library: Annals of Tennessee, by Ramsey—presented by Dr. J. R. Alexander; Work and Program for Women's Club, by Caroline French Benton; The Significance of Art, by Eleanor Rowland; Better Rural Schools, by Betts; A Manual of the North Carolina Historical Commission, for the use of the members of the general assembly—compiled and edited by R. D. Connor.

MRS. STITT IN TEMPLE TEXAS.
Mrs. E. W. Stitt, who is visiting friends in San Antonio, Texas, writing a friend here says: "We are all very much interested in the war. I am in the midst of the soldiers' home, Fort Sam Houston. The leaving of the soldiers for the front was something like our big 20th of May—such cheers! such excitement."
Mrs. Stitt sends the News Texas papers containing volumes of interesting war news.

BEAUTY OF THE FIRST CHURCH YARD.
Passing by the First church yard yesterday, a prominent young physician who spent last summer in Europe, said: "When I was abroad I frequently made trips here and there to see some place described as very beautiful, and beautiful they were, but I never saw anything more beautiful than this yard and church. There is nothing like it that I know of in this country, and certainly nothing prettier in the old country."

WILL NOT MOVE UNTIL SEPTEMBER 1.
Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Nalle's beautiful residence on Ransom Place will be finished by June or July, but they will not move in until Sept. 1st.

DELIGHTFUL VISITORS.
Mr. and Mrs. Norman Johnson, and two attractive children, who are with Mrs. Johnson's parents, Major and Mrs. J. G. Baird, expect to be here several weeks—That is, Mrs. Johnson and the children will. Mr. Johnson's visit will not be so long.

MR. AND MRS. CUTHBERT LEAVE.
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cuthbert, of Petersburg, Va., who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pegram, the latter their daughter, have returned home.

MRS. WATT BETTER.
The condition of Mrs. Louise Watt, of Steel Creek, is better. She is still at the Presbyterian hospital.

YELLOW NOW THE VOGUE.
For a long time yellow was hardly counted in with pale pink and pale blue as an appropriate color for all occasions—for use on lingerie and negligees, for the touch of pale color to the lace or chiffon blouse and for the blouse itself. Now yellow is in all its glory. For not only are yellow ribbons used to lace up all sorts of lingerie and yellow roses and ribbons used on negligees, but tiny yellow muslin borders appear on handkerchiefs and yellow blouses of chiffon and crepe de chine and linen are much worn. There are many new and interesting names for the various shades of yellow. Probably maize (corn) is the best of the light shades for general wear. Along with the increased use of yellow comes the increased use of yellow roses for corsage flowers and trimming for evening frocks.

MISS ORR HOSTESS TO FELLOW SENIORS.

Miss Harriet Orr, one of the most attractive Seniors of Elizabeth College, a girl who leads, who is original and forceful in books and without books, clever, bright and popular—was hostess to her class yesterday at a beautiful luncheon at her home on West Seventh street. One beautiful board was not sufficient for the hospitality of the hostess—two were necessary. For one, in the dining room, a color scheme of yellow and white was chosen; for the other, in the large hall, pink and white. In the center of the golden board was a big gold basket filled with yellow daisies, the china was gold-banded, the glass yellow-banded Bohemian.

On the pink and white table was a big pink basket full of pink sweet peas. The appointments were colonial glass, elegant silver, exquisite Dresden china.

The place cards came from New York. They were "Seniors" in full attire, about six or seven inches long, attached to beautiful Madeiras with the colors of Elizabeth in narrow ribbon.

Miss Orr in white flowered silk, and corsage of pink sweet peas presided with grace and charm. Her guests were: Misses Olive Price, Ella Lucie Glenn, Mary Barringer Keister, Marjorie Marie Lentz, Frances Ricks Osborne, Mary Summer, Grace Baum, Marion Jackson Green, Laura Washington Griffith, Carolina Marie Koopmann, Marguerite Elizabeth Manning, Vida Isminne Mauney, Kathleen Kenney Olive, Grace Patrick, Eva Louise Teague, Carolina Marie Koopman, Annie Betha Roper.

Miss Nan Reigelheim, president of the "Fresh" class; Miss Rittenberg, president of the "Soph." Miss Bonnie Mauney, president of the Junior class.

Occupying the seat of honor to the right of the hostess and showered with assiduous attention from her and the entire senior class, was the class mascot, little Miss Anna Jackson Preston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Preston granddaughter and namesake of Mrs. Stone. Little Miss Preston, who is a beautiful child with true blue eyes, rosy cheeks and hair a mass of short golden curls, was fairly like in loveliness, in a dainty white embroidered batiste, white slippers and sock and a little blue enamel locket matching her eyes and making, with them, the only color contrast of her attire.

MRS. MATTHEWS IN ATLANTA.
Mrs. C. A. Matthews is spending the week in Atlanta, the guest of Mrs. Robert Sloan.

MECKLENBURG DECLARATION MARCH.
Miss Janie Patterson has composed a march for the 20th. "The Mecklenburg Declaration March, May 20, 1175." The dedication reads:

"To the memory of the Signers of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence, May 20, 1775." Miss Patterson is a sister of Mrs. Charles Stone, of this city, and a gifted musician.

CHILDREN'S DAY.
Cards as follows were issued today: They come! a glad and joyous throng, Some young, some old, all gay; And each imbued with purpose strong To keep the Children's Day.

Will you not be one of this joyous throng taking part in the celebration of Children's Day at Trinity Methodist Sunday School May 31st, 11 a. m. A cordial welcome awaits you.

"ITS RINGS ON THE TOES."
Here's a dare for you—follow the latest fashion, it is a ring for each toe on your tootsie! says a Paris writer in the Philadelphia Record. In the house, on reception days, you are to wear sandals and no stockings, so all the toes are to be ringed.

You vowed you would not wear the colored wigs—but some of your fashionables did. You have worn the leg bracelets termed anklets. Beautiful! You may want to be seeking information about the proper toe rings to wear at a pink tea.

If you hesitate to expose your toes to the admiration (?) of the world at large you might try the new fad of wearing a rose in the back of the corsage (directly opposite to where one usually wears it in the front) just where the pointed decolletage ends. It's quite the thing here—will you do it, avec bonne grace?

Once upon a time American women came to Paris chiefly to buy pretty clothes; now she often comes just to have her face beautified. The latest operation is to have the forehead lanced across and a strip of flesh removed, so that the eye-brows are elevated and a calm, "saintly" expression achieved. For some time past women have been having their eyes slit at the corners with a lancet in order to obtain that long look to the eyes. Daily for weeks after the lids are cut, and while the wounds are healing, the lids are drawn outward. The lids are still subjected to this treatment even after the lids have healed, and the result is a longer and more wide-open eye.

And then the mouth—all sorts of surgical things are done to it. To obtain the curling upper lip (even from one uncompromisingly straight and too long) the beauty doctor cuts a slit across the lip, cuts a minute strip of flesh away, brings the edges of the incision together and carefully heals them, taking every precaution to sterilize everything so that the wound may heal without the slightest trace of a scar.

The nose is altered by surgery or by the injection of paraffin. Then there are all sorts of little known exercises and home treatments prescribed as part of beauty culture. If she has a red nose she must sit with her feet in very hot water at least 15 minutes every night before retiring.

MRS. SCHIFF
Mrs. Ida Schiff's condition is practically unchanged. She continues very ill.

FIFTY YEARS AGO.
(Chatham Record.)

Fifty years ago this month there were more battle fought and more men killed and wounded than during any other month of the war between the states. This month is the semi-centennial of more desperate fighting than was ever witnessed on the American continent and we may say in the world.

During the month of May, 1864, were fought the bloody battles in the Wilderness and near Spottsylvania Court House, in which both armies, the Union and Confederate, lost very heavily. Commencing on the 5th of that month there was fighting almost every day between the Army of Northern Virginia and the Army of the Potomac. The fighting was particularly severe and the losses especially heavy on the 5th, 6th, 10th, 12th and 19th days of May, 1864 and many a brave soldier on both sides was killed. Of course, as usual in most of the battles in Virginia, North Carolina suffered more severely than any other state, and thousands of homes were bereaved of some loved one.

In addition to the fighting on the north side of the James river (at the Wilderness and Spottsylvania) there was also severe fighting on the south side of that river, where General "Bottled up" Beauregard, as General Grant said in his official report. The present generation cannot imagine the horrors of those terrible battles and the suffering they caused not only to the soldiers engaged therein but also to their loved ones at home. We earnestly hope that our people may never again be called upon to pass through such an ordeal.

"Mild as a May morn" is an old saying, but those terrible days in May, 1864, lacked a great deal of being mild as May morns, when thousands of our best and bravest were killed or wounded in those bloody battles in Virginia during that month long to be remembered. General Grant was then doing his best to capture Richmond with largely superior numbers, but General Lee met him at every point and successfully resisted his attacks. Early in that campaign General Grant had declared that he "would fight it out on that line if it took all summer," referring to his plan to defeat General Lee and capture Richmond by moving from that city from the northern side. After losing many thousand men Grant changed his mind and his plan of campaign, and moved his army to the south side of the James river and began the siege of Petersburg, which lasted for nine months.

AUNT SALLY'S ADVICE TO BEAUTY SEEKERS

Lady says: "I've tried most everything for my freckles, but can't lose them. What do you suggest?" See answer to Stella's question. The treatment I've never known to fail in any case of freckles or other cutaneous blemishes.

P. P. K. asks: Is there anything better than massage to remove wrinkles? Too much massaging may aggravate a wrinkled condition, tending to soften and loosen the tissue. I advise bathing the face in an astrigent lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint of water. This is remarkably effective.

Stella writes: My complexion is horribly muddy. What shall I do for it? Get an ounce of mercolized wax at your druggist's. Apply this nightly like you'd use cold cream, washing off mornings. This will cause the offensive cuticle gradually to make way, by a process of gentle absorption, for the clear, velvety, healthy-looking skin underneath.—Woman's Realm.
