THE WEATHER
Weather Conditions.

The high pressure area has moved slowly eastward, its center being today located over the Ohio Valley. Temperatures continue below normal over most sections east of the Rocky Mountains, but there has been a change to warmer in the states along the Gulf and over the eastern Rocky Mountain slope. Temperatures in the far northwest continue below zero.

Rain is reported from Florida, southern Texas and the south Pacific section, and snow from Kansas and the upper Lakes.

The indications are for continued fair weather in this vicinity tonight and Friday; the lowest temperature last night was 20 degrees, and the minimum tonight will probably be almost as low.

O. O. ATTO, Local Forecaster.
