

JONES CHOSEN AS FARM AGENT

Auburn Graduate Will be Stationed Here to Take C. E. Miller's Place.

Charles C. Jones, formerly connected with the extension service of the North Carolina department of agriculture as an expert in the marketing of livestock has been selected to take the place that will be made vacant by the resignation of Charles E. Miller as farm demonstration agent of Mecklenburg county. Whether Mr. Jones will accept the position offered him here is not definitely known, but it is expected that he will accept.

Mr. Jones served in the North Carolina agricultural extension service as a livestock marketing expert for several years and since severing his connection with that service he has been connected with the United States government as superintendent of its big remount station in Oklahoma, where thousands of horses are kept to supply the needs of the army.

Mr. Jones was educated for his special line of work in the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn and has seen varied and diversified service in agricultural and livestock work since that time. He is regarded as exceptionally well-equipped for service as farm demonstration agent for Mecklenburg county.

The county agents in the different counties are recommended by the State extension service and are usually accepted by the boards of county commissioners in the counties where they are to work. Mr. Jones is considered highly acceptable by the Mecklenburg county board of commissioners. E. S. Millspaugh, agent in demonstration work for the western part of the state, approves him also. The State and the county in which the agent works pay his salary.

More than 7,000,000,000 cigarettes were sent from the United States to China last year.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear. NEEDS OF CITY TOLD CIVITANS

Colonel Kirkpatrick Tells Local Club of Charlotte in the Future.

Charlotte is now standing ready to go over the top if the young men of the city but will see the vision and get in behind the city and pushing it forward, declared Col. T. L. Kirkpatrick, addressing members of the Civitan club at luncheon at the Manufacturers' club Friday afternoon.

Colonel Kirkpatrick recounted the progress of the city, showing that in 1907 the city had no paved streets, only 25 miles of sewers, no water works plant capable of serving the city, and only two schools. Yet in 10 years time 12 schools were erected, 32 miles of pavement were laid, 75 miles sewerage mains put in place, a million dollars spent for a water plant, a handsome white way built. The population also increased in that time from 15,000 to nearly 60,000, said the colonel.

He was speaking on what Charlotte should be in the future and said that many things ought to be done if the city is still to prosper and progress. A charitable hospital for indigent poor, new city hall, city market, and new county courthouse were among the undertakings enumerated by the speaker.

Mr. Kirkpatrick urged the members of the Civitan club, made up of the younger business and professional men of the city, to get behind at least one of these enterprises and "put it across."

Edward B. Bridges, local attorney, and E. F. Rimmer, of Rimmer Drug company, were received as new members. In the drawing for the attendance prize, presented by Dick Young, Mr. Bridges received the award, a bronze calendar holder.

AUXILIARY BISHOP OF N. Y. IS CONSECRATED

New York, Oct. 28.—Thousands attended the consecration today in St. Patrick's Cathedral of the Right Rev. John Joseph Dunn, D. D., as titular bishop of Camuliana and auxiliary bishop of New York.

A regular mass preceded the ceremony and the customary action of church officials in clearing the edifice in order that only ticket holders might be admitted to the consecration led to rumors of a bomb plot which later were denied by the church authorities and the police.

ASKED TO WIDEN WEST THIRD ST.

George E. Wilson Willing to Give 10 Feet on South Side of Street.

Proposition of widening West Third street between Tryon and Church was laid before the city commissioners Friday morning by Odum Alexander, real estate agent, representing the George E. Wilson estate.

Third street between Tryon and Church is now one of the narrowest streets in the uptown business district and is rapidly building up. The present width of the street is 22 1/2 feet from curb to curb and 32 1/2 feet from property line to property line.

According to Mr. Alexander the Wilson estate is willing to deed for the street 10 feet on the south side of the street, which is owned by the Wilson estate, all the way from Tryon to Church street. Mr. Wilson is willing, it was explained, to grant this part of his property, if the property-owners on the north side of the street, which is already built up with brick structures, and the city will co-operate in the undertaking and share in the expense.

It was brought out that all property holders on the street, whether on the north or south side, will be greatly benefited by the widening of the street.

All members of the city commission were agreed that the street ought to be widened and that the widening of the street is lined with brick buildings, which will necessitate a greater expenditure of money, if a program of widening was started later.

The commissioners commended the endeavor to make the street wider and capable of handling more traffic. In fact they said they would like to see the street wider from Tryon to Mint street.

W. S. Stancill, commissioner of public works, said that the mistake of the city lies in the fact that a building line is not established on the narrow streets, which now have residences on them and which shortly will have business houses. That is the reason, he said, that the side streets uptown are narrow today.

The commissioners declared that they are thoroughly in accord with any movement to widen any street that needs more and now is the opportunity, that all that is reasonable in any such enterprise.

PAVING DISTRICTS ARE AUTHORIZED

Additional paving districts for permanent improvements of streets of the city were created by the city commissioners Friday morning.

Already more than 10 miles of city streets have been authorized by the commission for pavements and concrete sidewalks.

The new districts include the following streets, on which paving has been petitioned: West Fourth, Woodlawn avenue to Linden avenue; West Sixth, Church to Poplar; North Caldwell, Trade to Seventh; Steven, Eighth to Tenth.

CASE OF TETANY IS FOUND IN CITY

Little Negro Boy's Condition Has Finally Been Diagnosed.

The case of an eight-year-old negro boy, whose little body for more than a week, has been stiff and rigid as in death, has been finally diagnosed by physicians as tetany, an unusual disease in the United States.

The case of the boy, who was placed in the Good Samaritan hospital at the instigation of Dr. W. A. McPhaul, city health officer, has baffled physicians here, who examined the body and attempted to arrive at the nature of the malady.

Tetany, it was explained, is characterized usually by stiffness in the terminal portions of the upper and lower limbs. The body, however, of the little negro, was practically stiff all over. If it were possible, it would have lain there as a board, doctors said.

The feet were drawn downward and refused to be bent back. The entire legs were rigid and when they were lifted up, the body would bend at the waist. At the same time his stomach was tight and taut as the head of a drum. The neck was also stiff and drawn back. The little fellow would cry, when doctors came, for his head to be pulled down. The fingers were stiff as were the hands and arms.

So aggravated was the case that diagnosticians hesitated to pronounce tetany, but after several examinations and close observation, it was agreed that it was this strange malady. Tetany is a rare disease in this country and as far as known, only one other case is on the records of medical annals in Charlotte. The disease is common in Europe, especially Berlin and Vienna. A great epidemic once visited Berlin, it was explained.

The disease is caused by a disturbance in the gastro-intestinal system, but it may be produced by the removal of the parathyroid gland. The malady usually occurs among children and is rarely known in persons more than 20 years of age.

Much interest has been created in the case and the little boy has been visited by many doctors, prominent in medical circles here. All have agreed that his case is an unusual one, even of tetany. Tetany itself is an extraordinary ailment and is seldom seen in practice in the United States.

The boy does not appear in great pain and only makes outcry when the body is touched. He sleeps well but is unable to take solid food because his jaws are rigid. He eats with relish oranges, sucking the juice from the pulp.

Tetany is not usually fatal but ordinarily runs from one to six months, and is not cured until the boy's recovery, physicians say, unless other developments occur.

COMMANDER OF CALDWELL RECOVERS COTTON IN MONROE

Monroe, Oct. 28.—Geo. L. Hart, a local cotton buyer, is out $340 which he paid for three bales of cotton yesterday.

Charlie Washington, colored, came to town with three bales of excellent staple cotton and Mr. Hart bought it. Shortly thereafter D. C. Caldwell, a Mecklenburg farmer, came in and said the cotton was his, he having furnished Washington supplies while the latter was working his land. Mr. Hart and officers spent practically all of last night hunting for the negro. Washington is said to have come from Augusta, Ga., living with his family on Mr. Caldwell's farm. He is about 35 or 40 years old, ginger cake color, short and weighs about 160 pounds.

The morning of November 11, 1918, found him a marshal of France, sitting in his private car behind the lines, smoking his pipe and waiting, in the unusual calm that followed the bursting of big guns, the coming of the German envoys to ask for peace at the Allies' price. The professor's theories of strategy and moral force in warfare had been vindicated.

Foch fought in the Franco-Prussian war as a second lieutenant, as did Joffre. They were both born in the south of France. Foch worked for the rest of his life with the shame and humiliation of that debacle in his mind. He studied the battlefields of that war until he knew them as well as his own backyard. He studied the German war machine, the psychology of its leaders, the reasons for their mistakes and their successes.

Later, as a professor in the War College, he wrote text books on the conduct of war and the principles of war. He worked with enthusiasm and patriotic fervor to indoctrinate the young French officers with the principle of the offensive at all costs. Battles are won morally, as well as materially, he said, and he stressed the moral element in modern warfare.

As a general commanding a force of 120,000 men, Foch found himself opposed by a German army of 200,000 men at the first battle of the Marne in 1914. As the battle progressed, aides rushed in to warn him both his wings were being pushed back. "We must attack in the center," said Foch. "Order up the Moroccans."

The German center, composed of Prussian Guards, the flower of their army, gave way under this unexpected onslaught and later airplane observation brought news to Foch of a gap in the German line. He pushed in a wedge of infantry, supported by heavy artillery, and dawn found the Germans in a panic and retreat.
