Lowest Notch in the History of Cotton.

The farmers have very good cause to be sick of cotton. Yesterday's New York Sun says: The cotton speculation yesterday ran up to 214,000 bales, the largest in a long time. The early figures for March, the favorite speculative option were fully 1/2 a pound below the closing figures of Wednesday. There were proportionate declines in the other options. At the close there was a partial recovery and possibly a steadier tone. The decline for forty-eight hours amounted to $1 25 a bale.

Cotton has dropped to the lowest prices in its history. For months, it is said, current prices have been below the cost of production. The crop estimates have been pushed up to between 8,000,000 and 8,500,000 bales, the largest on record. The receipts at Southern seaboard cities have been unusually heavy for a long time. The speculation at the South has been extensive and, to some extent, wreckless, and many of the speculators have left their brokers to bear the losses. The banks have found it necessary to call in their loans. The total decline for a week is $2.50 a bale. The lower figures, though, have stimulated larger export orders.

The Weather.

Following is a synopsis of the weather prevailing at 8 a. m., to-day. The relative positions of the high and low areas remain nearly the same as yesterday morning; each has however, moved slightly eastwardly. The cold wave over the southern portion of the country is slowly yielding to milder weather temperatures having risen over that section 5 to 20 degrees during the past 24 hours. From the middle to the northern limits, though, the cold has intensified 5 to 20 degrees and snow is falling at many points. The cold area will move southeastwardly and will produce colder weather over this section by Sunday night.

To Provide for the Graded School.

The city authorities are now looking out for the best plan of providing the necessary funds to keep the city graded schools running for the remainder of the session, and a meeting of the city finance committee will be held Monday. The funds must come from some source, as the closing of the graded schools would be such a blow as Charlotte has not yet had.

Lehman Bros Cotton Letter.

New York, Jan. 9.—Liverpool offered considerable encouragement this morning and following the advance reported from that side, prices on the call here were from 8 to 10 points better. The improvement however was not of long duration from the same influence as has brought about the decline on so many previous days. The expectation that New Orleans would report on Monday again have large receipts, our own people wiring us that the same will be 16,000 to 17,000, while the room in general here had it that 20,000 would arrive there. Under this influence, prices began to sag and on some little aggressive selling by a few of the prominent bears, values fell to last night's closing, when good buying set in and served to stimulate the market a little. Just near the finish, prices closed exactly where they did last night.

We have gone over the ground so often that it is unnecessary to repeat our sentiments on the article. It seems as if there could be no other view than that cotton is reasonable. We may have some liquidation but in the end, we think a recovery is in prospect.

THE TARIFF PROCLAMATION.

President Harrison Gives Notice that it Will be Issued on March 15.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—In view of the provision in the reciprocity section of the Tariff law of Oct. 1, 1890, making it the duty of the President after Jan. 1, 1892, to suspend by proclamation the free admission of sugars, molasses, coffee, tea, and hides against such countries producing these articles as after that date, maintain tariff duties upon any agricultural and other products which he may deem unequal and unreasonable, the President submitted to the Attorney-General the question whether law authorized him to issue a proclamation fixing a future day when the duties imposed by virtue of the proclamation would take effect. The Attorney-General has given an opinion that the duties must attach and be collected on and after the date of the proclamation, and that a future day cannot be named by the President.

Owing to this decision, and to the fact that justice to importers of the articles named in section 3 of the Tariff law requires that a reasonable notice should be given of the President's intended action, Secretary Blaine to-day sent notes to the diplomatic representatives of Austria-Hungary, Columbia, Hayti, Nicaragua, Honduras, Spain, Philippine Islands, and Venezuela, informing them that on the 15th of March next the President would issue his proclamation unless in the mean time some satisfactory reciprocity arrangement should be made with the countries named, declaring that, in view of the free admission of the articles named in section 3 of the tariff, the products of those countries, he deemed their tariffs on agricultural and other products of the United States to be unequal and unreasonable, and that, as against the countries named, he would issue his proclamation on March 15 next, suspending the provisions of the Tariff law relating to the free introduction into the United States of sugars, molasses, coffee, tea, and hides exported from such countries, and on and after that date the duties fixed in section 3 would be imposed. The notice to Spain, however, only applies to the Philippine Islands. Negotiations with France and some other countries have reached such a stage as, in the opinion of the President, to warrant the Secretary of State in withholding notice to them of a proclamation affecting their products.
