DR. F. O. HAWLEY ENTERS INTO REST

City Physician of Charlotte for Years, Confederate Soldier, Elder in Presbyterian Church, and a Brave, Good Man Passed at Midnight—Funeral at 10 o'clock Thursday Morning at First Presbyterian Church.

At midnight, just a few minutes before the clock struck the old day out and the new one in the "one clear call" came for one of the grand old men of Charlotte and the Scotch-Irish section of North Carolina—Dr. Francis Oscar Hawley—and his brave spirit put out to sea all unafraid, sure of the port and trusting to an unseen but never-failing hand of guidance.

For days Dr. Hawley had been in a stupor, his life drifting slowly but surely out into the great beyond. Tomorrow morning he will be laid to rest in Elmwood and the city will stand at the grave of one of its most capable and faithful officials—city physician and one of its bravest and best men.

Biography—Soldier. Dr. Hawley was born in Fayetteville, February 14, 1849, being 69 his last birthday. His father was Joseph R. Hawley, his mother Sarah Eliza Braddy Hawley, both of Fayetteville. There were only two children by this union, Francis Oscar and Erastus Hawley, the latter dying in early manhood.

When quite a youth Dr. Hawley's parents sent him to Charlotte school, the teacher being D. H. Hill, a few years after, General D. H. Hill, of the Confederate army. Gen. Hill taught in the present South school building.

When the war broke out Dr. Hawley was 15 years of age. He was too young to enlist, but was so forceful, so excellent a tactician that he helped out as drill master and helped drill the First North Carolina Regiment. He was so young that his mother requested Governor Vance to call him home. He came home and was then sent to Old Trinity College. He remained there only a short time, responding to the call for volunteers from his state and county.

Returning from the war Dr. Hawley began the study of medicine at old Floral College, continuing his studies under two distinguished Scotchmen—or Scotch-Irish—Dr. David McBryde and Dr. Hector McLean who had a private school of medicine, Edinburg School, in Robeson county. He began the practice of his profession at Shoe Hill, N. C., in 1869.

From there he moved to Polkton, and then to Anson—in 1873—and came to Charlotte in the spring of 1894, and began the practice of his profession. Dr. Hawley wrote articles for the papers advocating the establishment, by the city, of the office of city physician, which articles resulted in the office being created. Dr. H. M. Wilder was elected first city physician and Dr. Hawley assistant. When Dr. Wilder went, with the military company, of which he was surgeon, to the Spanish-American war, Dr. Hawley was made city physician, and continued so up to last spring, when by reason of failing health, he resigned the office.

Throughout his long period of service he was never found wanting. He gave his undivided time to the work, was ready day or night to serve the city public. His work stood unchallenged by any as to efficiency, faithful service, honorability and honest effort. Dr. Hawley, though trained in the old school of medicine, and a wise exponent of that school, still appropriated the best in the new school and as physician, as well as man and soldier, was esteemed and revered by his colleagues in his profession. In the latter part of his service, when his health began to fail, he was assisted in his work by Dr. John E. S. Davidson.

firmly established. After coming to Charlotte Dr. Hawley moved his membership to the First Presbyterian church, and Mrs. Hawley being prominent and valued members of that church, strong in the faith which came to him from Scotch-Irish ancestors. Dr. Hawley was loyal and strong in his church and from that devotion emanated deeds of love and kindness, of charity and helpfulness, that made his life a benediction of goodness and kindness to many.

Lodge Affiliations. Dr. Hawley was the oldest Knight of Pythias in North Carolina, having united with the order in 1865, since which time he has been an active member. Removing to Charlotte along with his church certificate he brought his Pythian certificate which he deposited with Mecklenburg Lodge No. 90. His life exemplified the principles of the order and in its precepts he walked before all men.

The Pythians will assemble at Castle Hall and attend funeral in a body. He was also a member of the most and most staunch leaders of the Scotch-Irish Society of North Carolina. The Man. Dr. Hawley was so splendidly rounded, there being so many phases or sides to consider, that one can not differentiate; can not exalt one trait over the other, but brave as he was as a soldier, skilled as he was as a physician, devoted as he was as a church man and brotherly as he was in his fraternal affiliations, as man—just a true, noble honorable and upright man, loving the truth and hating a lie, square in all his dealings, his life plumb with all that made up the code of a true man, Christian gentleman, devoted husband and loving father—he was greatest.

He was firm but gentle. He never whipped one of his children in his life, but they obeyed him implicitly, he governing them by firmness and kindness. He was a grand exponent of the firmness and strength of his forbears, but justice was tempered with mercy. Married in 1869. Dr. Hawley was married in October, 1869, to Miss Christian McLean McBryde, daughter of Dr. David McBryde, of Maxton (formerly Shoe Hill), under whom he had studied medicine. To them were born 11 children, only four of whom reached the years of maturity, they being Dr. David McBryde Hawley, Rev. Dr. Frank Morton Hawley—now pastor of the Presbyterian church at Mebane—and Mr. F. O. Hawley, Jr., of Charlotte, owner of and proprietor of Hawley's Pharmacy, and Miss Christian Hawley, now Mrs. Frank Rawlinson, of Jordan, S. C.

Dr. David Hawley died some years ago, leaving one son, David, who is at the home of his grandparents, on North Long street. Relatives of Mrs. Hawley here to attend the funeral are, her sisters, Misses Hattie and Sallie McBryde, of Maxton; Miss Hazel Morrison and Miss Hallie Austin, of Maxton, niece of Mrs. Hawley.

Dr. Frank Morton Hawley and Mrs. Frank Rawlinson, son and daughter of Dr. Hawley, arrived yesterday. Mr. F. O. Hawley, Jr., has been constantly at his father's bedside. The news of Dr. Hawley's death will be heard with regret throughout this section, where he was best known, best loved.

Red Men to Attend Funeral. Members of Catawba Tribe No. 13, Improved Order Red Men will meet at the hall, Fifth and Tryon streets tonight at 7:30 to make arrangements to attend the funeral of Dr. F. O. Hawley, member of the Tribe, tomorrow. J. T. CHRISTOPHER, Sachem.

French Navy Ready to Cope With Submarines. Paris, Sept. 15.—The ministry of marine announced today that measures had been taken which would enable the navy to deal with German submarines. The statement was prompted by the recent activity of submarines off the coast of France, resulting in the sinking of several steamships. The ministry states that there is no reason for alarm at the operations of submarines near the mouths of the Gironde and the Loire. "All necessary precautions were taken long ago against the aggressions of German submarines," the statement says. "The present naval force near the mouths of the Gironde and Loire will be reinforced if necessary, but the measures taken against them in the English channel are so efficacious that they may be expected to be sufficient, and only occasional isolated aggressions are possible."
