

INTERESTS IN CLASH IN EAST
Here America and Japan Find Themselves at Cross-purposes.

BY A. L. BRADFORD,
 (United Press Staff Correspondent.)
 Washington, Nov. 2.—The most immediate and impending task for the Washington Conference is to prevent the birth of another World War—this time in the Far East.

It may be also stated, the honest belief of this government is that before there can be an effective limitation of armament the Washington Conference must first remove potential causes of a future conflict in the Far East. This is explained the reason that prompted the American government to provide for a discussion of Pacific and Far Eastern questions in the Conference on Limitation of Armament, with a view of reaching a solution of these problems.

This also answers the questions that have been in the minds of a large part of the American people—“Why was the Far East injected into the conference?” The answer given to this question, however, proposes another question—“What danger there of the United States going to war over Far Eastern questions?”

Speculation about what issues might cause a war in the Far East and what powers might become embroiled is dangerous, and, of course, not humanly possible to forecast accurately. But, there is no doubt that the United States and Japan have more reasons to feel concerned about the possibility of a future war in the Far East than any other two powers.

Japan might be warranted, or feel in calling on her ally, Great Britain, to come to her aid in the event of such conflict, under the terms of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance. The United States is utterly opposed to this alliance.

Article 2 of the alliance provides that either High Contracting Party (either Japan or Great Britain) should be involved in war in defense of territorial rights or special interests in any country, the other High Contracting Party will at once come to the assistance of its ally, and will conduct the war in common, and make peace in mutual agreement with it.

It is true that the United States is directly exempted from the application of this phase of the alliance, but it is true that this indirect exemption is not to the entire satisfaction of this country, which, however, failed of ratification by the American Senate, and, consequently, is not in force. There is a treaty of limited arbitration in force between the United States and Great Britain, however, but the United States government does not regard this convention as applying technically to the Anglo-Japanese Alliance.

The policies of the United States and Japan in the Far East are almost direct opposition. No power has violated the American policy of the “Open Door” in the Far East as has Japan, through her network of economic privileges, exclusive concessions and monopolies in China.

Likewise, Japan has done more to encroach on the administrative integrity, and probably the territorial integrity, of China than any other power, while the United States has always sought to preserve the administrative and territorial integrity of China.

As the result of the break-up of the Russian empire, Japan holds under her military sway a vast area of Russian territory in Siberia, with the United States and the other powers fearful of a rash step Japan's imperialism will lead her to take next toward annexing this rich field for Japanese expansion.

Japan's activities in the Far East have led to repeated protests from the United States. Japan probably believes the United States would never take any direct action over a Far Eastern issue, as American protests become less and less effectual.

The American government hopes a “how-down” will come in the limitation of armament conference.

ROWAN COUNTY SELLS HALF MILLION BONDS
 Salisbury, November 2.—A half million dollars of bonds were sold Tuesday in Rowan county to Seasongood and Ayer, of Cincinnati, at a price that is higher than any other county bids have sold for in the State this year. The cash price is $101.15. The money secured will be used to pay off debts that were made in past years to build roads and make other improvements in the county.

These bonds were offered for sale at May but the highest price bid at that time was 95¢ and the sale was held off. By the waiting till now the commissioners saved the county approximately $25,000.

Congressman R. L. Doughton and a chief counsel, ex-Governor Blackett, are here this week preparing their plea in connection with the Campaign Doughton election contest case. They will finish and present the brief this week.

CORNS
 Lift Off with Fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little Vaseline on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then short you lift it right off with fingers. Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of Vaseline for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.
