

BARRINGER AND PEELER SERVED

They Are Technically Under Arrest on Wake Magistrate's Warrants.

Command Barringer and Dr. C. N. Peeler are under arrest. "Technically," Mr. Barringer says, but Sheriff Cochran served warrants on the two in regular fashion charging them with exceeding the speed limit of Wake county.

The famous Raleigh magistrate, Squire Owens, is at the bottom of the whole business. He sent the warrants to Sheriff Cochran, properly filled out and everything. Sheriff Cochran held them a few days and Thursday he had them in the presence of Mr. Barringer and Dr. Peeler.

Squire Owens wants them, it will be necessary for him to send for them. Sheriff Cochran served the papers and wrote the magistrate to that effect. It will cost railroad fare both ways for one and one way for two if the Raleigh justice of the peace carries out his previously announced determination to get his defendants into his court.

NEITHER WILL GO.

Mr. Barringer, speaking for himself and Dr. Peeler, says that neither will voluntarily go to Raleigh. It is not up to Sheriff Cochran to take them there. Consequently, the nearness is up to the squire. The sheriff required no cash bond from the auctioneer or the physician but he instructed both to remain in town, and under arrest, until noon Monday. Squire Owens is supposed to send word by then whether he wants them to go or to send railroad fare to them.

It was pointed out Saturday that it is up to the State to get a man out of town in which he is to be tried. "Prisoners" are not generally supposed to be willing to defray their own expenses to a court to answer a charge. Therefore, the responsibility of defraying traveling expenses will fall upon the State as represented by Magistrate Owens.

WERE NOT IN WAKE.

Both Mr. Barringer and Dr. Peeler have sworn personally and in writing that, not only did they not speed in Wake county but that they have not been near the county in several months. Magistrate Owens' warrant claims they did speed in that county and the magistrate has publicly stated that he proposes seeing that they come to his court and face trial on the charge.

If Mr. Barringer and Dr. Peeler can prove that they did not violate the Wake speed laws they cannot be fined or charged with the cost. It will then be up to somebody else to pay their railroad fare from Charlotte to Raleigh. Whether any one is willing to run the risk of having to pay a deputy sheriff or constable's railway fare both ways, and that of the two defendants one way, when it isn't absolutely certain that the trial will make possible the collection of any money from these men, was the point under discussion in connection with the case Saturday.

The magistrate has issued warrants against a half-dozen other Charlotte people charging them with speeding in Wake. Sheriff Cochran has not served these warrants yet. These potential defendants all claim they did not so much as visit Wake county on or about the dates specified in the warrant, not to mention violating the county's speed laws.

No Living Witness Against Dr. Hadley "Wife Murderer"

By LEE LEWIS, Staff Correspondent of The News. Copyright, 1921, by News Publishing Co.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 10.—Once more the old adage—murder will out. It is a long trail from the frozen waters of the historic James river, in the hard Winter of 1918, to the sunbaked desert of New Mexico, in the Summer of 1921, and yet the desert has given up its strange bearded man to come back to Richmond to explain, if he can, the finding of the ice-encrusted body of his wife, a stone about her neck, three weary years ago.

It is the Hadley case and about it is woven a web of mystery which, for a time, baffled the best criminal minds of the country. The county confession of the "man in the case" but there is no living witness against him. The only person who could have connected him directly with a motive for the crime is a woman whose lips have been closed by death. There is but a slender chain of circumstantial evidence against the man, and yet the prosecutor believes it strong enough to cast the ghastly shadow of the death chair over the dark and dingy cell in the Henrico county jail where tonight Dr. Wilmarth Amos Hadley paces restlessly to and fro, a broken man at the age of 39.

For nearly three years Dr. Hadley, who served here and at Camp Lee, near Petersburg, as a captain in the medical corps of the army during the war, has lived on a ranch near Farmington, N. M., under the name of Arthur Leonard. He explained his presence in New Mexico as due to a fight against tuberculosis and the haunted look forever in his eye lent its tell-tale corroboration to his story. But it was the furtive look of the fugitive from justice, and the strain of an always possible detective took its daily toll of the stamina and vitality of the man until at last the falling figure which returned to Richmond a few days ago, manacled and thrice guarded, was little more than a wreath of the stalwart officer that Richmond and Petersburg knew so well in the closing days of world hostilities.

SIGNED CONFESSION.

The police say that Hadley, after his arrest in New Mexico and a quick transfer to a Denver jail, confessed that he poisoned his wife in this city in November, 1918, wrapped the body in a raincoat, weighted it with a heavy stone and threw it into the James river, five miles above the city. The former on December 30th found the body in the icy waters and the cold had proved sufficient to preserve it to such an extent that identification was possible by the woman with whom Captain Hadley and his wife had lived. This woman told of strange conversations between the couple. She made affidavits to that effect, and the prosecutor has these statements, but the woman, Mrs. E. G. Clark, is dead.

There was no water in the lungs of Mrs. Hadley when her ice-covered body was dragged from the James and doctors say this is conclusive evidence that she was dead before the river claimed her as its own. The heavy rock also told its mute but eloquent story of foul play.

Mrs. Hadley was a pianist and a soprano, with a coloratura voice, which had given promise a career upon the stage. As Sue Tinsley, she took a music course at Oberlin, Ohio, having been born in Cincinnati. Dr. Hadley was graduated from the medical school of the University of Texas in 1914 but local officials do not know what he did between that time and his arrival here toward the end of the war. His records have been stolen from the files of the War Department at Washington and cannot be found. It was nearly a month after the body was found in the James before a correct identification was made. Meantime, there were many pitiful scenes at the morgue. Men and women came to Richmond from various parts of the country seeking lost relatives, but each one looked in vain until at last Mrs. Clark was attracted by the case and made the identification. By this time, however, Dr. Hadley had gone. He had disappeared as completely as if the earth had opened up and swallowed him. Eventually, however, a man turned up who had seen him leaving the city in a high-powered automobile.

MADE NO RESISTANCE.

The case was placed in the hands of private detectives and then a patient and systematic search of the country was begun. The stranger with the black beard at Farmington had in some manner aroused suspicion. Detectives quickly were on the trail, and, when at last they confronted Hadley, the man made no resistance and readily consented to return.

As to motives, there are said to be several. One has to do with an army nurse as the third member of an eternal triangle. Another has to do with a mysterious "Dr. Griffith," mentioned in the alleged confession by Hadley, in which he says he killed "the doctor" because he was annoying Mrs. Hadley. There is the third theory that Dr. Hadley had been suffering in 1918 from the effects of an old injury which is said to have produced periodic attacks of asphasia. Finally there has been a reputation of the confession. The trial will come next month and it promises to rank with the Beattie case of a decade ago.

FIFTY-FIVE MEN ARE CANDIDATES

Trinity's 1921 Grid Artists Will Don the Spangles on Monday Afternoon.

Durham, Sept. 10.—Forty-five men will begin football practice at Trinity College Monday, the grid, which will be continued without a break for three weeks before the first game, will be under the direction of Coach Baldwin, Assistant Coach Steiner and Captain Leach. They will arrive Sunday.

Ten of the men who will start getting into form on Monday were members of the team which represented Trinity in intercollegiate football last season—the first season in 25 years—and without a defeat. Twenty-two were members of the squad last year and twenty-odd are from various high and prep schools.

Only one man, Captain Jones, will be missed from last year's varsity. Jones is principal of the Kinston high school this year. McGeehan, who was a member of the senior class last year, may return to take his M. A. degree.

The varsity men returning are: Captain Leach, tackle; Crute, fullback; McNairy, half; Pennington and Neal, ends; Hatcher, guard; Midgette, guard; Hall, quarter. From last season's subs are Smith, quarter; Moore, end; and McWhorter, line.

Some honest-to-goodness football players are promised in the young hopefuls. The Monroe high school which took the championship of the West and Chapel Hill in the finals, will send Caldwell and English, selected for all State teams. Others are Garrett, of Carolina Military and Naval academy; Albergotti, captain of Orangeburg, S. C. high, and Whitaker, of Laurinburg.

Prospects look bright for the nine-game schedule which begins in Durham on October 1 with a game at Lynchburg. At weekly intervals will come William and Mary, Randolph Macon, Emory and Henry at Abingdon, Va., Elon and Guilford. On Armistice Day will come the tug-of-war with Wake Forest in Raleigh. On November 19 the team will meet the University of New York in New York city in the first inter-sectional game which the metropolis has witnessed in nine years. The Thanksgiving game with Wofford at Spartanburg, S. C., will end the season.

MISS WILSON WEDS THORNDIKE SAVILLE

Chapel Hill, Sept. 10.—Miss Edith Stedman Wilson, daughter of Dr. Henry V. Wilson, professor of zoology in the University of North Carolina since 1911, was married here Saturday to Thorndike Saville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Caleb Mills Saville, of Hartford, Conn., associate professor of hydraulic and sanitary engineering in the University and hydraulic engineer in the U. S. Geological and Economic Survey.

The marriage took place in the Chapel of the Cross, the Episcopal church of Chapel Hill. The bride, Eleanor Stansbury Wilson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Miss Eline von Borries, of Baltimore, Md., was bridesmaid. The groom was attended by Kelsey Gilmore Reed, of Lexington, Mass., his classmate at Harvard, as best man. The ushers were Henry V. Wilson, Jr., Frank P. Graham, of Charlotte, and Wesley C. George, of Mount Airy. Rev. Alfred S. Lawrence, rector of the Chapel of the Cross, performed the ceremony.

The bride is a graduate of Bryn Mawr College, of the class of 1916. Professor Saville was graduated from Harvard in 1914, and has graduate degrees from Harvard, Dartmouth College, and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Upon their return to Chapel Hill, toward the end of this month, Professor and Mrs. Saville will occupy their new residence on the Durham road, at the east end of the village.

LIQUOR WAS FOUND IN LAKEWOOD HOME

J. F. Davis and two sons, J. C. and W. F. Davis, residing on the Dam road near Lakewood Park, were arrested Saturday following the seizure of 23 gallons of corn whiskey by Constable Joe Emory and city policemen at the house. Magistrate J. W. Cobb placed them under bond of $500 for appearance for trial Monday at 3:30 o'clock.

Detectives Gribble, McGraw and Fesperman accompanied Constable Emory in making the raid. Whiskey was found hidden in various places in and about the house, including a fireplace, kitchen closet and a hayrack. An assortment of cans were also taken by the officers. A beer keg, filled with a liquid which looked, tasted and smelled like ordinary water, was also brought to the city.

The three men were brought before Magistrate J. W. Cobb. Only one warrant was issued, including the three men thereon. The bond was fixed at $500 which was promptly given. The preliminary hearing will bring out for public inspection the assortment of equipment and whiskey which the officers found at the house.
