Render Great Blessings to Our Townspeople.

Will Make Free Distribution of Munyon's Paw-Paw Pills.

Our leading druggists have just completed arrangements with Professor Munyon to get his medicines direct from the Laboratory so that there is no possibility of receiving stale or imitation goods. Besides, they have secured from him an agreement whereby he will refund the money in every instance where the remedies do not do all that he claims for them, thus protecting the people against loss or imposition.

He is especially desirous that every rheumatic, no matter how chronic the case may be, gets a 25c bottle of his Rheumatism Remedy. These little pellets as a rule limber up swollen and stiff joints and take away sharp shooting pains before one vial has been finished. Munyon's Rheumatism Remedy has probably cured more cases of rheumatism than any other remedy ever compounded. They cure quickly because they neutralize the uric acid and drive out all rheumatic poisons from the system. He asks every person who considers their case incurable, to test this remedy and if they are not satisfied with results their money will be refunded.

He also calls special attention to Munyon's Paw-Paw Laxative Pills that are proving to be such a wonderful friend to the liver, stomach and nerves. Paw-Paw Pills are unlike any other laxative. They stimulate the liver into activity, they strengthen weakened and debilitated stomachs, and they are almost an infallible cure for constipation. He wants every person that suffers with indigestion in any form, and all those who are bilious, whose food sours on their stomach, who are distressed after eating, who are nervous and don't sleep, who are weak and despondent, to test these Pills. In order that everybody may try them before buying he has sent to each of the druggists 200 packages to be given away absolutely free. If you have anything the matter with your liver, stomach, nerves, or blood, step into any one of the drug stores named below and ask for a free package of Paw-Paw Pills. Remember that arrangements have been made whereby all of Munyon's Remedies are for sale at these stores, and that they are received fresh from the Laboratory with all their curative qualities.

The following stores are carrying Munyon's goods:
J. S. Blake Drug Co., on the Square, Charlotte, N. C.
Sheppard's Drug Store, Charlotte, N. C.
Hospital Supply & Drug Co., 40 S. Tryon, Charlotte, N. C.

WHEN CANADIANS
YPRES BATTLE

London, June 17.—(By mail to New York.)—Thrilling experiences during the fighting of the Canadians around Ypres are related in the following letter received by relatives here of Corporal E. Chadwick:

"After the battle of Ypres German dead were piled high in front of our trenches. Bodies were buried inside our dug-outs. One German, suspended on the barbed wire, holding his rifle at the ready. When we were relieved we sang with joy.

"A Belgian nurse and a soldier were singing a duet in a cafe, and my pal and myself and one or two of our transport were singing 'Roaming in the Gloamin', when, all at once, the window came in and a house in the street went up in the air. The people shut up shop and ran for their lives. I saw a woman with a baby in her arms. I took the baby from her, and my pal ran along pushing a barrow with her only belongings. After a time Algerian troops came running from the firing line, most of them gassed."

"Then we knew the Germans had broken through, and our regiment was called out again. Ammunition had to be taken through the inferno, and as we went along, the only sounds to be heard were dashing transports, moans, and ever now and then a big crash made with a shell. We arrived at the trenches O. K. and got digging ourselves in. The Germans sent 'Jack Johnsons,' and coal-boxes on to us and gases until we were cut up, and the Germans advanced on us in thousands. We stuck to our ground as long as the company on our right hadn't an officer left and the machine guns were blown up. Then we were ordered to retire, as reinforcements were at hand. I crawled along a stream, and once or twice was up to my waist, and felt ready to let them do their worst.

"Our colonel came along and rallied about a hundred of us, composed of Canadian lillies and various Canadian regiments, and made us line a road, which we did until English reinforcements came.

"For three days we held a German army corps. It all seems like a nightmare now, and I have more than once thanked God for my safe delivery, and I still pray to Him night and day. One of our sergeants said he saw the Germans bayoneting the wounded as they left the trenches. Our machine-gun officer, before he was killed, must have accounted for a thousand men.

BACHE'S REVIEW OF TRADE CONDITIONS

New York, June 25.—The French loan here achieved materialization this week through the announcement by J. P. Morgan & Co. that the Rothschilds of Paris had arranged to borrow in this market for a period of one year, a considerable amount of money, the proceeds of which the Rothschilds will make available to the French Government here for payment of its commercial obligations in this country. This loan is to be secured by high-grade American railway bonds. The security for the initial loan which, it is said, will amount to $30,000,000, will be a part of the Pennsylvania 3 1/2 per cent, which were placed in Paris in 1906, and of the St. Paul 4s, placed there in 1910 and issued in terms of francs. Being issued in such terms, these bonds are not available at present for sale on the stock exchange here. The present loan will undoubtedly be followed by other and larger amounts as the securities are collected by the Paris bankers. Probably because the amount is not large enough to yet affect materially the present exchange situation, the quotation for francs did not stiffen on the announcement, but declined instead. It has been estimated that France will this year purchase $400,000,000 in war supplies here.

The Great English Loan.
Financial operations are vast in size and conceived in the highest courage these days, as is evidenced by the great British war loan, authorized by the House of Commons this week. This is unlimited in amount except as required to pay for the war for a year and to provide for conversion of the war debt. The new loan is to draw 4 1/2 per cent, and have the privilege under certain conditions, of converting their old securities into the new ones bearing 4 1/2 per cent. The conditions are that holders of the old debt in order to exchange, must subscribe to an equal amount of the new debt, and, in fact, must pay cash for the new loan before they can convert an equal amount of the old.

Thus the holders of $3,000,000,000 worth of British Consols bearing 2 1/2 per cent, and selling around 65 (or minimized at that figure) and the holders of around $2,500,000,000 of the recent war issues at 3 1/2 to 3 3/4 per cent, are protected against further depreciation in the loans they already hold, which depreciation would normally follow the raising of the rate on the new loans above that offered for the old.

If the old debt were completely converted it would require around $5,000,000,000, and the year's war is estimated to require $5,000,000,000 more. Great Britain's debt thus will rise from around $3,500,000,000, as of a year ago, to around $10,000,000,000, as of a year from now.

These figures, like the events of the day, are colossal and unprecedented in the history of the world. The world, like these events, are for destruction instead of construction, as far as property and lives are concerned. In the great scheme of the Universe, however, over of Destruction and Death, may arise Light and Life, not for this generation, alas, but for the world's far future.

Some explanation of an English loan not having been arranged to be placed here in the face of the fall of the exchange rate on London during the past week or two, may perhaps be found in the effect which the great English loan is having upon rates of interest here and of the quotations for English exchange here. These effects began to be distinctly visible on Thursday, when London's discount rate had amounted to 1 1/2 per cent, and the rate here was at 1 1/4, and when exchange on London had risen five-eighths above the record low of last Saturday.

And so it becomes evident that the exchange situation was not to be allowed to drift as has seemed possible in the last week or two, but that the whole matter had been astutely foreseen and arranged for. Sinking exchange rates here meant higher prices to be paid by England, but this was not to be neglected. The provisions of the British loan and the effectual working of them are producing the results desired.

Evidently, also, to help the quotations of exchange on London here, it had been calculated that the inducements and conditions of offering would cause some selling from there of our securities, now would further be better rates on London. This, too, is working out, and sales in the last two or three days have been increasing, having much to do with sagging quotations in our market.

These various factors should help the English bank statement, which shows this week a loss of gold of $11,800,000, with ratio of reserve at 18 7/8 per cent. The Bank of France gains $1,191,900 gold for the week. This makes $4,000,000 gold gained since the Bank sent $40,000,000 to the Bank of England in May, and may mark some method adopted to draw into the Bank some of the hoarded gold, of which France has vast amounts. Such measures were taken at the beginning of the war by the Imperial Bank of Germany, with marked success, as shown by its constantly rising increasing gold holdings up to within a very recent date, and to such an extent that it is calculated that the supply of hoarded gold in Germany is now about exhausted.

Governor Slaton.
The Review does not discuss politics except as they affect the financial situation, but we do not hesitate to express warm approval of and admiration for the action of Governor Slaton in commuting the Frank sentence.

We believe that Governor Slaton's action is of the kind that elevates both his state and the country, and that instead of destroying his political aspirations, as he expected, it puts him in line for high preferment.

We believe that he is made of senatorial timber and that his state can do itself no higher honor than to nominate and elect him the next senator from Georgia.

We need in Washington men with the courage to follow the dictates of their consciences and of their best judgment, regardless of the clamor of partisanship and prejudice. It will be a great day for the United States when both Houses in Washington are controlled by men of the type and calibre of Governor Slaton.

The War and the Market.

The progress of the war in itself has had no accentuated effect upon the market. The varying incidents with any bearing on the situation between Germany and the United States, have been watched with interest. These and their not, or a final peaceful settlement. The action of the German government in both allowing favorable consideration of our claims in some newspapers in Germany and in suspending publication of one of the rabid anti-American Journals there, is evidence showing that most careful consideration is being given the reply. On the other hand, the pursuit by a submarine at the mouth of the Messer of the larger passenger steamers carrying many American citizens and its escape, reveals apparent indifference to the outcome on the part of Germany. The market has not been greatly affected by the Russian reverses. The reasoning is, that Russia, is like a great sea of human reserves, and while the German brooms may sweep it back for a time, immediately upon their withdrawal or cessation in activity the sea will sweep back again undiminished. Russia has been struggling for a warm seaport, without which a great nation is in fetters, for a hundred years. Her great opportunity is now at hand with England, France and Italy to help her.

The Week in the Market.
The week started with considerable hopefulness on the stock exchange, but several movements have developed which have swept back again undiminished. The most potent of these, and always the most potent in any kind of a market, is an increase in the supply of stocks and bonds beyond the point of quick absorption. This has been brought about this week by European selling, most of it probably induced by the provisions of the large English loan and by the sentiment produced by its higher rate, indicating a probability of larger returns from new securities from now on and consequent lower prices for securities with fixed interest rates. This applies more, for the time being, to bonds than stocks.

The cropping up of foreign selling may be interestingly traced in the daily reports of bond transactions on the Stock Exchange, where the significant "S-2" and "S-30" shows that the seller has 20 or 30 days, as the case may be, to deliver the securities sold. Occasionally a domestic seller for one reason or another, takes advantage of this provision for belated delivery, but not often, and nearly all such sales indicate that the security in question is booked for a trip across the ocean. But the securities, especially bonds, sold for foreign account do not all, by any means, pass through the Stock Exchange—in fact, a large proportion is nearly always negotiated at private sale. Also, large amounts of foreign-owned American securities are held here for their owners, and if sold, do not have to take the "S-20" trip, but are delivered the following day in regular course.

Until this foreign selling largely due to the British loan, is completed, prices will have to lie low, as, while the variety of issues held abroad is limited, they are of such a class as to affect the entire market.

Among stocks, the issues sold from abroad this week in larger volume were Canadian Pacific, Union Pacific, Amalgamated Copper and U. S. Steel. The selling was pyramided in its progress beginning on Tuesday and growing larger each day. Canadian Pacific sold lower than at any time since 1908. Talk of reduction in its dividend rate, in addition to foreign selling, had something to do with these sales. At the same time, it may become one of the war stocks, as it is reported that the company is turning out thousands of shells a month at its Angus shops, and machinery is being installed that will enable doubling the output in a few weeks. It is further said that the whole of the other plants of the railway through Canada, are turning their attention to the manufacture of war material, and that in three or four months the Canadian Pacific will be producing more war material than any other single corporation in Canada or the United States.

VON REVENTLOW CONTINUES HIS ATTACK ON CHANCELLOR.

Berlin, June 28.—Count von Reventlow, whose attacks upon the German Chancellor for alleged conciliatory handling of the American situation caused the temporary suspension of The Tages Zeitung today renewed his criticism of government leaders.

Reventlow's tone was more mild but he took official heads to task "for giving so much consideration to America's views." He said that more consideration should be given to what Germany would have to surrender in agreeing to America's demands.
