HAIR MADE CURLY IN A SINGLE NIGHT

(Woman's Tribune.) It has been discovered that the application of liquid silmerine actually makes straight hair curly and wavy in a single night. Also it acts as a perfectly harmless hair beautifier and dressing. It has the peculiar quality of drying in pretty waves, swirls and creases. Straight, lanky hair and the cruel curling iron are no longer necessary. Any druggist of course can supply you with a few ounces of the liquid silmerine, enough to keep the hair curly for several weeks. It is neither sticky nor greasy, but very pleasant to use. Apply to the hair at bedtime with a clean tooth brush. In the morning your hair will be very beautiful and have a most natural curl and waviness.

ENGAGEMENT OF MISS LIDA CALDWELL AND MR. GEORGE E. WILSON, JR. ANNOUNCED AT BEAUTIFUL LUNCHEON GIVEN TODAY BY MRS. HORACE JOHNSTON.

Southern society, especially in the Carolinas, Georgia, Louisiana and Arkansas will bear with keen and affectionate interest of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Lida Caldwell and Mr. George Elliott Wilson, Jr., both of Charlotte, the engagement having been announced this afternoon at a beautiful luncheon given by Mrs. Richard Horace Johnston at her pretty home in the bit of pretty woodland along Parkwood avenue.

The announcement came not as a surprise for Cupid's knights-errant—the love birds—had for several months carried the secret of the young couple on their tell-tale tongues, and society looked on with charming approval and interest, just biding the day when it could, with sanction, express its delight.

A more beautiful luncheon than that given by Mrs. Johnston, in announcement of the happy event-to-be, could not be imagined. The big living one—one of the most charming features of the Johnston's pretty home; the dining room, porch, hall and "my lady's boudoir" were full of garden and field blooms—roses, golden rod and bits of bright, autumnal foliage from the woodland.

The setting was ideal for a September announcement party, and in its richness and beauty expressed a sweet tribute from the hostess to her friend whom she had chosen to honor.

Pink roses—gorgeous ones—adorned the big circular mahogany table in a dining room setting of the wood which is mahogany, the mural tint olive green.

An exquisite luncheon set of Venetian lace which Mrs. Johnston got while abroad, was used. In the center of the large circular piece of lace, was an immense basket of the roses—pink—glorious in tone and beauty.

From the rose-basket, to each plate, were narrow pink ribbons to which were attached tiny cards bearing the initials—"L. R. C.—G. E. W."—and the date, October 27, 1915.

Mrs. Johnston, with her usual tact, arranged the announcement at the beginning of the luncheon to relieve the tension of expectancy and give the inspiration at once, of congratulation, merry making and toasting the bride-elect.

A high carnival of merriment went, uninteruptedly through the serving of five beautiful courses.

Mrs. Johnston, in a lovely Dolly Varden silk, of tones especially becoming to her rich brunette beauty, was hostess graceful and charming.

Miss Caldwell wore an exquisite gown of Point de Neige lace with coatee effect of light blue charmeuse, corsage of pink roses, and picture hat of silver lace with pink roses. She never before looked so pretty. Her beautiful coloring was charmingly accentuated by the excitement of the moment, and in glowing, grace, beauty and elegance she was ideally the pretty fiancée.

The name cards—dainty bits with Cupid designs on them—were attached to the goblets. The names read were: Miss Caldwell; Miss Annie Wilson, Mrs. George Jordan, Mrs. John A. Tate, Miss Susie Hutchison, Mrs. William Jennings Brown, Miss Cornie Fore, Miss Margaret Reese, Miss Marie Thomas, Mrs. Thomas Fuller of Atlanta, Mrs. I. C. Lowe.

The marriage of Mr. Caldwell and Mrs. Wilson is the union of two of the oldest and most prominent families of this city, state and section, both being among the first in culture, in religious, patriotic and social prestige.

Miss Caldwell is a daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Dr. John L. Caldwell, the former president of Queens College, a distinguished minister of the Presbyterian church, son of Dr. John Caldwell, grandfather of Samuel Craighead Caldwell, and great-grandson of Rev. Dr. David Caldwell whose wife was a daughter of Alexander Craighead, the great teacher and preacher who was the inspiration of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence.

On her mother's side Miss Caldwell is descended from one of the most distinguished families of Louisiana. Mrs. Caldwell's father, Dr. H. J. Sanders, was one of the largest and wealthiest sugar planters in the state, also a physician of skill and note, and her mother, Miss Robbins, a daughter of one of the largest sugar planters in the south, a man of prominence throughout the Gulf states.

Miss Caldwell, descending from a long line of Presbyterian ancestry on both sides, inherits the strong intellectuality, and strength of character, of her forebears. She is a girl of exceptional mentality, and intellectual as well as personal charm.

She was born in New Orleans, but her childhood was spent in Arkansas. She was graduated from Ames School and the year following came to Charlotte, her father having taken the presidency of the college here. She became a member of the college faculty, teaching German and other languages, at the same time becoming secretary to her father, which work she has kept up. She is not only secretary to her father, but as he says, "counselor and adviser." She is an able woman, and yet a most charming and lovable one—beloved by all her girl friends, and admired by society in general.

Mr. Wilson a son of Mr. George Elliott Wilson, and Mrs. Bessie Witherspoon Wilson, boasts of no less greatness of Presbyterian ancestry than his charming fiancée. A descendant on his paternal side of Rev. James McKemie Wilson, called "the Apostle of Presbyterianism," whose wife was a Miss Erwin; his grand father the late Joseph Harvey Wilson, elder from early manhood in the First Presbyterian church of this city, and his father Mr. George E. Wilson, one of the most honored and revered elders of the church at this present day.

On his mother's side Mr. Wilson has the blood of the Thornwells and Witherspoons, two of South Carolina's most illustrious families. He is a great nephew of Dr. J. H. Thornwell, the greatest Presbyterian divine of his century, in the South, Dr. Palmer alone being his peer. Mr. Wilson's maternal grandfather, was the late Hamilton Witherspoon, of South Carolina, one of the largest cotton planters of the section, in the South, and a man of illustrious fame.

University of North Carolina. Returning home he became interested in business, and decided to enter the business world instead of the law. He is most successfully established in business in this city and is a young man of highest character and his personality unusually attractive. Mr. Wilson is one of Charlotte's most prominent and popular young men. His prestige, popularity and the esteem in which the town holds him, not only for what he represents as to ancestry, but for himself, is second to none. In the winning of such a splendid, true and charming girl, he has the congratulations of the city.

MR. AND MRS. HAYES ENTERTAIN

Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Hayes entertained very delightfully at dinner today for Rev. and Mrs. R. E. Hough, the former pastor of Knox Presbyterian church. Mr. and Mrs. Hayes have an attractive home on the Tuckasee Road very near Mr. Hayes' great rose gardens. Mr. Hayes is tenor of Knox choir. He has a splendid voice, and is valued as man and singer in the church.

SELECTING JURY IN WILL CASE

Intense Interest in Effort of Caveator to Break Will of Mrs. M. A. Hilton, Who Will-Ed Estate to Daughter of Caveator.

The case of the will of the late Mrs. M. A. Hilton, an effort to break which has been started in civil court, is the center of wide interest at the court house and in the city today, the matter being called before Judge James L. Webb at noon, and at 1:30 the court was yet in session, while attorneys for the two sides to the issue were endeavoring to fill the jury box. Each jurymen was subjected to long fire of quizzes by attorneys for each side before being selected and the work was making slow progress.

In this matter Mrs. W. G. Erwin is appearing as caveator, while the propounders include Mrs. Samuel W. Turbville, a granddaughter of the late Mrs. Hilton and others. Cansler & Cansler, and McNinch and Justice represent Mrs. Erwin, the caveator, while the propounders are represented by Tillet & Guthrie, and Stewart & McRae.

It is said that the amount involved in this litigation is approximately $25,000.

The case promises to be a lengthy one and considerable evidence is likely to be adduced by the attorneys in the case. Mrs. Hilton in her will left her estate or the bulk of the same to Mrs. Turbville, a granddaughter, and the effort now being made to break the will, if successful, would give the legacy to the caveator, Mrs. Erwin, mother of Mrs. Turbville.

Rev. George Belk Heard By Large Congregations At Pegasus St. Church

Rev. George Belk preached a splendid sermon last night to an unusually large Monday congregation, his subject being "Neglecting Salvation." Quite a number of young people and children are confessing their faith and many acknowledge unusual interest.

The subject of this morning's Bible lecture was "Sin." The fearlessness with which the evangelist treats the great questions of the Bible and his lucidity of style continue to excite the most favorable comment.

A very large attendance is expected tonight and tomorrow night, the neighbor churches omitting their usual mid-week services.

Mr. Belk is leaving the city this week, as he has important meetings in the eastern part of the state at which he is due. His work here has been most successful. He is an eloquent speaker, a man of originality of idea, and is popular.

Figures Were Blurred. In the notice in yesterday's News of the sale by Patterson & Glascock of one of the lots of the old Timmons property on South Church street to Mr. A. D. Neal, the latter to build a home thereon for the U. S. Tire Company, the figures in the price were blurred. They should have shown up thus: $7,500.
