Local Report. Senator Hill occupies the seat formally filled by Senator Hampton of South Carolina.

Wales seems to be teeming with revolvers. A Judge in Glamorgan-shire said in a summing up that people in his district seem to go about with revolvers as if they were walking sticks or umbrellas.

Rev. Pausus Ferendinus has arrived in New York to assume the pastorate of the Athenian Society, which has a membership of about 1,000 members.

William C. Murphy, of Philadelphia, claims to be the oldest survivor of Gen. Sam Houston's army in the war for the independence of Texas.

The house in Los Angeles that California women bought as a present for Mrs. Jesse Benton Fremont is practically paid for.

The great collection of postage stamps gathered by the late Mr. Tapping, and bequeathed to the British Museum, contains more than 200,000 specimens.

The will of the late Dr. Buckminster Brown of Boston, bequeaths $20,000 to Harvard to found a professorship of orthopedic surgery.

Yellow fever has broken out at Kingston, Jamaica. Two men were lost in the wreck of the Georgiana, off the coast of Maine.

For the Chickamauga National Park $500 acres have already been purchased. Oscar Olson, a telegraph messenger, was beaten to death by footpads in Omaha.

Borlos, the student who fired at the House of Commons, has been pronounced insane. The Minnesota Alliance endorsed the sub-treasury scheme and the People's party.

A man at Columbus, Ohio, thinks that is the long-lost Charley Ross, of Philadelphia. Scotland Yard detectives think they have unearthed an anarchist plot, with wide ramifications.

John Anderson, of St. Louis, who deserted his wife at Cleveland, Ohio, is claimed by seven other wives. A freight train struck a street car at a crossing in Chicago, but none of the passengers was seriously injured.

Dr. J. H. M. Barrett, who with his wife was so terribly assaulted at their home near Griffin, Ga., died yesterday. J. H. Meek, chancery court clerk of Danbridge, Tenn., has disappeared. He is charged with being $25,000 short.

Until July 1, 1892, Canadian trade with Cuba and Porto Rico will stand on the same basis as that of the United States. It is announced that France will send two commissioners to the United States in order to study the petroleum question.

Byron McSweeney, chief engineer of the steamship Mascotte, was killed by shock from the electric plant on the vessel. Advice from Teheran state that the tobacco monopoly has been completely abrogated.

Jewish synagogues are built so as to face toward Jerusalem, and the proposition to build one facing in another direction has stirred up the Hebrew Journal of New York, which says: "It would not be well for the Israel of today to recognize, in symbol to form even, the turning of the back upon Palestine."

Having been unable to select a reading clerk for the House, the Washington Post, Clerk Kerr yesterday began the experiment of giving the aspirants a probationary test in the House.

Senator Hill occupies the seat formally filled by Senator Hampton of South Carolina, in the last row on the Democratic side of the chamber.

There were three sessions held yesterday, two during the day in the Atlantic Building, and the third at night in Dr. Macune's office.

Representative Livingstone, who was not averse to talking in general way, was asked as to the report that the chief purpose of the conference of the Alliance State presidents here at this time is to decide whether the Alliance as an organization shall put out a Presidential ticket this year.

"There is no word of truth in it," he replied with emphasis. "It is not their providence to discuss politics and Presidential possibilities. The State presidents are here solely for the purpose of discussing and comparing notes of how the order is getting along and what is best to enhance its usefulness and strength."

They have the internal affairs of the order to engage them, and have nothing to do with politics. I was only at their meeting for a brief time this afternoon, and got in time only to hear a brief discussion on the currency question.

Neither will this conference have any measures to present to Congress. They have prepared a memorial, a simple petition, the right of every citizen, which will be submitted to Congress, and that is all. We have no separate bills, and are asking for no special legislation.

So far as the currency is concerned the Alliance is a unit for the free coinage of silver, and for a reduction of taxation.

It is stated that a young man of Forsyth went to Davidson county a few days ago and purchased a marriage license to wed one of Davidson's fair daughters.

The papers were all O. K. and the day arrived for the nuptials. Everything necessary was put in readiness, and a large crowd of invited guests gathered to witness the ceremony.

The hand-some groom and blushing bride took their stand on the floor and the parson began the ceremony without interruption until he uttered the words for the couple to join hands.

At this juncture the girl's countenance changed and she astonished everybody in the room and refusing to give any explanation as to her conduct. The young man was astounded and all efforts to persuade the young lady to change her mind and marry him have proved futile.

He has returned the license to the register of deeds with this pathetic note: "Owing to the scarcity of money and the poor prospects for crops next year I have decided not to be transported to the realms of conjugal bliss just yet."

Happy Posters. Wm. Timmons, Postmaster of Lenoir, Ind., writes: "Electric Bitters has done more for me than all other medicines combined, for I had been feeling arising from kidney and liver trouble."

John Leifer, farmer and stock man, of same place, says: "Electric Bitters is the best kidney and liver medicine, made me feel like a new man."

A secret Conference of the Presidents of the Farmers' Alliance. Washington Post: The chief motifs of the Farmers' Alliance are having quite a series of conference, but all on the dead quiet.

No news prowl is admitted behind the closed doors that shut in the agricultural prophets from the gaze and out of the hearing of ordinary mortals. The national executive council of five, who in fact control the affairs of the order, have had their innings this week, and yesterday the national conference of State presidents set in and will last through today and probably longer.

This presidential association has nothing whatever to do with the government of the order in a national sense, but comes together as a sort of experience meeting to tell the national officers how things are getting along in their respective ball-wickets.

President Polk-president, and J. E. Gwynne, of the legislative committee, is secretary. Those present are: L. M. Adams, Alabama; Paul T. Davidson, Arkansas; Marion Cannon, California; R. J. Tenny, Colorado; J. G. Dozier, Mississippi; I. Leonard, Missouri; G. S. Wilson, Michigan; E. D. Shortridge, North Dakota; H. L. Loncka, South Dakota; Marion Butler, North Carolina; T. T. Gardner, Kentucky; E. T. Dobbie, New York; J. M. Cox, New Mexico; A. K. Murphy, Ohio; H. B. Atkinson, New Jersey; A. D. Hitchcock, Oklahoma; Nathan Pierce, Oregon; S. A. Houston, West Virginia; Evan Jones Texas, and Mann Page Virginia.
