REDISM FACES

is Betraying the Russians. BI EARL C. REEVES International News Service Staff Correspondent. London, June 4 .- Lenin, the agent dustrial competition. Such is the interretation of the facts behind Britain's present industrial crisis given by the Duke of Northumberland, England's greatest land owners and coal baron. He absolves the great rank and file of labor from the charge of being the conscious tools of Lenin, and hence of Germany, but declares that the attempt to extend Britain's coal strike to the Triple Alliance, including railway and transport workers, "if realized, would strike remain a sealed book to most Eng lishmen," he said. "The first fact to realize is that we have in our midst today a powerful enemy organization working for our destruction. This enemy organization known as the Red International of Moscow. It is controlled by a body of Russian and Jewish adventurers whose purpose is the abolition of all law, order, morality and religion throughout the world; in fact, the destruction of civilization. In order to achieve this purpose, the first aim is the complete overthrow of the British Empire, because that is the principal bulwark of law and order in the world.

GERMAN INTRIGUE SCENTED "In the course of a few months Lenin succeeded in demoralizing the Russian people, and in the course of four years the greatest empire in the world has been reduced to a chaos and barbarism more degraded than that of any savage race. The immediate result of Lenin's success was that Germany was enabled in the Spring of 1918, to concentrate overwhelming number in France, and almost to inflict a decisive defeat on the British and French armies. When the war came to an end, a defeated and humiliated, but still defiant and unrepentant Germany looked about her for the means of repairing the losses she had suffered in territory and in wealth, and of recovering her position in the

"She used Russian Bolshevism for the purpose of sowing the seeds of revolution in all the Entente counrisks, since the poison was bound to spread to Germany itself. But events have justified her in taking those risks; every revolutionary movement in Ger many Has been ruthlessly suppress

"If the risk was great, the prize was also great; it was the same prize that she had striven for during the TRIPLE ALLIANCE DANGEROUS WEAPON "After the conclusion of the war the executive who was in the cloest touch with the Soviet Government through its emissary, Litvinoff, endeavored to bring about a strike of the Triple Alliance before the country had time to recover from the confusion caused by demobilization, this strike being intended to lead to a revolution. There is no doubt at all about this. Lenin informed us that he saw in the Triple Alliance a very formidable weapon for creating a revolution in this country. Why pay more for coffee elsewhere Since that time every effort has been when we can save you 5 to 10 cents made to corrupt its leaders and to bring on a pound of coffee. The only reason it did not take place was that they found out that their men would not follow them into a revolution. So they threw over the miners at the eleventh hour. FRANCE STILL CENSORS PRESS

Messages Sent to America Via London Still Britain Inspected.

Paris, June 4.-All cable messages ent from Paris to the United States, including both newspaper dispatches and ordinary business cables, are still subject to a form of government censorship resulting in delay.

So far as is known here no protest has been made by Washington, though the State Department recently sent a plaining that messages sent through without but within-there are traitors London were subject to British censorship and that American trade secrets might thereby fall into the hands of the British.

The French censorship is operated by the Ministry of the Interior and is described by the government as a purely police measure. An official from the ministry occupies a room at the central telegraph station. Before any cable is sent to America or any other country it must pass his inspection. Assurance was given the American press recently that this censorship, insofar as it concerns dispatches to recognized newspapers and news agencies, is only perfunctory.

"When the Ministry of the Interior's representative sees the address of a recognized newspaper or news agency at the top of a dispatch he passes it for transmission without reading a line," the American correspondents were told. "If he is out at lunch or absent from his office messages to American newspapers go through automatically without any delay."

Inasmuch as a cablegram for America, filed at the telegraph station at the Bourse, passes through at least ten hands before it reaches its destination, it is difficult to check the statement that any resulting delay is not the fault of the censor. In addition to this, the French Foreign Office exercises a kind of retroactive "censorship." Copies of dispatches sent to American newspapers area laid before the press section of the Foreign Office. The Foreign Office explains that this is done merely that it may be informed at all times of the nature of messages sent by American newspaper representatives in Paris without waiting for their dispatches to be re-cabled from the United States.
