

REUNION URGED OF METHODISTS

Complete Success in Ireland is Hoped for by Delegates Present.

London, Sept. 9.—(By the Associated Press)—The world's conference of Methodists at the outset of this morning's session adopted a resolution declaring the conference hoped that complete success would crown the negotiations between the British Government and the Irish Republicans for a solution of the Irish question. The resolution said: "This conference, representing almost a million adherents, is watching with respectful and deeply solicitous interest the present attempt at a satisfactory and permanent adjustment of Irish affairs, and fervently hopes that complete success may crown the negotiations." The delegates unanimously ordered that copies of the resolution be sent to Prime Minister Lloyd-George and Eamonn de Valera, the Irish Republican leader. The question of a Methodist union was the chief topic of today's program. S. D. Chowan, of Canada, who presided, spoke on Christian unity and six speakers discussed "the aspects of a Methodist reunion." These were Henry Smith, president of the United States Methodist church; Bishop E. D. Mouson, Methodist church, South; Sir Robert Perks, James R. Joy, Henry J. Taylor, of the Primitive church, and Bishop G. C. Clement, of the African Methodist church of Zion. All the speakers emphasized the need of Methodist unity. Bishop Mouson said that all branches of the church were solidly united on all vital matters and divided only on the question of administration. Regarding the question of union of the Methodist church and the Methodist church, South, in the United States, he declared amid applause that those two great Episcopal Methodists in America must be one, or must answer before the judgment bar of God. Sir Robert Perks said he believed a union of all the Methodist churches was on the eve of accomplishment. Mr. Joy made a plea for a reunion of American churches, which he said was desirable, practicable and inevitable.

TAKE LONG TIME TO FILL QUARRY

Filling Rudisill Mine With Trash is Long, Tedious Task.

Five years will be required to fill the old Rudisill quarry with trash collected in Charlotte. Chief Amos Cook's sanitary wagon have been dumping on an average of 600 loads of trash a week into the quarry for 18 months but only one small corner of the immense hole has been filled. The quarry, located in the southern part of the city, will be out of the way some day, however, and it is the plan of the owners to extend the residential section of the city to cover that spot. For many years the city sanitary department carried its trash to a deep quarry in the vicinity of the old crematory, north of the city. The haul was long and expensive, consequently was great. The Rudisill quarry, located just beyond the intersection of Mint street and the Dowd road, is conveniently located and frequent trips can be made there by the sanitary wagons without the loss of much time. The immense volume of trash collected weekly in the city is being used for a commendable purpose in that it is filling this quarry and preparing the way for making available additional residential land in the heart of the city. With the population of the city increasing and the amount of trash hauled, the sanitary department head figures that five more years will be necessary to fill up the big quarry. It is about 75 feet deep and about two miles square, Chief Cook said.

HELP FOR DISABLED IS BEING PROMOTED

Steps are being taken by State officials to assist disabled men, women and children in their employment to equip themselves for congenial jobs and vocations, even though they have been handicapped with the loss or maiming of a limb or some other misfortune of the kind. H. L. Stanton, superintendent of rehabilitation in North Carolina, arrived here Wednesday to arrange for the opening of a bureau here that shall have for its purpose of the aiding and rehabilitation of such persons. Mr. Stanton represents the State department of public instruction. The work of rehabilitation for industrial workers was begun last July and is being carried on under Federal supervision. At the last special session of the North Carolina legislature an act was passed providing a fund for providing books and tuition for disabled civilians who may wish to take vocational training under the plans started by the federal government for rehabilitation work. The federal fund providing for vocational training is apportioned among the states whose legislatures provide a sum equal to the federal donation. North Carolina is one of the states meeting the requirement. The federal allotment for North Carolina, according to Mr. Stanton, is $24,000. The State's donation of $24,000 will be available by 1922. One of the plans of the bureau here will be to aid blind people to obtain an education. Mr. Stanton has not secured an office here yet but expects to do so within a few days. He is now touring the State and studying the plans necessary to put the scheme into successful operation.

OPEN-AIR MARKET IS DEFENDANT IN SUIT

New York, Sept. 9.—Brokers, who failed to follow the New York "curo" indoors but who have continued to trade in stocks in the open air on Broad street, delighting sightseers with their sign language, are defendants in a suit brought by abetting property owners on file in the Supreme Court today. The plaintiffs, who set forth that the value of their property aggregates more than $13,000,000, ask for an injunction, asserting that the open-air market is a nuisance, interfering with the rights of realty owners and the public. For years the curb market had been the feature of the Wall street district for tourists, but a year or so ago an expensive building was erected and the market was supposed to go indoors. According to the plaintiffs, however, at least 300 brokers are still trading in the open air and they have formed an association.

COLONIAL BUCKLES BEING WORN AGAIN

New York, Sept. 9.—Colonial buckles on feminine footwear have returned in style with the revival of the tongue pump, one learns from the shop talk on Fifth Avenue. Mostly the mode is modified Colonial, but the larger buckles also are in demand. Jet, gun metal and nickel finishes are preferred. The strap pump, fashion oracles say, will still be favored by smart dressers this fall. Buttons in metallic combinations to go with this footwear include bright and "satin" silver, and similar effects in gold.

An Open Letter to the Citizens of Charlotte

This seems to be the best kind of a day to pass along a cheery bit of good news.

You know how it is these days, the heat and the dust AND THE THIRST. You know how a man's mind wanders away on wishing trips—wishing for something so cold and bracing that it will bring a reviving delight to the dullest hour. Not a flashy, soon-forgotten drink, but a drink with a body, a depth to it—a drink that leaves a pleasant fruity farewell on the palate and a sort of lively, hope-we'll-meet-again-soon thought in the memory.

Well, that's Lime Cola, a breezy combination of the pleasantest cola ever made, with a brisk, tropical piquancy of lush ripe limes, aged to a degree of mellowness that takes away the brusque kick of the usual cola drink and leaves in its place a smooth, sparkling drink the richness of which makes Lime Cola, as one enthusiastic booster said, "the champagne of soft drinks."

Suggest that the next time you get into an argument with a full-fledged thirst—the fiercer the better—you try Lime Cola on it. It is simply surprising what a well-chilled bottle of this happily blended beverage will do—it will make you grateful to know that a six-cylinder thirst can be so wholly satisfied, with a big margin of cheery goodness to brace you for the tasks of several more hot hours ahead.

To get all this you have to get Lime Cola—no use looking for it in any other beverage. Lime Cola is put up in bottles and sold no other way. You might not care if it varied but WE DO—huge sums of money were spent to make Lime Cola the undeniably best drink ever offered to thirsty citizens—we keep it BEST by bottling it correctly blended, aged and mellowed. It's 5 cents a bottle at all places where soft drinks are sold. An acquaintance with Lime Cola today means a lasting friendship with an always pleasant friend.

Yours very truly,

Lime Cola Bottling Co., of Charlotte
